(By Times Special Wire).

New York, April 11.—A London cable to the Tribune says:

The British naval authorities are at the moment confronted with a position made peculiarly difficult by an unprincipled system of espionage on the part of Germany," which is being engineered just now with great activity. The system embraces an effort to take advantage of the known difficulties under which many British officers labor, on account of the smallness of their pay, by procuring under the guise of commercial inquiries such information of the financial status of individual naval officers as will guide German agents to the means of ing temptations in their way.

Quite recently the British naval thorities received information tha firm of London private detecti which has conducted English Gove ment inquiries at times, had b been intrusted by an ostensible G man commercial inquirer with a m sion of the kind mentioned, and, I for the fact that suspicions we aroused, the information requeste might have been innocently supplie

JUDGE SNIDER HAD NOT EVEN READ BY-LAW

So East End Ministers Say.

Was His Honor's Own Admission.

Emphatic in their stand that His Honor Judge Snider and Mayor Allan have acted inconsistently in connection with their statement that they [illegible] to secure public opinion r [illegible] Barton street [illegible] and Rev. [illegible] have been principals in the against the license being and for its revocation, had details of the situation to give ay. They explained that one confreres has been called d that the sworn statement was to have been prepared on y would be ready by Mon the latest, when active steps e taken to carry the whole af higher authorities.

Mr. Williman explained to the that they had waited on the and the latter had said that those opposed had had time in which to prepare a petition ,and as there appeared to be no opposition but the letter suggested by Judge Snider, he favored the license being given. Mr. Williman pointed out that the commissioners in closing their meeting to deal with the affair the second time plainly showed that public opinion did not enter into the affair. The mass meeting called in the east end did not have the presence of the Mayor and Judge Snider, although invited. "And still the Mayor wants public opinion," observed Mr. Williman.

Alluding to Judge Snider's statement that an investigation had been made by the chief of police into the reputation of the poolroom interests, the ministerial deputation from the east end produced a letter from the chief of police to D. H. Williamson, of the Community Council, in which the head of the department emphasized that he did not have any legal authority to enter a poolroom or make an inspection of such. In view of this, those opposed to the license cannot understand how the places can be known and regulated by the ce. Mr. Williman also stated to-day that on appearing before Judge Snider earl in the agitation the latter had expressly stated that he had not read the by-law of the old property committee covering poolroom licenses and really did not know just what it contained.

The east end clergymen are determined to see the present fight through.

Alex. S. Dickson Will Carry Case Higher.

Mr. Alex. S. Dickson has instructed his solicitor, Montalieu Nesbitt, to enter an appeal in the division court action of Dickson vs. Baird, which was tried by acting judge George S. Kerr, K.C., who found in favor of the defendant. It was an action for $100 commission on the sale of property which was not completed, because the owner could not give a clear title. Mr. Dickson's claim is that he did his part of the work as per contract and it was no fault of his that the title was not made.

WEST HAS A GOOD START

(By Times Special Wire.)

Saskatoon, Sask., April 11.—Hon. W. C. Sutherland, one of the best known farmers in the province, began to-day harrowing on his large farm here, and expects to seed 650 acres, to wheat, about April 15. He expressed himself as entirely satisfied with the condition of the seed bed, saying the cold weather of the past two weeks had caused the moisture to sink well into the ground, and that in consequence the loss of moisture by the surplus water drying up or running away was at a minimum this spring. "A good start is very important in the west," he said, "and this year we have one of the best."

LAD'S SAD DEATH

Ran Out After a Big Auto Truck

And Got In Way of a Delivery Wagon

Running out with a number of other children to chase a large auto truck, owned by the Steel Company, Robert Hendle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendle, 25 Minto avenue, was knocked down by a delivery wagon owned by the Union grocery store, and driven by Albert Fenton, 243 Gibson avenue, on Thursday at noon, sustaining injuries which caused his death at the City Hospital about five hours later. The accident happened near the corner of Barton and Fullerton avenue. The auto truck was proceeding in front of the grocery wagon, and running to the road, the little lad was knocked down by the horse attached to the delivery wagon. Before the driver could stop the wheels of the wagon passed over the boy's chest. He was rendered unconscious and rushed to the hospital in an automobile owned by Frederick Meehan, 48 William street. Fenton accompanied Meehan to the hospital, and upon learning that Hendle had been seriously injured, he notified the police. An inquest will be held at the east end police station on Wednesday morning.

According to witnesses of the accident, Fenton was in no way to blame. He was not travelling fast at the time and did all in his power to avert it. For some time the owners and drivers of motor vehicles have been complaining about children playing in the roads, and thereby endangering themselves, but this is the first accident of the nature in some time.

FALSE ALARM

Ulsterites Were Merely of the Football Variety.

With flags flying, drums beating and fifes gaily tooting, a body of men paraded the main streets of the city yesterday, the object of all eyes, as on each coat was pinned a badge, which blazoned forth that much-talked-of name, "Ulster." Quickly the word went around that war had been declared, and that Hamilton sons of Erin were marching to the station, to leave for the seat of activity. Men crowded around to see if a friend could be recognized, but these, disappointed, turned away, for the marching 'soldiers" were nothing more or less than the "Ulsterite Football Club," of Toronto, who played soccer with the Westinghouse in the afternoon.

RAILWAY BOARD

Will Take Up Hamilton Cases Here on 23rd.

City Solicitor Waddell was notified this morning that the Dominion Railway Board would sit in Hamilton, in the City Council chamber, on April 23 to deal with a number of important Hamilton matters. The application of the Hamilton Radial Electric Railway to have the blame fixed on either the city or the C. P. R. in regard to the flooding of their tracks at the Sherman avenue inlet will be heard. The city claims that the C. P. R. must be held responsible, and the railroad cheerfully lays responsibility to the municipality.

Another application that will be heard will be in regard to the subway at Kenilworth avenue. It is desired that a thoroughfare go under the G. T. R. tracks at that juncture.

The application of the Gillies-Guy Coal Company for permission to erect an overhead switch at the head of Victoria avenue will also be listed, as well as a number of other applications.

—A silver medal contest, under the auspices of Central W.C.T.U. will be held in Centenary Lecture hall next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Good programme, admission 10 cents.

T. F. BEST RETIRING FROM LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

New Secretary After September 1st.

Will See the Exposition Through.

At the egular monthly business meeting of the Y.M.C.A. some items of more than ordinary interest were discussed and the attendance was large. Mr. Geo. H. Lees presided. Seated around the table with him were Geo. Rutherford, W. J. Aitchison Norman Slater, F. W. Watkins, J. W. Walker, F. R. Smith, Henry Banwell, Benson Johnston, J. B. Hanna, B. O Hooper, F. Claringbowl, J. B. Griffith, H. S. Moore and Secretary Best.

Reports from the different committees were full of interest in regard to the work accomplished and plans for the future. The startling feature, however, was the report of the Executive Committee who had been dealing quietly for some time with the resignation of the General Secretary, who had expressed a desire to withdraw from the leadership of the local Association. Owing to the financial condition of the Association and the year closing May 1st, and further, in consideration of the Industrial exposition planned for July the executive committee reported that they had been able to persuade Mr. Best to remain and assist particularly with the financial work until the close of the exposition, when it is anticipated that the Association will be put on a good financial basis. The re-organization of the staff and the forming of a new policy for the Association, which has been under discussion for some time will be carried out. In reply to remarks of some members of the board regretting the resignation of the secretary and suggesting future re-engagement, Mr. Best replied that in his judgment it was in the interests of the local association that a new leader be secured, and as some of the strongest men in the Canadian work were available, he considered the time opportune for the change. He stated that he would do his very best to reduce the present overdraft and leave the Association in a healthy condition financially and that he was glad to be able to retire with the confidence and good-will of the entire board of directors and with the kindest personal feelings toward every member of the board and staff.

The physical department committee reported a splendid season's work still in progress and an entertainment known as a Y.M.C.A. circus planned for the 17th and 18th inst.

The boys' department report included plans for the summer camp for the boys and outdoor leagues in baseball, football, etc., also arrangements for the closing of a splendid season in bible study.

The membership committee had a good report from H. H. Fleming, showing the membership on the whole to be holding its own, notwithstanding a lot of young men being out of employment. The senior department membership particularly is steadily forging ahead.

The social and reception committee reported arrangements in hand for the closing banquet on the last day of the month.

DULY OBSERVED

Holiday Celebrated in More Ways Than One.

On Good Friday, the day that brings to the mind of many the world's greatest tragedy, enacted nearly 2,000 years ago in Jerusalem, a large number of citizens spent the day in prayerful attention in the churches. The Anglican and Catholic churches in the city were well attended at all the services which were held during the day. The theatres and places of amusement in the city were also well attended, as were the hotels. Many of the citizens who were out yesterday afternoon and evening could not help but notice their less serious brethren, who had taken advantage of the holiday to celebrate in a manner not in keeping with the dignity of the occasion. Many people employed in places of business that did not keep open visited friends or went out of town for the week-end.

Many spring styles were also noticed on the streets of Hamilton, and the feminine population owing to the bright day, managed to exhibit the latest Paris fashions along the main streets. The terrific wind that arose about noon brought to the minds of many the condition of the weather last Good Friday, when a number of signs and chimneys were blown down and a large number of hats bit the dust. Luckily, however, the wind abated, and the day on the whole was very fair.

BRYERS' DENIAL

The Division Court Officer Makes Statement.

Some time ago Mrs. Shawcross bought some furniture from the Goldberg Furniture Company, giving to the firm three leans. No money was paid, the leans being held. After a time bailiffs were placed in Shawcross' house and the furniture was taken out, for which she promptly brought action in the ninth division court. James Bryers, bailiff in the first division court, interested himself in the action, and on the behalf of the plaintiff, Stephens & McKenna were retained. W. Morrison is acting for the Goldberg people, and it is now alleged that Bryers took the leans. Mr. Bryers when spoken to about this, stated that such was not the case, that the leans were left in his office. He told a pathetic story of the way the women was left in her home without a stick of furniture, even the stove being seized.

Robbed of Her Name

"Your master is not down yet, Fenn," said Iris. "Signor Ricardo, will you have a horse or a carriage today?"

An ardent burning desire seized on Ricardo to say "Yes!" and to ride or drive away from the place for the next twenty-four hours, but he suppressed it.

"Thanks, my dear young lady; but I will wait until—until by good friend, your father, comes down. He may have some plans for me."

Fenn bowed and withdrek, and the breakfast proceeded. Iris sat with a sad look in her eyes, a vague sense of ill and misfortune oppressing her.

"I—I think I will go up and see if my father is awake," she murmured, more to herself than the signor; but he heard her, and rose with a suddenness that seemed unasked for.

"For Heaven's sake!" he exclaimed —"I mean, would it be well to wake him?" he broke off suddenly. "There is nothing like a good sleep for the weariness my frend is suffering from."

"But it is getting late!" said Iris, still more to herself than to him. "I —I think I will go up to him."

"Pardon," said the signor, softly, laying his hand upon her arm. "Allow me to go."

"But why should you go?" said Iris, opening her eyes.

"I—I—" stammered the signor. "Oh, it was merely to save you the trouble of ascending the stairs, my dear young lady."

Iris smiled half sadly.

"That is not much trouble," she said, absently. "But I think, after all, I will not go—yet."

"Quite right—quite right!" said the signor, approvingly, and furtively wiping his forehead; "it is not wise to break a man's sleep when he has reached the age of my dear friend, your father."

"But my father is not old!" said Iris, half amused, half annoyed by the signor's solicitude. "He is only middle-aged, Signor Ricardo."

"True true," he admitted; "but still——"

He stopped abruptly, for the door opened and Felice entered.

She did not even glance at the signor who started and turned away as she entered, but walked straight up to Iris.

"Will the signorina come to her room with me?" she said.

Iris looked at her with faint surprise.

"Come upstairs? Why, Felice?" she asked.

"I have something to say to the signorina," said the woman.

Her face was very pale, and her eyes so completely covered by their lids that nothing of the pupil could be seen. Her manner, too, was marked by a deep, set constraint, which made her voice utterly expressionless and mechanical.

"Is anything the matter," said Iris, her hand going to her heart.

"No, no!" said Felice quickly, but still in the same dull, mechanical manner. "Come with me, miss."

"I—I am sure something is the matter!" said Iris. "Of course I will come with you."

As she moved to the door Felice drew back to let her pass, and then gane one direct, threatening and searching glance at the signor.

He met her eyes with a stolid stare, then shrugged his shoulders and turned to the window.

Five, ten minutes passed, then there came the sound of hurrying feet and voices speaking in sharp accents of alarm and terror. The signor, standing alone by the window, shook like a leaf.

"Peste!" he hissed between his teeth. "They have found him!"

The next instant Lafont, the valet, burst into the room.

"For Heaven's sake, signor!" he exclaimed, "came at once! at once!—my master——" he stopped, panting and pointed to the ceiling.

The signor struck an attitude of astonishment.

"What do you say?" he said. "What has happened?—your master——"

"Heaven help us!" said the terrified man. "My master, Mr. Knighton, is dead, sir!"

Signor Ricardo had been waiting for it all the morning, but when the word was uttered it struck him almost as if he had not known it already.

"Dead!" he said, and the terror that shone in his white face and staring eyes might well have been mistaken by the servant for surprise. "Dead!"

"Yes, sir. For Heaven's sake, come upstairs! I—I was the first to find him! I—I went into call him, not liking that he should lie so long. He was always up so early signor, and—and not hearing him, I—I went in. The door was always unlocked, sir, and—and I saw him on the bed as he lies now—dead, stone dead! my poor master!" and the tears sprang into his eyes.

The signor grasped him by the arm.

"You—you say you found him," he hissed; "he—he was lying quiet and —and peaceful, as if he slept?"

"As if he slept!" echoed the man; "yon can come and see him now, signor!—I did not touch him! I saw at once that it was all over."

"Where is the doctor?" demanded Ricardo.

"I have sent for him, sir," said the man; "I sent for him as I came down stairs. Oh, my poor master! my poor young mistress!"

"Your young mistress! Ah, yes!" murmured the signor, "she is indeed your young mistress now! All this is hers—hers now of a surety!"

The man looked at him, half-amazed and half-indignant.

"Who thinks of such things now?" he said. "Poor, dear young lady It will kill her. Come upstairs, sir!"

Reluctantly, and with a very white face, the signor followed Lefant upstairs, and the two entered the still chamber.

There lay Godfrey Knighton, of the Revels, last night lord of the manor of Beverley, now lord only of six feet of mother earth!

Kneeling by the bed, with her cheek lying on the cold hand, was Iris, her eyes fixed with a dazed horror on the white, still face; beside her, her hand resting on the girl's head in an attitude of loving protection and devotion, stood Felice. All about the house there rose a dull, hushed murmur and stir, but in that chamber peace reigned triumphant.

The signor advanced on tiptoe, his eyes carefully avoiding the dead man's face; but Felice heard the step, and, raising her hand, stopped him with a gesture and pointed to the door.

The signor hesitated not a second, but pressing his hands to his eyes, as if overwhelmed with grief, stole out, and the door closed upon the dead man, his daughter, and the woman watching over her.

But as he went down the stairs there rose a wild, heartrending cry, and the words, "Father! Father!"

CHAPTER X.

Iris was an orphan! Godfrey Knighton's death created a painfully profound sensation. His neighbors and those few who had been intimate with him had always regarded his as a particularly strong and robust man; he had never had a day's illness, had never complained even of those slight ailments which affect the generality of us.

That he should be found dead in his bed, without a note of warning, amazed and horrified the county.

There was a whisper as to the necessity of an inquest, but the doctor who attended the Revels put in a word that dispensed with any formal inquiry. He said he had known Mr. Knighton's heart was not strong, and the squire had been aware of it himself, but carefully kept it from the knowledge of Iris.

"The poor squire had taken more wine than usual the preceding night, as I gather from his friend, the Signor Ricardo, and that dangerously accelerated the heart's action; the counteraction following, in my opinion, resulted in death."

The great London physician who was brought down—as if he could restore the death to life!—confirmed the opinion of the local doctor, and the authorities were satisfied.

There had always been a tinge of mystery about him, people said, and his sudden and strange death was left to be in accordance, somehow, with his life.

For Iris the deepest sympathy was felt.

With the exception of the Coverdales, the branch of the family with which the Knighton's were at deadly feud, she had no relations in the world, and was utterly and completely alone! Women whose hearts ached for the bereaved girl came to the Revels to endeavor to console her, but they could not see her.

Felice, the pale woman with dark eyes hidden by their long lashes, met all inquiries with one response:

"My mistress is ill. She has not been out of her room since my master's death. She can see no one."

For days, indeed, Iris was, perhaps, happily conscious of the blow which Fate had dealt her. She lay, like the Israelitish king, her face turned to the wall, refusing comfort. She shed no tear, but at intervals broke from her lips the one word, "Father!"

Of all who had endeavored to befriend and console her, none was more untiring and devoted than Lord Montacute. Every day he came to the house and saw Felice; and the pale, anxious face grew more anxious and miserable at the invariable formula, "My mistress is too ill to see any one. She thanks you, but wishes to be left alone. She cannot see you."

On the morning of the discovery of the death, Signor Ricardo had left the Revels and gone to the "Knighton Arms,' but he rendered every assistance to Clarence Montacute, who, as the dead man's nearest friend, undertook the arrangement of the funeral.

Clarence was too overwhelmed by grief for Iris' loss, and anxiety about her, to pay much attention to the signor, but he felt a strange repugnance toward him which Iris had experienced on his arrival at the Revels; but the signor was so quiet, and stole about the place in his deep mourning so noiselessly and unobtrusively, that Lord Montacute could find no cause for complaint, much less quarrel with him.

The day of the funeral came and passed It was a quiet ceremony; that is, as quiet as such a ceremony can be, when the mourners, comprise the population of a whole village, and all the principal people of a county; and when it was over, Lord Montacute and Mr. Barrington sat in the library, gravely discussing the future of the beautiful, sorrow-stricken girl shut up in her room, with her first great grief.

"She is so utterly and completely alone," said Clarence, gazing sorrowfully out of the window. "My mother would so gladly have her with her, but —but—she will not come!"

His eyes were moist as he spoke, and the view from the window grew blurred and indistinct.

Mr Barrington nodded gravely.

"It is very kind of Lady Montacuta," he said; "it would be an excellent arrangement; there could be no better, unless Miss Knighton could go farther away, right away to a thorough change of scene."

Clarence sighed heavily.

"My mother would take every care of her," he said. "She could take her away. It is dreadful to me, the thought of her lying upstairs there, with no one near her but Felice.'

"She seems a most devoted woman," said Mr. Barrington. "She accompanied her and her father from Italy."

He paused.

"I ought to thank you, my lord, for all you have done. I am sure Miss Knighton will not be wanting in gratitude when she is in a condition to realize how true a friend you have proved yourself."

Poor Clarence stammered.

"I have done little or nothing," he said. "I would lay down my life to spare her a moment's pain; I suppose everybody knows that."

AUTO OWNERS KICK

Over Burden the Good Roads Scheme Will Mean.

Secretary McPhie in Receipt of Many Letters.

The Ontario Government purpose raising $30,000,000 for good roads in the Province, and while none object to the idea of good roads, the manner in which they propose to raise the greater portion of this amount is causing a great flutter among the motoring community. The reason for this is that the Government intend to tax still further the automobile owners, who will have to pay about $12,000,000 of the amount to be raised, if the bill as it stands at present is passed. It is pointed out that other vehicles, which are not to be taxed at all, play far more havoc with the roads than do the autos, and it will mean that, if as is proposed, the taxation is levied on the basis of horsepower, the small, low-geared car will be the only one which will have a sale. The following letter, among others, was received by the secretary of the local automobile club, H. McPhie:

I am glad to see by the papers that considerable feeling has been aroused among our members by the Government's proposal regarding a greatly increased import on motor cars. It is, I suppose, useless to argue the main question concerning which the promoters of the tax have evidently made up their minds, viz., that motors ruin the roads, therefore motorists must be made to pay for good roads, and that all other vehicles are to have free use of them, and so on. But we can at least urge very strongly that the parallels drawn between our conditions here and those in the United States and England are false and misleading. In the States cars are, from start to finish, entirely home-made, so to speak. Consequently they can be bought for reasonable sums. In this country, on the contrary, practically every car driven is imported, mostly in complete form, sometimes in the shape of parts assembled here. The result is a huge difference between the cost of the car on this side of the line and in the United States. We are already paying to the public chest a very high tax. So much for protection and duty. And so also in the matter of the Britich comparison. England is a free trade country. Its revenue is raised by direct taxation and numerous articles are taxed, including all vehicles, I believe, at any rate very many besides motor cars. The comparison therefore between England and Canada is also unfair. The tax the car pays for license in Britain is the only tax it pays. And as to the roads, how many motorists use them? The average man regards a car as a rich man's toy. It is high time fancy ideas about cars were exploded and motors and motorists treated on business principles. Many so-called pleasure car is strictly a business article. How many times does a city doctor use the country roads? And it must also be remembered that even if the roads were in good condition Canadian weather conditions make their use well nigh impracticable for motors during a great part of the year. Even for city use many car owners retire their machines from service during the winter. In this respect also the parallel breaks down between this country and England."

The letter goes on to complain about the brake test being applied as the basis of computing horse power. This letter fairly expresses the views of most automobile owners in the city.

ALASKA WOMEN POLITICIANS.

Seattle, Wash., April 10.—Women voted in Alaska for the first time at this week's elections. They were especially active in Skagway, according to reports received here. The women voters hired vehicles to bring the men to the polls, set out a luncheon for them, provided cigars, and explained the ballot to their less enlightened brothers. They supported the non-partisan ticket, and it was elected against the taxpayers' party, which had been for six years in power.

FATHER'S SACRIFICE VAIN.

By Times Special Cable)

Paris, April 11—The eight-year-old son of a chauffeur was knocked down and seriously injured by an automobile last evening. Seemingly the only chance to save his life was by the transfusion of blood, and the boy's father at once offered himself for that purpose. A large quantity of blood was transfused, but in vain; the boy died, and the father is in a critical condition.

Dirty wives make drunken husbands. Love and red noses can't be hid. Deliver a tirade against wasting time, and the average man will knock off what he is doing and listen.

ROYAL TEMPLARS.

Sovereign Council, Royal Templars of Temperance, held a social evening last night in their hall, corner of King and Catharine streets. Two sister councils were invited and a very pleasant evening was spent. Addresses were given by Controller Morris, District Councillor Ben Johnson, Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Schou. Mr. Thomas sang very acceptably, and Mrs. Schou gave two recitations. After the programme a delightful hour was spent socially, while the reception committee served refreshments. It was announced that an oratorical contest will be held next Friday.

RED MILL.

For next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the patrons of the Mill will have the pleasure of seeing Charles Hawtrey and his company of all stars in that wonderful production, "A Message From Mars." *Mr. Hawtrey played here about ten years ago in the same production at the Grand Opera House, and people who saw him will welcome him back in a cineatograph version of the same show. The picture was produced by the United Kingdom Film Co., London, England, and shopped direct to the Mill for first run in Canada. It is shown in four parts. Watch this paper for dates for the great serial drama, "Lucille Love, the Girl of Mystery." She will appear the last half of each week for fifteen weeks. You will talk about Lucille when she arrives.

GOOD TEMPLARS.

It is doubtful if a jollier crowd could have been found in Hamilton than that which met in the C.O.C.F. hall last evening, on the occasion of a fraternal visit from Pride of Dundas Lodge and Unity Lodge to International. Bert Sewell, C. T. of International Lodge, welcomed the visitors in a few well chosen words, to which Geo. Austin, C. T. of Pride of Dundas Lodge, replied in a very happy manner. The pleasure of the evening was enhanced by a visit from J. T. Dyson, G. C. T., of Toronto, who gave a bright breezy address. A capital programme was presented by the visiting members on which the following took part: Mrs. Stuart, Misses Kennaugh, Standen and Stuart, and Messrs. T. Mabb, G. Kennaugh, Oliver, Colborne, Cooley, Guthrie and G. Austin. During the evening three candidates were initiated and two propositions for membership were received. Next Friday evening the programme will be in the hands of Miss Emily Colulle.

EASTERTIDE.

Easter commemorates the resurrection, the coming to life again, of our Lord and Master at the very time that Nature is awakening from its long winter sleep. For months the earth has lain dormant, trees bare and leafless, grass withered, flowers dead, streams silent and fast in an icy embrace, when, as if by magic, Mother Earth awakens, life pulsates through her veins, grass sprouts and grows and covers the landscape with a mantle of green in place of the white mantle of snow; the birds sing, and all nature rejoices in a new life. In the spiritual world the anniversary of a greater miracle is being honored and observed. Christ the Lord died that we might live and rose again so that we might have life eternal. His birth was the beginning, His resurrection the end of His sacrificial atonement for mankind. The Christian Church has emphasized these two events as worthy of special commemoration. While Christmas is hailed with delight and all Christendom rejoices at the birth of the Saviour, Easter, or rather Lent, the period preceding Easter, is tinged with sadness and mourning. The Lord is paying the penalty that should have been ours, and the thoughts of men are turned to the more serious things of life.

When we come to think that life is short even when it is longest, we may well wonder that the things of this world occupy so much of our thoughts. We are so intent on business or pleasure, on our own domestic affairs and on the interests all around us that other thoughts are crowded out. We will discuss for hours the Irish question, Geo. Lynch-Staunton's N. T. R. report, the Mayor's squabble with Ald. Robson, or the prospects of the baseball teams, while weightier matters will be glanced at perhaps on a Sunday. Yet the birth and resurrection of Christ were the greatest and most momentous events that ever happened to mankind.

The Church, from time immemorial, has recognized this, knowing that in the absence of these two facts or events, the whole Christian dogma would fall to the ground, and the human race would be face to face with a problem that would be unsolvable. Some of the Churches, notably the Presbyterian and Methodist, in the early days took little notice of Easter. Possibly this may have been the result of uncertainty as to the real date of the resurrection. The proper time for the celebration of Easter has caused no little controversy. In the second century a dispute arose on this point between the Eastern and Western Churches. The controversy as to the celebration of Easter in England was settled by the adoption of the Roman usage at the Council of Whitby in 664.

Easter never occurs before March 22 or after April 25. In 1761 and 1818 it fell on March 22; but neither in this nor the following century will such be the case again. In 1913 it fell on March 23, as it did in 1845 and 1856. The latest Easters in the nineteenth and twentieth century occur in 1886 and 1843 on April 25. In 1848 Easter fell on April 23, and in 1859 on April 24.

Easter falls on the following dates during the next twelve years: 1914, April 12; 1915, April 4; 1916, April 23; 1917, April 8; 1918, March 31; 1919, April 20; 1920, April 4; 1921, March 27; 1922, April 16; 1923, April 1; 1924, April 20; 1925, April 12.

AN HONORED CITIZEN.

We must bury our aged. Strong men may be cut down; old men must, but whenever a good citizen goes to his well-earned reward it is a time for mourning, a time to call up his achievements as an inspiration to those who must carry on the affairs of the day. David B. Galbreaith, full of years, and bearing on his shoulders a mantle of honors of former days, has quietly passed away from this busy world, whose activities he had long since dropped after having spent many years in the thick of them. Born just east of the city on Feb. 18th, 1819, Mr. Galbreaith had reached within five milestones of the century mark. In his younger days he was a man of great activity in commercial, political and social life, and the Hamilton of to-day enjoys the fruits of his activity. Mr. Galbreaith served his city as an alderman about the middle of the past century, representing old St. Patrick's Ward, the south eastern part of the city, in the City Council, but it was his work as a Waterworks Commissioner for which he was best known. When Hamilton, just turning into a small city, back in the 50's, began to feel the necessity of an adequate supply of pure water, Mr. Galbreaith was one of the five men selected as the first board of commissioners to which was assigned the important task of working out and putting into operation a system that would provide for all time to come. How well he and his confreres did their work, time has demonstrated. Mr. Galbreaith's associates were Adam Brown, our present Postmaster, who was his junior by seven years; Mr. Charles Magill, afterwards member of Parliament and Mayor many times; Mr. Peter Balfour, afterwards assessment commissioner, and Mr. M. W. Browne, afterwards head of the old Hamilton & North Western Railway. In many other ways Mr. Galbreaith was of great service to his city. He was a keen business man and took an active part in the laying out and beautification of the city as well as in its trade. He was a staunch Liberal and a fine type of honorable Canadian citizen, and hands down to his city a name and a record of which all may be proud.

Strong men may be cut down; old men must. On the same day that Mr. Galbreaith passed away a neighbor, Mr Samuel S. Beatty also received the summons. He was in the prime of life; strong, active, vigorous, hopeful; a man also of fine parts and filling a large place in the city's activities; a director of one of its large manufacturing concerns, president of one of its leading benevolent societies, a leader in one of its chief sporting organizations and a man respected and trusted. We bow our heads to the inevitable.

LIBERAL BANQUET.

Hamilton Libeals are indeed fortunate in having the oppotunity to hear Hon. Geo. P. Graham on Tuesday evening next at the annual banquet of the club, to be held in the rooms, Sun Life Building, James street north. Hon. Mr. Graham is unquestionably one of the strongest speakers in the Dominion Parliament to-day, as well as one of the best posted. His handling of the Lynch-Staunton report in the House was a masterpiece, and his speech here will be an event of note. Dr. James McQueen, M. P. P., will be the other speaker, besides two or three local men. Liberal Club banquets are always events of the highest quality in oratory and programme, and this one will be no exception to the rule.

GOOD (?) FRIDAY.

It was the comment of many citizens who were on the uptown streets of the city yesterday that the amount of drunkenness to be seen was a disgrace to the city. Many declared that there were more intoxicated men to be seen than on any holiday for years in Hamilton. And it was Good Friday—a day sacred to all Christians as commemorating the sacrifice of the Saviour for the sins of the world. Why all this drinking? Why so much noise and roistering? Why so much unseemly conduct in public places to the mortification of those who were going to and from places where the memorial events of the day were held? The bars were wide open, of course. How many of the young men of Hamilton got their start on the downward course yesterday? To them was it a Good Friday? And if not, why not?

Advertises most when business is slackest. Such is the policy of a prominent business man. This is his logical conclusion: "The new customers that I get when times are hard, I always keep when times become good. They come to me largely from those who lose them because they fail to continue their publicity campaigns. A business depression in this country never lasts long and it is always seed-time for me. The harvest follows when prosperity returns." It is a wise man who knows his own business better than the other man does.

THE LIMIT OF MEANNESS.

(Ottawa Free Press)

Mean campaign cries have invented, but this new one "A vote for a Radical means a widow in Ulster" is the meanest of them all.

LABOR'S DEBT TO LIBERALISM.

(Brantford Expositor)

Whether in Great Britain, or in Canada, Labor owes everything to Liberalism, not only for distinctive measures for its benefit, but also for franchise legislation which has brought about manhood suffrage and placed the humble toiler on an equality with the millionaire in the matter of political control.

JUSTICE FOR THE CHINESE.

(London Free Press)

We do not want Canada to be other than a white Canada. But it is not much of a tribue that we pay to our civilization when we set about the persecution of every yellow man on the Pacific Coast because one of them committed a crime not at all peculiar to Chinamen.

RECIPROCITY THE IDEAL.

(Kingston Whig)

Hon. Mr. White reduced the duty on agricultural implements by five per cent. and said this was one-half per cent. lower than the reciprocity pact provided for. And every one on the conservative side of the house shouted with glee. So that the nearer the Government gets to the reciprocity schedules the nearer it gets to the ideal! Is that it?

FEVERED UNIONISTS.

(Chicago Tribune)

Civil war in the north of Ireland over the political liberty of all Ireland would be a crime. No faction in British politics cares to assume responsibility for precipitating the nation into it. Even a flare-up of insurrection is unnecessary. The Ulster question is susceptible of adjustment. Only one fraction is fevered. The other is cool and reasonable.

FARMER LOOKS TO LAURIER.

(London Morning Advertiers)

The agricultural manufacturers of Canada now meet the world's competition in the world's markets, and do an enormous business. It is all very well to talk protection when it is needed, but it cannot be much needed when Canadian binders, threshing machines and mowers can be sold in all parts of the world. The farmers of Canada must be putting up the difference between the home and foreign profit. He must look to laurier for relief.

GOVERNMENTS MUST BE WATCHED.

(Ottawa Free Press)

It may be constructed as quite a reflection upon our present system that the people are counselled to watch their elected representatives, but political history shows that responsible government becomes autocratic government to the same degree as public indifference or ignorance of conditions obtaines. In the knowledge that the people are wide awake and conversant with the details of new legislation lies the best agency to favorably influence beneficial law making.

MONEY IN SUGAR BEETS.

(Philadelphia Record)

Through careful selection of seed a sugar beet is now successfully raised in South Dakota which yields from one-fifth to one-fourth its weight in sugar and grows more than twenty tons to the acre, without irrigation and without artifical fertilization. This is not merely brag. It is the average product of beets from a large number of farms, the facts being established by tests made at the South Dakota State College Experimental Station and verified by experts of the Department of Agriculture. To equal in value the out turn of the beet crop the Dakota farmer would have to coax his land to yield 140 bushels of wheat to the acre.

THE COMING O FPEACE.

(Toronto Star)

The hope that international war may be ended does not rest upon millennial dreams, but upon a rational view of the real interests of nations. These interests, in the main, are not conflicting, but identical. The true function of a national organization is to give scope to the peculiar genius and capacity of a race or community. The true aim of diplomacy, in its broad sense, is co operation. The true relation of one nation to another is similar to that of one facility of a university to another. Nobody supposes that his triumph of civilization can be achieved in a day. There will be occasional throw-backs to barbarism. But barbarism is always a warning, and civilization always a growing force.

TWO OF A KIND.

(Peterboro' Examiner)

We may not at first thought, think it, but virtually the same principle is involved in the Borden government's tariff legislation and in the Home Rule problem. The fight over Home Rule is a struggle between the reactionary forces, the privileged classes and the ambition to uphold the rights of the democracy—the common people. The privileged classes of Great Britain that have waxed fat and kicked" at the expenses of the common people, are still kicking, because they see their special privileges menaced, and they make common cause that have so long held the people—the common people of Ireland—in thrall. The protest of Ulster against Home Rule is only an incident—the stage play put on by the classes of privilege who are pulling the strings that put the marionettes in motion, as they think, without being seen. The Borden government is legislating in tariff matters on lines precisely the same in principle—favoring special and powerful interests and, in the process, ignoring the welfare of the mass of the people, the democracy of Canada.

TO PROTECT HARD-SHELL CLAM.

Ottawa, April 10.—The Government has passed, under the terms of the Fisheries Act, an order-in-Council on the subject of the hard-shell clam or quahaug. The intention of the order-in-Council is to conserve the supply of these superior crustacea.

It is provided that there shall be a close season from October 1 to May 10 and from the 1st of July to the end of August. Moreover, the catching of a quahaug of less than one three-quarter inches on the outer shell is prohibited.

HOLY SERVICES

In Christ's Church Cathedral Good Friday.

The three-hour service in Christ's Church Cathedral between the hours of 12 and 3 yesterday was taken by Rev. C. R. Fitzgerald, of London, England. The address given by Mr. Fitzgerald was on the crucifixion, and the speaker referred to what the day should mean to all Christians. "This day," stated the speaker, "is the most holy in the history of our church. It is the day when the great sacrifice was made, and should be observed as such by all Christian men and women. When I think of what happened on this day it makes me want to get on my knees and pray. The church, with prayerful attention, should occupy everyone on this day." In the evening a cantata, Stainer's "Crucifixion," was given by the choir, and a large number were present at both services. The service was read in the evening by Rev. Dean Abbott. MARX SOCIALISM

Rev. W. E. Gilroy Tells Why He Disagrees.

Interesting Discussion in Swales' Hall Last Night.

In Swales' Hall last night Rev. W. E. Gilroy, of First Congregational Church, addressed a large gathering of Socialists on the subject "Where and Why I Am in Disagreement With Marxian Socialism." Mr. Gilroy said he had accepted the invitation to speak on this theme not because he wished to attack Socialism, but because he believed that there was much in Marxianism that had little to do with the socialistic ideal of the substitution of some form of co-operation in place of the present competitive organization of society. Doctrinnaire Socialists were making the same mistake that Christians had made in binding the ideal to theories that were non-essential. Personally he was a socialist in much the same sense that he was a Christian. There was much in the creeds and ecclesiasticism of current Christianity to which he could not give assent, but he believed in what he understood to be the Christian ideal, and in so far as Socialism sought to establish mutual aid he deemed it in harmony with that ideal. His criticism of Marxian Socialism dealt with its theory of value, the materialist conception of history and its appeal to class-consciousness and self-interest. Value, Mr. Gilroy said, was ultimately a question of mind and morals. He agreed with the Socialist that the masses were being exploited, but they could come to their rights only by developing a new sense of their own worth, and by enforcing that worth in the social consciousness that determines values. As long as a small value was set upon man he would be paid accordingly. Following the address there was an interesting discussion. Mr. Campbell, of Toronto, made an excellent chairman.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA

Canadian Chapter—General Meeting in Toronto.

Toronto, April 11—The Chapter-General of Canada of the Illustrious and Military Order of the Knights of Malta held the opening sessions of its annual convocation at Occident Hall, Queen street west, yesterday, with 185 Sir Knights from all parts of the Province in attendance. Grand Master M. E. Sir Knight A. G. Horwood gave an interesting address of the work of the order during the past year, relating his official acts and decisions. Grand Chancellor H. E. Curlett in his statistical report announced a gain of 200 in the membership during the past year. Grand Almoner Alex. Johnson reported the finances in excellent shape. After meeting all expenditures there was a balance on hand of $6,000 and no outstanding liabilities

Consideration of constitutional amendments and the reports of the several committee occupied the attention of the Knights nearly the whole day, and will be resumed this morning.

Grand Master Horwood presented his immediate predecessor, M. E. Sir Knight Arthur Rowley, with a Past Gand Master's jewel on behalf of the members. Brantford, Ont., was chosen as the scene of the next annual convocation.

DUNDAS MAN WAS STABBED

DR. M'QUEEN M. P. P.

Will Address Liberals on Wednesday Next.

Dundas, April 11.—Good Friday was a quiet holiday here, but despite the rather unseasonable weather nearly everybody was outdoors, and there was a good deal of baseball on the street, and the householder of the ambitious type broke the ground for the summer flower garden.

The Gun Club held a shoot at the club quarters in the park in the morning, which was enjoyed by a considerable number.

Lieut.-Col. J. J. Grafton, accompanied by his son, Capt. J. S. Grafton, arrived home to-day from an extended trip to Bermuda.

Charles Davis, of Toronto, was home over the holiday.

Miss Myrtle Clarke is spending the week end in Toronto.

Miss Lovegrove, Galt, is visiting her sister, Mrs. H. S. Moss.

The civic fathers spent the afternoon in inspecting the bridges which it is expected will have to be rebuilt, the proposed Lawrason survey, which abuts on the Driving Park, and other municipal works.

On Wednesday, April 15, the closing meeting of the Dundas Liberal Club will be held in the C. O. O. F. Hall. The feature of the evening will be an address by Dr. McQueen, M. P. P., on the work of the session. The member for North Wentworth is one of the ablest men in the Legislature, and deservedly popular here with both sides, and the recent attack on his in the House on the liquor permits has been pretty generally condemned here, irrespective of politics.

Mrs. Charles Clarke is visiting her sister in Brantford.

Miss E. Agnes Gwyn is in charge of the free library for a few days, while Miss McSherry is visiting at home.

W. F. Moore, of Dundas, leaves on Monday for Toronto to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Library Association, of which he is president. He and Miss McSherry will be the representatives of the Dundas Library.

At the Sunday afternoon meeting of the International Bible Association in the Music Hall at 3 o'clock, E. Whelpton, of Hamilton, will speak on the "Two Salvations."

The bird lovers have been pleased to see a large flock of the Yellow or Evening Grosbeak of late in the park. These birds are extremely rare in most parts of Ontario.

At the annual congregational meeting of the Baptist Church, Rev. Caleb Harris presided. The annual reports were of a very encouraging character. The membership is now 165, and the finances, despite the tightness of the money market last year, and the fact that the late Dr. Grant was unable to give much time to the work, made a more favorable record than ever before.

The officers elected were:

Clerk—S. C. Patterson.

Treasurer—W. J. Kerr.

Financial secretary—Miss Nellie Church.

Deacons—C. A. Shaver, H. W. Ralph, W. J. Kerr, John Durrant and C. B. Scammell.

Trustees—David Donald, Dr. L. C. Lauchland, W. H. Ball.

Executive Committee—John Douglas, C. B. Scammell, W. J. Kerr, A. K. Gilmour, H. W. Ralph, S. C. Patterson, C. A. Shaver, W. H. Ball, George Coomb, and Dr. Lauchland.

The officers of the Sunday School elected are:

Superintendent—C. B. Scammell.

Assistant superintendent—John Douglas.

Secretary—Leonard Cauldrey.

Treasurer—Mollie Vaughan.

Church auditors—Alex. Menzies and A. K. Gilmour.

Music Committee—W. J. Kerr, C. A. Shaver, Dr. L. C. Lauchland and Mrs. John Douglas.

The reports from affiliated societies were all very good. The meeting adopted the convention plan. Supper was served prior to the annual meeting.

A number of local sports went to Berlin yesterday to see the boxing tournament. There were about twelve in the party.

The Rovers, of Hamilton, defeated the High School football team in the park here to-day by 5 goals to 1. Ernest Clark secured the lone tally for the home team. Allan Walker was referee. The local boys, some of whom are good rugby men, were none too well posted on soccer and made a good showing when this is considered. There is some excellent material if properly trained.

Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Patterson, of St. Catharines, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Andrew Forrest.

Miss Clara Pennington is taking a course at Macdonald Institute, Guelph.

John Pickard, Ancaster, came to town yesterday and bought some goods. He left them in his buggy at the Riley House, and they were stolen. To-day Chief Clarke arrested Philip and Frank Chrysler, and they are charged with the theft of Pickard's goods. A search resulted in recovering part of the goods from one of the Chrysler brothers.

A family scrap at the home of a party named Kent resulted in Chief Clarke making two arrests. There are several brothers in the Kent family, and they were celebrating, it is alleged, and while under the influence of liquor, George Kent who just arrived home last night, was stabbed, the police declare, by Thomas Kent. The wound, though painful, was not dangerous, Kent being stabbed in the shoulder.

CANADIANS IN GAY NEW YORK

Many Thousands of Them There Over Easter.

IN FASHION PARADE

Art Galleries and All Public Places.

(Special to the Times.)

New York, April 11.—Just to show there are no hard feelings over little things like tariff affairs and hands across the lakes, Canada has temporarily annexed Manhattan. A Dominion army numbering between five and six thousand has invested this portion of the state, captured the hotels, bivouacked in the theatres, the art galleries and the shops, manoeuvred in the streets, and will continue to hold them for three or four days. When the famous Easter parade goes up and down Fifth avenue to-morrow, a considerable portion of the army will be seen there. Their accoutrements will be of Paris or London creation, bought at London and Paris prices.

There is nothing significant in this annual invasion. They come down every Easter because they like to visit the city and because they have money enough to gratify the wish. They don't wear maple leaf badges or sport tiny British flags or sing "God Save the King" in the hotel corridors. They are here because they are here, and they have brought joy to all the hotelkeepers; they make Good Friday night a crowded time at the theatres, and in a very quiet, leisurely way they are seeing everything that is to be seen.

The invasion began Friday morning, when the special express trains from Montreal, running in enough sections to bring in nearly a hundred sleeping cars, landed a division of from 2,000 to 2,500. Closely following was a Hamilton special in three sections, containing the Toronto crowd also, making another 1,500 or so. Then came the Ottawa delegation, between 700 and 800, and with them many of the Cabinet Ministers of Canada, including relatives of Premier Borden and various supreme court justices. These important trains out of the way, there was a special from Quebec, and one or two others which brought those who came from further north and west. There are families wandering around hotel corridors to-day from Saskatchewan, Alberta, Nova Scotia and one or two from Newfoundland. You would not recognize them as citizens of faraway provinces. With wheat and potatoes still hovering around high prices, it is just as easy to get your clothes from the fount of fashion as from the local tailors, and the result is pleasing to the eye.

There is no organization to the invasion, luckily. There is no war cry or distinguishing symbol. There is no programme or leader or anything of that sort. When the trains reached the Grand Central station the invaders separated, each to go to the hotel of his choice. Some of the big men from Ottawa and Toronto went to the McAlpine, the Plaza, the Manhattan; others went to the Belmont, the Knickerbocker, the Astor, and they descended upon the Broadway hotels like the Martinifue, Imperial Grand, and Breslin in regiments. Page after page of the registers are filled with family names and the simple address of Canada.

They transformed the lobbies at once from the quiet of the by-week of spring to scenes of bustle and animation. The hotel theatre offices were lifted at once from the slough of despond by demands for the best seats at the best plays, and it was remarked also that the visitors knew what was good in Broadway just as well as the ticketman did. They got into communication with the taxicab men and the women started over toward the Fifth avenue shops without asking the way; they knew.

Simply because they are here for an outing the invaders are not inclined to grant interviews. There is nothing to talk about of interest, they say, particularly when one is out for nothing but a holiday. Some of the Government officials from Ottawa are found here and there discussing tariff matters, which do not seem to be brightened very much by the recent promulgation of the Borden Government, in fact, when such affairs are alluded to it is usually with an air of dejection.

KRUPPS BUY 60 COAL MINES.

Berlin, April 10.—The Duke of Croy has sold to the Krupps the exclusive right to work sixty coal mines in the southern section of the Croy estates, near Duelmen. The price exceeds $5,000,000. This is regarded as the first fruit of the duke's declared intention on the occasion of his marriage to develop the neglected ancestral estates, to attend to which he resigned from the army.

Largest Extinct Monster.

The largest known find of an extinct monster is the Giantosaurus, a huge lizard, dug up in German East Africa about a year ago, says a writer in Leslie's Weekly. The skeleton was almost complete and measures 160 feet in length. It was found in the lower Cretaceous rocks and must have lived from seven to ten millions of years ago. The creature was herbivorous, as shown by its teeth, and is supposed to have led an aquatic life. Several very large extinct dinosaurs have been found in the United States. The most noted of these was discovered in 1900, when the Carnegie Expedition (searching for fossils in Wyoming) unearthed an almost complete skeleton of a diplodocus, about eighty-seven feet in length. It has been mounted in the Museum at Pittsburg. Mr. Carnegie later presented reproductions of this skeleton to five of the leading natural history museums of Europe.

Of the extinct fishes, the Ichthyosaurus is the best known, and its remains have been discovered in various parts of Europe.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

TORONTO CHOIR.

An event of unusual musical interest will be the visit to Hamilton on Thursday evening next, April 16th, of the choir of Dunn Avenue Methodist Church, Toronto, under the leadership of E. R. Bowles. The concert will be held in Centenary Church, under the auspices of Centenary Choir. The visit of this efficient organization and the splendid programme rendered by them a couple of years ago will be remembered. Mr. Bowles has prepared a programme of even greater interest, consisting of miscellaneous choruses and solos by the popular soloists of the choir. A feature of the concert will be a combined chorus by the choir of Centenary Church and the visiting choir.

MME. CLARA BUTT.

"Hear Mme. Butt—and live!" Such was the exclamation of a noted musical critic on hearing Mme. Butt in one of her memorable concerts. For close comparison there is said to be no voice in the world in her class. To find a parallel to the attractiveness of Mme. Clara Butt, one must go back to the days of Patti, Albani and Sims Reeves. Everywhere this famous singer and her husband, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, the distinguished baritone, appear, thousands flock to hear them. Hamilton is to be favored with a visit on April 30, and all indications point to a full house. The choir singers are all alive to the opportunity of hearing Mme. Butt, and are ordering blocks of seats. The Elgar Choir members, too, will be conspicuous by their numbers and enthusiasm. The mail orders include unusually large delegations from out of town. From Brantford, Grimsby, Smithville, Waterdown, Winona, large parties are now organizing and special cars will be engaged for their convenience. The railroads will offer the customary club rates upon request.

The seat sale opens at Nordheimer's Music Store, Thursday morning, April 16. Mail orders now received.

MAY WIPE OUT TWO LIBERALS

And Increase Legislature by Two Seats.

REDISTRIBUTION

Of Ontario Ridings Likely So to Result.

Toronto, April 9.—From indications gathered yesterday at the first meeting of the select committee of the Legislature to draft the schedules for the redistribution bill, there will probably be a net gain of two seats in the next House, brought about by the elimination of four present seats and the creation of six new ridings.

The committee met at 2.30 in the afternoon in the Public Accounts Committee room, Hon. W. J. Hanna was elected chairman.

Mr. Hanna briefly outlined the scope of the proposed changes, with the statement that there would be one new riding in Northern Ontario in North Timiskaming. The only change east of Toronto, he thought, would be in the ridings of Lennox, Addington and Frontenac. There were three members for that section at present, and he admitted there would be difficulty in making two ridings and adhering to county boundaries. The three ridings had a combined population of about 42,000, although they covered a considerable area.

"Have you fixed any unit of representation?" asked Mr. Proudfoot.

"We have given a pretty wide latitude as between high and low," said Mr. Hanna. "We are making no changes for the sake of making them, even if we have to strain a point."

The counties of Elgin and Kent would likely remain undisturbed, but the Provincial Secretary intimated that a change would likely occur in Haldimand, Welland and Lincoln. Mr. Evan E. Fraser, who is a member of the committee, was not present, and no discussion of the proposed changes would take place until all the members affected had been consulted.

What is likely to happen in this district is that the old riding of Monck, now represented by Mr. Thomas Marshall, will be wiped out, and there will be two members for Welland and two for Lincoln, one for Haldimand and two for Norfolk.

With regard to the cities, Mr. Hanna pointed out that both Hamilton and Ottawa would remain unaffected.

"What about Toronto?" asked Mr. Proudfoot.

"That is where the joker is coming in," said Mr. Bowman.

"No, it is just a straight business proposition," replied the Provincial Secretary.

It was subsequently learned that Toronto is to have ten seats. The question is whether the "A" and "B" system will be continued, or there will be individual ridings has not yet been determined.

Wentworth county, Mr. Hanna stated, was fairly well divided at present, and there was no necessity for a change.

SQUEEZING OUT THE LIBERALS

A survey of the preliminary discussion reveals the fact that two Conservatives and two Liberal members will be affected by the redistribution. The Bruce members, all Liberals, are: North, Mr. C. M. Bowman; Centre, Mr. Wm. MacDonald; South Mr. J. C. Anderson. If two Bruces are made one of these will have to drop out. It is a foregone conclusion that Monck, which is a riding overlapping Haldimand and Welland county lines, will be eliminated, and this will leave Mr. Thos. Marshall, who has become a general favorite in the House, without a seat. Whether Mr. Marshall would contest the Liberal convention with Mr. Chris Kohler is a matter to be determined by the Liberals themselves.

The situation in Grey appears to be an effort to strengthen the South riding wtih Artemesia. Grey is very strongly temperance, and there is a feeling that the Liberal "abolish-the-bar" platform may cause a secession of Tory support to the detriment of Dr. David Jamieson. Strengthening his riding wtih Artemesia township, which has always been Conservative, and bolstering up Centre Grey with Meaford and St. Vincent would have the effect of making the Greys solid for the Conservative party if the vote continues along the lines shown by the last several elections.

If two ridings are made out of Middlesex county one of the present Conservative members will have to step out. Mr. J. C. Elliott, the Liberal representative for the historic riding of West Middlesex, is not likely to relinquish his seat in a redistribution. The fight will be between Mr. Duncan MacArthur in the North Riding and Mr. John McFarlan, the newly elected member in the East riding. If Middlesex is touched at all, the ridings will likely be East and West, with the chance that Mr. McFarlan will drop out.

Who will yield in the East is an open question, Mr. T. G. Carscallen is the member for Lennox, Mr. W. B. Black for Addington, Mr. A. M. Rankin for Frontenac. Mr. Rankin's work on the Public Roads and Highways Commission suggests that he has the inner ear of the Government, and he is the least likely of the three to drop out.

The new riding of North Timiskaming will divide the district at the height of land. Cochrane will be practically the centre of the new riding, and the Porcupine Mining Division, which is now part of Sudbury, is to be transferred to the new riding.

IMPURE BLOOD IN THE SPRING

The Passing of Winter Leaves People Weak and Depressed.

As winter passes away it leaves many people feeling weak, depressed and easily tired. The body lacks that vital force and energy which pure blood alone can give.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all-year-round blood builder and nerve tonic, but they are especially useful in the spring. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood. Returning strength commences with their use, and the vigor and cheerfulness of good health quickly follows.

There is just one cure for lack of blood, and that is more blood. Food is the material from which blood is made, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills double the value of the food we eat. They give strength, tone up the stomach and weak digestion, clear the complexion of pimples, eruptions and boils, and drive out rheumatic poisons.

If you are pale and sallow, if you feel continually tired out, breathless after slight exertion, if you have headaches or backaches, if your joints ache, if your appetite fails and food does not nourish nor sleep refresh you, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will make you well and strong. To build up the blood is the special purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and that is why they are the best spring medicine. If you feel the need of a tonic at this season give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will rejoice in new health, new strength and new energy. Do not let the trying weather of summer find you weak and ailing. Build yourself up now with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—the pills that strengthen.

Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and do not be persuaded to take something else. If your dealer does not keep these Pills, they will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOPE FOR GUNMEN

New York Murderers May Not Die Monday.

(By Times Special Wire.)

New York, April 11.—Relatives and friends of the four gunmen sentenced to die in the electric chair early Monday morning for the murder of the gambler Rosenthal, and the convicted men themselves, to-day based their hopes for a respite on the hearing which began at noon before Justice Goff on a motion for a new trial.

It is doubtful if the hearing before Justice Goff can be concluded to-day, in which event it is expected that District Attorney Whitman will join with counsel for the gunmen in requesting Governor Glynn to grant a respite.

The evidence upon which Mr. Wahle bases his motion for a new trial came to him only yesterday. W. E. Burwell, of Waterbury, Conn., a pool and billiard player, swore to an affidavit that he saw the murder of Rosenthal; that he saw the man who shot the gambler, and that this man was not one of the four gunmen. Burwell declared that he could identify the murderer if he could see him again.

Carl Dresner, a bartender, is the other witness upon whom Mr. Wahle relies to make good his motion for a new trial. Dresner swore in an affidavit that he had previously known "Jack" Rose, "Bridgie" Webber, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps and Herman Rosenthal. On the morning of the murder, Dresner swore that he saw Vallon and Webber in the "gray car" as it was leaving the scene of the murder, and Schepps was standing on the running board.

CARDINAL RICHELIEU'S WARD.

There was so much intrigue and conspiracy in the days of Louis XIII., King of France, that no man or woment was long at ease in court circle. In such atmosphere, Cardinal Richelieut, the most powerful and influential man of the day, found it necessary to watch over his ward, Julie De Mortimar. She was a beautiful little creature, full of life, and endowed with lustrous brown eyes and a wreath of hair to match them. King Louis XIII. and Count De Baradas, his favorite, were enamoured with Julie, but she had another suitor, Adian De Mauprat, who was an attractive fellow and a soldier of fortune. Richelieu to protect her from the King married her to Mauprat. Richelieu's murder was then planned and Julie's husband was selected to do the deed, and entering Richelieu's chambers in the dead of night. All these features will be brought out in pictures at Gaiety Theatre next week.

ULSTER AMMUNITION HELD.

(By Times Special Wire)

New York, April 11—A Dublin cable to the New York Times says:

The 10,000 rounds of ammunition, believed to have been intended for Ulstermen, which were seized Tuesday night at Kingston, on the arival of the steamer Anglia from Holyhead, are still in the custody of the customs officers.

It is ordinary sporting ammunition, and said to be of American manufacture. The authorities refuse to say who were the consignors or consignees.

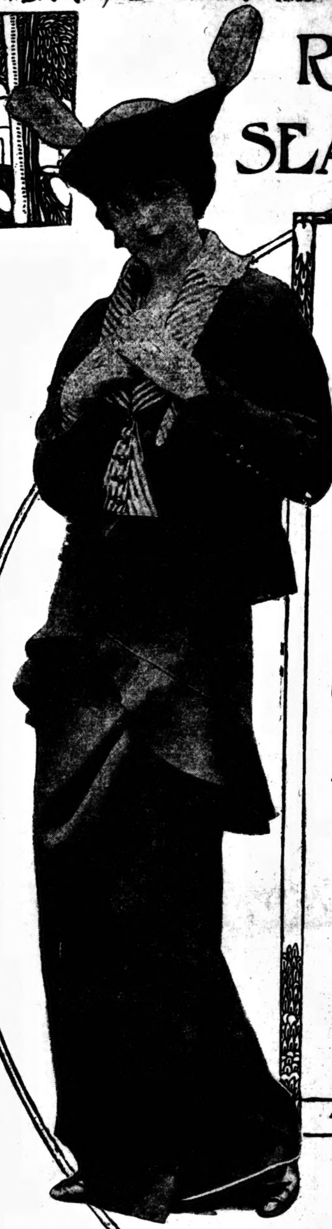
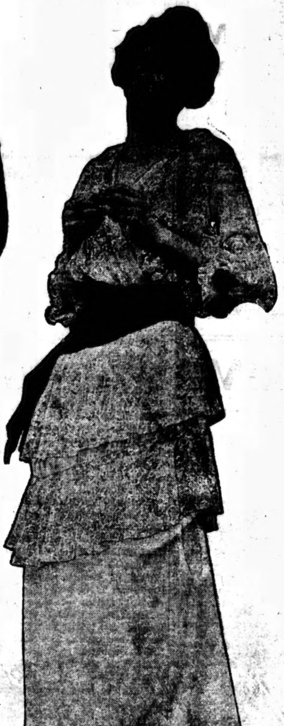
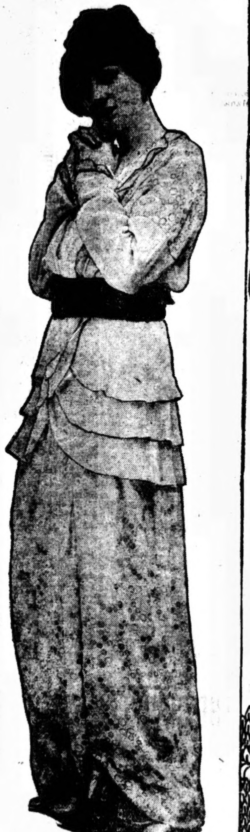
RIPPLES ON THE SEA OF STYLE



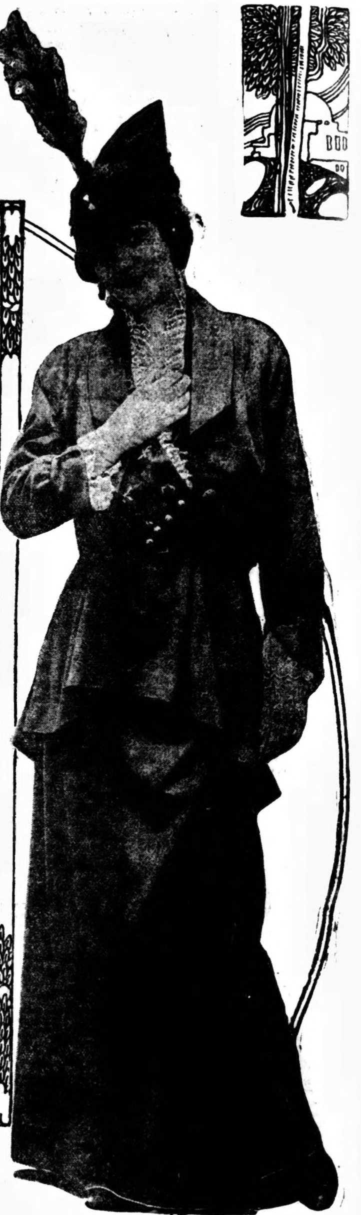
The Jacket and Skirt are Rippled



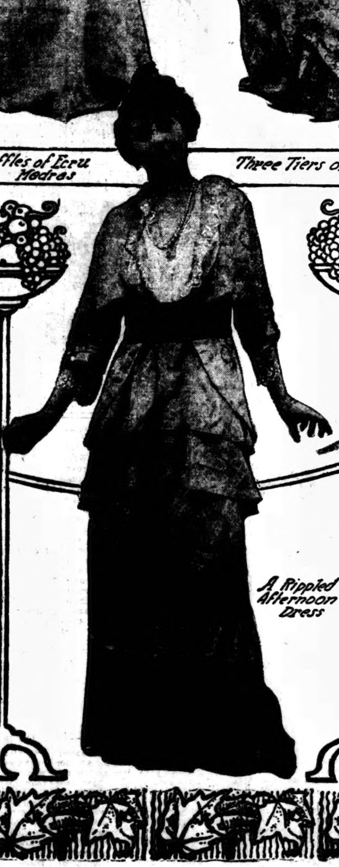
Diagonal Ruffles of Ecru Madras



Three Tiers of Flounces



A New Circular Peplum



A Rippled Afternoon Dress

THE sea of fashion has no longer an unruffled surface. It is covered with ripples, and you who are wise will cut the new dress or suit with an eye on the rippled effect that is the note of the new styles. Of course it will require more material. Certainly the silhouette will be changed, but womankind welcomes a departure, and, despite the protests from all quarters, the circular, gathered flounce and the ripple of other days will be generally adopted.

Have you noticed the ripple on the spring suit? It is here shown on the serge costume that is in practical dark blue with a striped vest and square revers. The short jacket has an extended shoulder line, from which gathers fall. Sleeves have slashed cuffs with buttons. At the lower edge of the coat is a ripple that runs around in full line, here and there trimmed with vertical rows of buttons. On the skirt is a tunic effect that laps in front and has a flounce decidedly new. There is drapery in the lower portion of the skirt.

In the bolero suit of green chamois cloth there is used a very full circular flounce that is pleated around the waist line so that a pleat forms a panel in the front. From this fall ripples that alter the silhouette and carry out the full lines of the underdrapery. At the back of this coat is a short ripple that forms a tail and drops down over the belt. Notice the crossed vest of figured taffeta and the soft frills of lace that fill in the front and edge the sleeves.

On an afternoon dress of figured silk combined with plain there are two circular flounces that are stitched to the upper part of the skirt, over which falls a rounded peplum. The bodice of this is of the figured silk, and at the front there is a cascade of lace falling at the side of the crossed vest of net. Around the waist line there is a soft girdle of green taffeta that echoes the color note of the dress.

Figured silk forms the lower part of the rippled skirt of the summer frock. The upper three ruffles are of white and are curved in an upward line, crossing in the front. The sleeves of the bodice are kimono, half of them of the figured and half of the plain. Ruffles of lace fall in graceful lines down each side of the front. A girdle of dark blue panne velvet defines the waist line.

Ecru batiste is trimmed with coffee-colored madras ruffles in the last suggestion of this ripple idea. The skirt has slight fullness that is conservative enough to suit any one. The bodice has a crossed surplice line and the sleeves are short, with ruffles and velvet bows as trimming. A diagonal line is preserved in the application of the ripples, and the waist line has a note of dark brown silk in the gypsy sash which is knotted on one hip.

Now in these styles there is a suggestion to the practical woman who can make over a dress of another season. Ripples of contrasting fabric can be applied, and combination of remnants can be made in the rippled idea. The ripples are here. It is for you to disturb the fashionable calm by adding flounces, ruffles or circular bands to your spring and summer costumes.

B. Y. P. U. ANNUAL

Ontario and Quebec Convention in London.

Hamiltonian Junior Department Superintendent

London, Ont., April 10—At the Talbot Street Baptist Church to-night upwards of one thousand young people attended the closing session of what is conceded to have been the best annual meeting in the history of the B.Y.P.U. of Ontario and Quebec. There were 355 accredited delegates, all of whom took part in all the sessions of the day. The morning was devoted to sectional conferences, followed by two-minute addresses by the leaders of all the associations in the Ontario and Quebec Union.

In the afternoon officers were elected and the report of the Board of Managers was submitted, the outstanding feature of the latter being the progressive work of all the courses, and the fact that during the year ten thousand Bible Readers' leaflets had been sold. Banners were presented to the winners of the various courses were as follows: Bible Readers' course banner to Petrolea; sacred literature, Jones Avenue, Toronto; Mission Study, Waterford. A model meeting was then put on by the Petrolea B.Y.P.U., after which luncheon was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of London.

No Hairs Will Remain If You Apply This Method

(Beauty Notes)

For ridding the skin of ugly hairy growths, there is nothing better than this quick, painless, inexpensive method: Make enough paste with powdered delatone and water to cover the objectionable hairs; apply, and after 2 or 3 minutes, scrape off, wash the skin and it will be left smooth, clear and hairless. By having a small package of delatone handy, you can keep the skin free from hair or fuzz with very little effort.

THE CRUCIFIXION

Subject of Holiday Sermon at Centenary.

Contributions For Disaster at Newfoundland.

A special service was held yesterday morning at Centenary Methodist Church, and the large congregation which attended had the pleasure of contributing towards the fund being raised for the Newfoundland tragedy. The service was conducted by Rev. Geo. H. Williams, and he took as his theme "The Crucifixion," saying "How singular it is that the twentieth century should raise divine praise to a character who was declared by the two high courts of His time to be a reprobate and an outcast, who was then condemned and crucified between two thieves; yet despite this fact, today throughout christendom, divine honors are being paid to the Christ. This can only be explained by the fact that a regenerated age is able to see in Christ a diety that His own prejudiced period would not discover. There are two peculiar features of the crucifixion, in which shame and agony are manifest. First, the peculiar agony that the sensitive Christ must have experienced, an agony that he never betrayed by moan, groan, lament or bitterness. He was as royal on His cross as a king on a throne. Between a sublime indifference to His own personal agony, He evinced a pathetic solicitude for the interests of all others. He spoke to the thief on His right hand a word of assurance. He prayed for His enemies. A divine forgiveness was given. He was not only the divine exemplar, revealing to us the most heroic fortitude, but He was the divine redeemer. His death was a voluntary sacrifice. 'I lay down My life, no man takes it from Me,' He said, and it is only through this revelation of a suffering God, that suffering humanity can experience any hope or confidence.

"Holiness without suffering is like an Alpine height, attractive, but forbidding. The suffering Christ on the cross touches every phase of the great problem of human suffering and sin. Another feature of the crucifixion was the spoilation of Christ's garment. The soldiers grumbled; the coarse, brutal soldiers, but they appreciated His vesture, which is said to have been made without a seam from top to bottom, they were reluctant to destroy it. That vestment represents to us the doctrine and church of Jesus Christ. Too rarely do we find among the Christians of to-day an appreciation of the undivided garment. It is not essential that all church organizations should form one merger, nor is it essential that all doctrines be concentrated in the one confession of faith, but it is imperative that we do not rend the spirit of Christian charity and tolerance. It is vandalism to be contentious and bigoted in Christian service and associations. Charity is a sacred vestment that should ever clothe disciples of Jesus Christ. When that is sacrificed we stand reproved by the Roman soldiers, no less than by the preachings of Jesus.

"It is remarkable that the soldier had only a mercenary instinct and not a spiritual conviction, so careful were they not to injure the vestment and to preserve it intact—but they were utterly regardless of the person of Jesus Christ. They had no place for Him, but they coveted His garment. A strange similarity is seen in modern times. A host of people are attracted by the conspicuous ethereal teachings of Jesus. They take full advantage of the inestimable contribution and these make to our social and material good, but they deliberately reject and renounce the personal Christ. The only value the vestment possesses is through its vital relation to Christ for ritualism can avail nothing apart from the living Christ."

FOR REMOUNTS

Col. Hughes to Lease Big Tract in West.

For Breeding of Horses for the Cavalry.

Ottawa, April 10.—Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes has been empowered by the Government to lease to the National Live Stock Exchange, Ltd., sixty-five thousand acres of land sixty miles north of Medicine Hat and south of the Red Deer River, for the purpose of collecting and producing thereon half-bred cavalry remounts. The company will pay an annual rental of two cents per acre for the land.

The terms of this "lease" are that the company shall produce from thoroughbred sires or thoroughbred mares remounts to the number of not less than 1,500 each year after 1916. The Government of Canada is to have right of pre-emption in respect to all these horses raised by the Exchange, and the company must hold and mature until the age of three and a half years all horses which the Minister of Militia may desire for military purposes. The price to be paid by the Minister is not to exceed the substantial sum of $250 per head.

It is further agreed that the War Office of Great Britain may have preemption rights at the same prices and terms in respect of such horses as remain "after the Minister has made his choice." The Exchange must have the right, however, to retain fifty fillies and fifty colts each year for breeding purposes.

Col. Hughes submits that the lease "will be in the interest of the public, as it desired that every encouragement should be given for the production of horses for cavalry and other war purposes."

FORTUNE FOR A CASTLE.

London, April 10.—A wealthy but homeless Englishman, whose name is not divulged, but is described as "probably the richest man in England," is offering £500,000 for a historic castle or manor as a residence. He stipulates that it must be famous for its architecture, with plenty of land about it, and possess at least thirty or forty bedrooms. He has made an offer for Warwick Castle and Penchurch Place in Kent, and even approached the Duke of Norfolk to see if Arundel Castle were purchasable. He is now hoping that the Duke of Northumberland will negotiate with him for the sale of Albury Park.

CENTRAL AMERICAN FEDERATION.

New Orleans, La., April 10.—Another attempt is being made to form a union of the five Central American republics, according to an announcement here yesterday by General Juan Paredes, who is conferring with influential Central Americans here regarding the movement. The General said he later would go to Washington, where he would try to create interest in the plan.

General Paredes served in Washington in the Taft Administration as special envoy from Honduras. Prior to that time he was Minister of Finance in his country.

Stuart Allan Broke Record In St. Catharines Race, Duffy Second--Ball Players Out Yesterday

Stuart Allan Won St. Catharines Race In Record-Breaking Time

St. Catharines Boy Led All the Way, Clipping Three Seconds From Record.

With the exceptions of a high wind which blew up shortly before starting time the eleventh annual Martin Road race at St. Catherines was greeted with fine weather yesterday, and for the first time since the inception of the race it was won by a St. Catherines man, in the person of Stuart Allan, who covered the distance in 52, 44 1-2, breaking the record by three seconds, which was formerly held by George Richards, a Hamilton runner. In yesterday's race it was all Allan, he took the lead at the start and on every round of the course, with the exceptions of the last, he gained ground on Jimmy Duffy, the Hamilton runner, who finished second, and who admitted after the race that Allan was too fast for him in a ten-mile race. Duffy ran a nice race from start to finish, but it is impossible for a man to train for a Marathon, and then get out and beat a ten-mile runner who is breaking records. Forty-seven men entered in yesterday's race, but out of that number thirty-seven started and twenty-four finished. The entry list consisted of crack ten-milers from Canada, Ohio and New York States, but despite this fact three Canadian runners finished first, second and third. Stuart Allan, took the lead at the start and was never headed. On the first round of the course Duffy was running about fifty yards behind the winner and was going strong. It looked as if Jimmy would catch him on the second round, but just before reaching the pole on the second round he was seized with cramps, and he was forced to run in this manner until the last lap. It was during this interval that Allan secured the big lead, and he held it until the final lap, when Duffy began to show his old time speed, and in the last two and one-half mile run he gained about 200 yards on the winner.

Allan ran a perfect race and was deserving of the credit for winning. Dellow, the little Toronto runner, winner of last year's race, was in the running in the first two laps, but in trying to catch Duffy he killed himself and he was forced to go back with the also rans, and the best he could get was fifth place. Attwater, another Hamilton runner, showed some speed at the start, and for the first lap was right on the heels of Duffy, but the going was too fast and he fell back with Dellow and Cook, of Stratford. For the next two laps these three runners stayed together and then the Stratford boy started to pull away. Attwater stayed with him for a while, but the going was too fast, and Cook finished third, about fifteen yards ahead of Attwater. Dellow got away to a poor start, but he began to come in the second lap, and it looked as if he would catch Duffy,, but when he got within striking distance of the Hamilton runner, Duffy would pull away for another big lead and Dellow was forced to give up. Willie Allan, the local boy who has been running under the colors of the H.A.A.A., started in yesterday's race, and after running four miles he was forced to retire.

Toronto Ulsterites and Hamilton Team Played Tie Game

Five Hundred Spectators Saw First Soccer Game of Season.

The visit of the famous Ulster team from Toronto drew a good crowd at Centennial Park yesterday, between 400 and 500 spectators being present, including about 200 rooters from the Queen City, and considering the heavy state of the ground, which made good combination impossible, both games were well worth watching. The local junior champions, the Homesides, were defeated by the Ulster juniors after a hard struggle by 2 to 1. The local boys were at a disadvantage, their opponents being much bigger, but they were lucky to win. The local boys had more chances, but the heavy ground and ball was all against them, and they could get no sting behind their shots. It was a hard game from start to finish, and the young homesides, though defeated, were not disgraced, the final score reading Ulster Juniors 2, Homesides 1.

The senior House vs. Ulster game took place immediately after the junior game, and both teams were as advertised. The House were first to take the field, followed soon after by the Ulster team, who were given a rousing reception by their followers. Plenderleith won the toss, and decided to play with a strong wind at their backs.

THE PLAY.

Longwell kicked off for the Ulster team, but the House were first to attack, McMillan getting away, but his final effort was weak. The visitors took up the running and at once began to press, but the House goalie was equal to all demands made upon him, and one or two of his saves were marvellous. Both teams found the going very hard. The visitors were the smarter team and were faster. Their left wing was always dangerous. After some heavy pressure their efforts were rewarded. McCully, opening the score with a good shot. They quite deserved the lead. From the kick-off the House began to improve, but met with a strong defence, especially Martin, the goalie, who saved several times in great style. A breakaway by the House saw the inside right equal with a good shot.

The Ulster goalie was injured in trying to save. Play was not so fast now, owing to the heavy ground. Just before half time Haddow gave the House the lead with a good shot, which they retained at the interval. Half time—House 2, Ulster 1.

SECOND HALF.

Haddow kicked off, but the visitors at once began to press, and looked dangerous. Their forwards were very clever, but instead of swinging the ball they played the inside game, which was the wrong policy on such a heavy ground. They were having by far the best of the play, but their shooting was weak. The House backs were very erratic in their kicking, and it was lucky for the House that Reed was in his best form. Very little was seen of the House forwards for two reasons, one because the visitors' backs were far more reliable than the home pair, and, secondly, because they got no support from their halfbacks. After some heavy pressure, the Ulster team equalized, Longwell doing the trick with a good shot. No further scoring took place, and the result was a draw, House 2, Ulster 2.

COMMENTS.

Both teams put up a good game considering the heavy ground. As a team the visitors were superior, their defence was good, and their halves and forwards work together in good style. They deserved to win. For the House, Reed kept goal in brilliant style. Both backs were weak. The halfbacks suffered through the weakness of the backs, and had no chance to help the attack. All the forwards played well, with Haddon the pick. Referee May gave satisfaction to all. Teams:

Westinghouse—Reed, Simmons, Marshall, Burns, Plenderleith, Bingham, McMillan, Holmes, Haddow, Alec Wands, Smith.

Ulster—Martin, Nully, McMorran, Forsyu, Carroll, Adgey, Campbell, McCully, Longwell, C. Forsyu, Elliott.

Referee—Bert May.

Russell Laidman Won Ten-Game Marathon At Brunswick Alleys

Regal Label Bowler Beat Branston by Five Pins--The Scores.

On the Brunswick alleys yesterday afternoon eight of Hamilton's best bowlers hooked up in a ten-game grind. Brand new pins were set up for the boys, and splits were in play most of the time, which caused the low scores, Russ Laidman winning after coming from behind, and sticking in a 217 game on the end. Roy Branston should have won, but splits and bad breaks held him back the last five games. The scores follow:

R. Laidman	160	198	148	168	180	147	171	206	185	217	1778

BOWLING NOTES.

It was rumored around the alleys last night that William Allan, the well-known bowler and shining star of Kauffman's 999 team, is going to play baseball this season for the champion Woodlands. Willie is a catcher of some repute, possessing the happy faculty of being able to throw with either hand, but we don't say how far or what, hoping that William will deliver the goods, which he will no doubt (in a grocer wagon), and in case of emergency will respond with his first aid experience.

LOCK SHOP STILL WINNING.

On the Brunswick bowling alleys yesterday morning the Lock Shop, champions of Gurney-Tilden Foundry, hoked up with the Plating Room, the former winning all three games. The Plating Room had their strongest line-up, and had one of the big City League bowlers to help them out, but could not overcome Eddie King's Kelts For a bowling manager, Eddie Kig seems to be the McGraw of the game. The scores follow:

New York Racing Dates Are Revised

But No Curtailment of Summer Racing Programme.

New York, April 11.—Because of the damage done to the Jamaica stand during recent storms the racing dates allotted by the Jockey Club will not be used there, but will be distributed among the other meetings. At yesterday's meeting of the Jockey Club the Westchester Racing Association was granted permission to change its meeting at Belmont Park from May 26 to June 20; the Queen's County Jockey Club at Aqueduct from June 22 to July 10, and the Empire City Racing Association at Yonkers from July 11 to July 10, and the Empire City Racing Association at Yonkers from July 11 to July 30.

By these changes there will be no curtailing of the racing time about New York. It is only a change of the scene of the sport.

The ruling of the stewards of the Jamestown Jockey Club in refusing the entries of Tay Pay, Perth Rock and Duncraig, the property of W. M. Sheddy, was upheld, and other associations racing under the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club were requested to refuse entries of the same horses. This action was taken at Jamestown for the reason that former Jockey Reid, who was mixed up in the Jockey Wilson scandal last summer, and was ruled off, was handling some of the Sheedy horses.

Jockey Tommy McTaggart was again denied his application for a license.

The protest of J. W. Hedrick against the payment of the purse in the Forest Stakes to Raleigh Colston was denied.

Fred Scheike, who has been on the ground for a year, had his application for reinstatement as a trainer denied.

Peter Stire, who was ruled off the turf in 1905, was reinstated, but John E. Rowe had his application for a trainer's license denied, and Jockey Arthur Wrispen, who was set down some time ago for a curious race, was also denied reinstatement.

The action of the stewards of the Charleston Fair and Racing Association in suspending J. O'Neill, L. M. Lester, F. J. Riley and O' Bagley and the horses Golliwogg, Country Boy and Lajoie was approved and the case was referred back to the stewards of the Charleston Fair and Racing Association for further investigation.

This was the case that grew out of the unsuccessful attempt to ring Golliwogg for Country Boy during the Charleston meeting.

Prior to the meeting of the stewards there was a meeting of the Jockey Club at which C. K. G. Billings, who has recently taken a very lively interest in thoroughbred racing, was elected a member.

Cleveland Won

Cleveland, Ohio, April 10.—The fast C.A.C. hockey team defeated a mixed Toronto team, playing under the name of T.R. and A.A., to-night, by the score of 1 to 0. Heffernan, the only visitor to get near the home goal, was prevented from scoring by clever work of the local defence. It was a most exciting game throughout. The playing of Crane and Laird was the feature. The line-up:

A report from Smith's Falls, the home of "Skinner" Poulin, one of the Victoria players, champions of the Pacific Coast League, is to the effect that a deal is under way to trade Donald Smith, the fast forward of the French team, for Poulin. No definite information regarding the matter is forthcoming in the absence from Montreal of George Kennedy, manager of the Canadien Club.

CARELESSNESS WAS COSTLY.

Windsor, Ont., April 10—Fire that destroyed the grocery store of James Barker, on Howard avenue, early this morning, nearly cost the life of Mrs. Barker, who has been confined to her bed for some time by a paralytic stroke. She was carried to the street as the flames reached her room, then taken to the house of a neighbor. The fire started when Barker, in thawing out a pipe, threw a match near the gasoline tank in the rear of the store. The building, a two-storey frame structure, was badly damaged and the stock nearly all destroyed. The loss is estimated at $2,500.

Few things are more common than seriousness.

Sixty Teams Send Representatives

To Annual Meeting of Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association.

Toronto, April 11.—The first annual convention of the New Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association, which was formed by the union of the C. L. A. and the O. L. A., was held yesterday in Victoria Hall and the attendance and interest fully bore out the anticipations of a great rival of the game. Sixty-six clubs were represented and many more are in process of organization, to be ready in time for the coming season. President Simkins and his associates had a most satisfactory report to make of the year's operations, and of the progress of the province-wide campaign that is being carried on for the revival of lacrosse in centres where is lagged.

Only one of five proposed amendments went through as offered. That was Mr. Bert Brown's, of Fergus, reduction of teams in the intermediate, junior and juvenile series to 10 men, and of the size of the fields to a minimum of 90 and a maximum of 100 yards. With modifications and restrictions, two others were agreed on. In the senior series the district will decide whether to use one official or two in charge of the game, and substitutes to the number of three, and not later than the beginning of the third period, will be allowed in the senior series.

The original proposal on the latter point was to allow substitutes in all four series and as many as five in the two younger classes.

The election of officers this year exhibited more interest than has been shown form any seasons. The new officers are:

Past president, Fred R. Simkins, of Toronto.

First vice-president, J. Ed. Hinds, of Orillia.

Second vice-president, T. L. W. Tegart, of Toronto.

Secretary, Frank Doyle, of Toronto.

Council, J. Bert Brown, of Fergus; E. A. Doyle, of Newmarket; Percy Lancaster, of Havelock; Thomas E. Henry, of Brampton; Dr. Stanley, of St. Mary's; J. Hugh Martin, of Almonte; Charles Hocking, of Toronto; A. A. Smith, of Orangeville; Eugene Dropp, of Toronto; Wm. D. Ruttledge, of Hespeler.

Eight hundred and three certificates were issued during the season; 180 were senior, 371 intermediate, 147 junior and 162 juvenile. The financial statement showed receipts of $472, and a cash balance of $109.89.

THE WOMAN WITH THE WHIP.

London, April 10—The Suffragette who smashed ten cases of art objects in the Asiatic Salon of the British Museum yesterday was identified today as Catharine Wilson, who was released two weeks ago from Holloway Jail, where she was serving a term for having been found loitering in male attire in the House of Commons grounds with a whip under her coat.

She was sent to jail for six weeks on March 17, and immediately started a hunger strike, which caused her release under the "Cat and Mouse" Act. Her license had expired when she was arrested in the museum.

Wants Al. McCoy To Battle Moha

Milwaukee Promoter Bids Fo Service of Chip's Conqueror.

Chicago, April 11.—That the unexpected victory of Al McCoy, the Brooklyn middleweight, over George Chip, of New Castle, Pa., in the first round of a schedulscheduled ten session contest in York last Tuesday night has placed his services in demand, was shown yesterday when Ben Steinel, promoter and matchmaker of the South Side A. C., of Milwaukee, offered McCoy a substantial guarantee with a liberal privilege of the receipts to meet "Fighting Bob" Moha over the ten round route next month.

The Cream city promoter believes Moha is entitled to a match with the Brooklyn fighter because of his decisive victory over "Battling" Lavinsky a short time ago. According to Steinel, Moha is willing to make 160 ponnds at 6 o'clock, or 158 pounds two hours earlier.

If this match is closed it should be one of the best middleweight contests staged in Milwaukee in years. Moha has been boxing well of late, and the quick victory of McCoy over Chip should go a long way towards attracting a large crowd. Steinel expects to receive an answer from the Brooklyn fighter to-day, and if McCoy accepts, the promoter will announce the date of the mill on Sunday.

Matty McCue, the Wisconsin lightweight, who is scheduled to exchange wallops with Joe Mandot, of New Orleans at Racine on April 21, started training yesterday at Forbes' gymnasium. After going through about an hour's gymnasium exercise, Matty boxed two rounds. McCue has taken on a lot of weight since his last battle, but he claims he will have little trouble making 133 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the mill. He will box every day at Forbes' place, 32 South Clark.

Mandot took a long workout at O'Connell's. He boxed three rounds with Mickey Farrell and four with Nate Kalb. The southern fighter realizes he will meet a tough opponent in McCue, and he is doing his best to get into shape.

Federal League Gets Earl Hamilton From Organized Baseball

Action May be Taken in Hamilton Case To-day---Other Baseball News.

[illegible] April 11.—Just what measure organized baseball will take in [illegible] the action of Earl Hamilton, [illegible] in jumping his contract [illegible] St. Louis Americans to play [illegible] Kansas City Federal League [illegible] probably will be decided to-[illegible] at a meeting in St. Louis be-[illegible] B. Johnson, President of the [illegible] League, and President [illegible] of the St. Louis Americans. President Johnson held a conference with Chairman August Herrmann in Cincinnati yesterday and left for Chicago on a night train. He refused to comment on possible action in connection with the Hamilton case, saying he did not know enough of the de-[illegible]

Chicago, April 11.—Two special cars bearing rooters for the Chicago National League bestball team will leave [illegible] Monday night for Cincinnati to attend the opening game of the season between the Cubs and the Cincinnati [illegible] it was announced to-day. Chas. [illegible] Thomas, president of the cubs, will be one of the party, which will number about 150.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 11.—President Tener, of the National League, said last night, regarding the Killifer decision:

"Judge Session's decision in the Killifer case is timely and its effect will be far-reaching and beneficial to baseball. Naturally, the Philadelphia Club and organized baseball are pleased with the result, which they won in defending their interests and not as claimants for the service of a dissatisfied player or players.

"The supporters of organized baseball and National League players may be assured that no effort will be spared to maintain the game on the highest plane through organization and protect the players who remain loyal to their respective clubs."

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 10.—The old reserve clause in the contracts of organized baseball players was held to be invalid and unenforcible in a decision handed down to-day by Federal Judge Clarence W. Sessions, denying the application of the Chicago Federal League Club for an injunction to restrain Catcher Wm. Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia National League Club. Contracts of such nature were held by Judge Sessions to be "lacking in the necessary qualities of definiteness, certainty and mutuality."

"A contract exists," said the decision, "but if broken by either party, the other is without remedy because the courts are helpless to enforce its performance or to award damages for its breach."

Judge Sessions denied the application solely because the petitioner did not come into court with clean hands. He said the plaintiff knew Killifer was under a moral, if not a legal obligation to play with the Philadelphia club when it induced him to repudiate his obligation by offering him a longer term of employment and much larger compensation. "In so doing, a wilful wrong was done to the Philadelphia club, which was none the less [illegible] and harmful because the injured party could not obtain legal redress."

The conduct of both Killifer and the Federal League club was "tainted with unfairness and injustice, if not actionable fraud," in the opinion of Judge Sessions.

After asking the question, "are the plaintiffs in court with clean hands?" the court answered it with the negative ruling that "the motion for an injunction must be denied—not because there are any equities in Killifer's favor which excuse or exempt him from the performance of his engagements, and not because the merits of the controversy are with the Philadelphia club, but solely because the actions and conduct of the plaintiffs do not square with one of the vital and fundamental principles of equity."

Should the precedent set by Judge Sessions prevail, Williams, Baumgardner, Kahler, Blanding, Killifer and all other players who signed Federal League contracts, only to jump later to their major league clubs, will remain the undisputed property of these latter clubs.

On the other hand, players of the stripe of Knabe, Dolan, Tinker, Seaton and others, who wish to remain with the Federals, and who simply disregarded the reserve clause of organized baseball, cannot be molested by the National and American Leagues.

St. Louis, April 10.—After the loss of Earl Hamilton to the Federal League yesterday, and the announcement by Clem Clemons that he would go to Chicago to-day, whee, it is said, he, too, will join the new league, the local American League club to-day began building entrenchments to protect itself from further onslaughts by the Federals.

The first and strongest defence the Browns' president has thrown about his players, it became known to-day, was the elimination of the ten-day release notice from all 1914 contracts. This clause had given the club the candidates writing, while 65 took the right to drop any player upon ten days' notice. The Federal League, in its attempt to retain Hamilton, it is said, will argue the lack of mutuality in the ten days' release clause.

Next to that of money this proved to be the strongest argument by which George Stovall, manager of the Kansas City Federals, pusued the local American left-hand pitcher to desert his team, according to Hamilton's roommate.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Americans, has held interviews with the players who were said to [illegible] Stovall during his stay [illegible] announced he did not [illegible] member of his team [illegible] the Federals. Stovall returned to Kansas City with Hamilton, but C. C. Madison, president of the Kansas City Federal Club, remained here to continue the overtures to the major league players. In answer to the declaration of Robert Le Hedges, president of the local Americans, that organized baseball would prevent Hamilton from playing with the Federals, Madison said: "We have Geo. Baumgardner and Gus Williams, of St. Louis Browns, under ironclad contracts to play with the Kansas City Fedeal League team, and Browns have expressed a willingness to sign contracts with us.

"If the American League makes a step to prevent Earl Hamilton from playing with us we will not only take steps to enforce our contracts with Baumgardner and Williams, but we will sign other Brown players."

Philadelphia, April 10.—Every member of the Philadelphia National Club, from President Wm. F. Baker, to the batboy, was delighted at the news that the Killifer case had been won by the Phillies. Had the decision been otherwise, it would have seriously crippled the team, which has already lost some star players to the Federals. Manager Dooin said he was delighted at the decision, as it saved the Phillies one of its star players, and one who was badly needed by the team.

Dooin was injured during the practice this morning. In batting flies, he sprained his shoulder, and it may be several days before he can again handle a bat.

Killifer merely said that he was tickled to death to have the decision in his favor, so that he can remain with the Philadelphia Club.

Chicago, April 10.—"The Federal League regards the Killifer decision as a victory," said President Gilmore. "In the opinion given on the reserve clause we won not only in that it allows the new league to keep the major leaguers it has signed, but that it will give our organization an opening for a bigger raid next year."

Regarding Killifer, President Gilmore said the league would carry the case to the highest court. Gilmore, after hearing of the decision, started for New York. He will attend the Federal opening in Baltimore next Monday. He said he was not prepared to discuss more fully the Grand Rapids decision until he had consulted the league's counsel.

Chicago, April 10.—American Association club owners discussed ways and means for putting the league on a more solid basis at an unannounced meeting here to-day. The plan under consideration contemplates placing the league beyond the power of an individual member, similar to the organization of the American League during its fight against the National League during its fight against the National League, and when it was struggling for an equal voice in the government of baseball.

Such a scheme involves the placing of a majority of the stock of each club, all ground leases and property rights in the hands of a trustee. The American League gave sole authority to President Johnson. Whether the association will bestow the same power on President Chivington could not be learned.

The club owners were loath to discuss the plan before its completion. The transfer of the franchise from Toledo to Cleveland was approved.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11.—Vice-President Barnard, of the Cleveland American League Club, last night said the club regarded the decision in the Killifer case as a victory for its contention that the services of pitcher Fred. Blanding and George Kahler belong to Cleveland. Blanding and Kahler jumped to Cleveland after they were said to have signed Federal contracts, and the recent scheduled meeting in Baltimore. President Gilmore was quoted as ordering that suits be brought aagainst them. These were not filed, pending decision in the Killifer case.

The Cleveland American League Club announces the release of two players to the Cleveland American Association Club. They are first baseman Paulette, obtained from the Mobile, Alabama, Scuthern Association team, and Shortstop Dunlap, formerly of the Londan, Ont., team, of the Canadian League.

Travis and Hunter Meet in Finals

Pinehurst, April 11.—Walter J. Travis, of the Garden City Club, New York, and Robert Hunter, of the Weeburn Club, Connecticut, will meet here to-day in the final round of the annual mid-April golf tournament.

Travis won from J. V. Hurd, of Pittsburg, 4 up and 2 to play, and from J. D. Standish, jr., of Detroit, 4 up and 3 to play. J. D. Armstrong, of Buffalo, carried Hunter to 19 holes in a match this morning, and this afternoon Weeburn golfer was 6 up and 5 to play in his match, with R. C. Shannon, second, of Rochester, N.Y.

GUSTAVE DOING WELL.

Stockholm, Sweden, April 11—Further progress toward convalescence was announced in the surgeon's bulletin regarding the condition of King Gustave of Sweden, issued today from the Sophia Hospital, where His Majesty was operated on for ulceration of the stomach on Thursday. The bulletin says:

"His Majesty passed a quiet night and enjoyed a good sleep. The pain he was suffering has diminished considerably and his condition gives reason to hope there will be no set back to His Majesty's recovery."

Resignation Refused

After being a member of the Victoria Yacht Club for twenty years, and official starter for eighteen years, James Ecclestone placed his resignation in the hands of the commodore of the club.

At a special meeting held yesterday the club refused to accept his resignation and appointed a committee to wait on him.

Curling in Hamilton On Good Friday

Victoria Curling Club Indulged in Winter Pastime Yesterday.

Good Friday, April 10th, 1914, is something unprecedented in curling circles in this section of Ontario. A number of the members of the above club met on Thursday evening at the invitation of the caretaker, Mr. Alex McBride, who informed the members that he had a pleasant surprise for them. At 8 oclock, when the members who had accepted the call assembled he informed them that the ice was in splendid shape and proposed that they should select their skips and have a game. Two rinks were then formed, as follows:

Harry James	H. O'Heir
David R. Gibson	Arch. Kappene
Alex. Robertson	Alex. McBride
G. F. James	J. H. Schrader
Wm. Muir, skip	J. Morris, skip

Thirteen ends were played and resulted in Skip Muir winning by 14 shots over Morris. The ice was splendid and better than some games that had been played on during the past season. After the game was over a very choice luncheon was provided by the stewards, Messrs. F. James and Fred. Small, and the party broke up in the "wee sma hours," to meet again in the morning at 9 o'clock, when two rinks were formed with

H. O'Heir	A. Kappele
H. O'Heir	A. Kappele
A. Robertson	Alex. McBride
T. Cook	David R. Gibson
G. F. James	Dr. J. L. Kappele
John Morris, sk.	Dr. D. Kappelc, sk.

Ten ends were played, resulting in Skip Morris winning by two shots over Dr. Kappele's rink. Much enthusiasm was evinced by the large crowd of onlookers at the unique feature of a curling game being played on natural ice on Good Friday, April 10th, 1914, which not in the memory of the oldest curler has such a thing occurred before. The morning game finished up with the players having a photograph taken of the group of players on the ice, with their brooms and stones, after which luncheon was served to the visitors and players, all joining in giving praise to the caretaker, Alex. McBride, "the man from Bar."

McCarthy Was No Match For Scott

Battling Indian Put Buffalo Boy Away in Second Round

Before a small crowd of fight fans, Pete Scott, the battling Indian, of this city, met Frank McCarthy, of Buffalo, at Berlin last evening and knocked him out in the second round with a solar plexus. Right from the go in it was all Scott, and at the end of the first round McCarthy was the least bit groggy from a stiff solar plexus punch that he received in the first part of the initial round. He came back in the second round, and after a few seconds of fighting Scott leaned on him with a solar plexus that made him groggy, and while he was balancing he received a blow on the upper lip that split it open, and he went to the floor for the count. A doctor was called and put three stitches in McCarthy's lip, and after a few minutes with the physician the Buffalo boxer was himself again.

In the preliminary bouts, Aitcheson, of Brantford, and Brooks, of this city, fought four rounds to a draw. The public's decision was in favor of Brooks. Lammond and "Kid" Williams, of Brantford, fought three fast rounds to a draw. Frank Carroll, of Toronto, handled the bouts.

Valuable Racehorses Burned at Latonia

Kentucky Derby Winner Among Animals That Perished.

Cincinnati, O., April 11.—Fire, which consumed a barn and killed 11 race-horses last night, threatened to destroy the Latonia race-course, near Covington, Ky., but was extinguished with a loss of $10,000 on the barn and $26,000 on the horses. The best-known of the horses burned was Wintergreen, a winner of the classic Kentucky Derby. Among the other horses lost which were either owned or being trained by Howard Oots, were Carlton Club, Baby Doll, Kisland and Congressman James.

COW MAKES RECORD

A Pennsylvania Guernsey Now World's Champion.

Concord, N. H., April 10.—A new world's record in the butter production from a single cow's milk was announced to-day by W. D. Coldwell, of Peterboro, secretary of the Guernsey Cattle Association. According to Mr. Caldwell, Marona, a Guernsey cow at the Cassatt Farm in Berwin, Pa., and owned by E. B. Cassatt, yielded during the near 1913 a total of 19,639½ quarts of milk, from which 1,059.59 pounds of butter were made.

The best previous record was that of a Holstein cow owned by F. F. Field, of Brockton, Mass., the yield during 1911 being 1,058 pounds of butter.

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder," quoted the Wise Guy. "So do presents," added the Simple Mug.

Collegiate Old Boys Held Successful Meet Before Good Crowd

Inter-City Basketball Game Was Won By Toronto Team.

The Hamilton Collegiate gymnasium was on Thursday night crowded to overflowing, the occasion being the annual old boys' night, held under the auspices of the H. C. I. old boys. It was an evening of sports that will long remain in the memories of those lucky enough to be present. The evening's entertainment consisted of broomball, two fast and interesting boxing bouts, and an intercity basketball exhibition. The broomball game was the first contest on the programme, and it certainly kept the crowd in an interesting mood throughout. It was advertised through these columns that the game would be played as it should be, and the players who participated certainly lived up to past reports. The Krow Bars and All Stars were the two teams and after a strenuous struggle the Krow Bars came out victorious by a score of 4 to 2. Halftime score ended in the winners' favor, 2 to 1. It was the fast, snappy combination work of the Krow Bars which won for them. H. A. Livingston and G. H. Awrey starred for the Krow Bars, while Bowlby and Barclay were the best for the losers. The teams:

Krow Bars—W. E. Blatz, goal; A. A. Brown and H. A. Livingston, defence; G. H. Awrey, centre; D. McLennan and R. J. Brown, forward.

All Stars—W. Harris, goal; R. McKay and A. McFarlane, defence; R. J. Paisley, centre; R. Bowlby and W. Barclay, forwards.

Referee—F. J. Livingston.

BOXING.

Two interesing boxing bouts were then staged. The first was a three-round go between Ed. Barton and Eldon Brethour. Both went at it at a fast clip and were about even. Referee Brown was forced to call it a draw. Walsh and Brent showed little fighting in the first three rounds of their four-round go, but in the fourth Walsh went at it at a merry clip and easily won the decision over his more scientific opponent.

BASKETBALL.

The fans were now clamoring for the basketball feature, and when the teams made their appearance on the floor they were cheered continuously. The game was between the old boys of Toronto and Hamilton, the former five winning a closely contested game by a score of 36 to 21. The halftime score was 12 to 8, the old boys of Toronto having the long end of the score. It was the excellent team work, fast combination work and splendid condition that was responsible for the Torontonians' victory. The local old boys had them on the defensive until the last five minutes of play, but then they got going and nothing could stop them, they running up a large score. A. Dixon played a star game for the local team, his shooting being the best seen at the old gym. in some time. Precious and Reddy Dixon at defence played strong games, while C. H. Livingston and Craigy Wright were checked too close to do much wamage. Harold Thompson starred for the visitors, but he was run a close second by H. A. Kennedy and W. Zimmerman, all senior Varsity players. G. Philpott and M. Philpott also played well. Frank Harvey handled the game. The line-ups follow:

Canadian Leaguers Held First Practice Yesterday Morning

Manager Yates Had Boys Out on Friday Morning at Cricket Grounds.

The Hamilton ball players who have reported to Manager Yates held their initial workout at the H. A. A. A. grounds on Friday morning, and despite the cold wind that was blowing and the condition of the field, which is not prepared for baseball, the boys showed up fairly well. Weine, the shortstop, together with Dolan, Broadbent and McLeod were out. No new players reported to Manager Yates yesterday, but several more are expected to report to-day and the rest of the team will be here on Monday, with the exceptions of Dwyer and Walmsley. Dywer will report here on Tuesday, and the latter man will not be able to report until the close of the college season, which will be some time in May or the first of June.

The work of leveling and grading Britannia Park for the coming season has been started on, and although it will be some time before the job is finished, the players will practice at the cricket grounds. The diamond at the cricket grounds is no more, but the players will make the best of it until they are able to get on to their own diamond.

With the arrival of several new players to-day and on Monday, the team should be about twelve to fourteen strong. By Monday night and on Tuesday morning the boys will get down to real practice. The exhibition games which have been arranged with the Niagara University are not far away and Manager Yates intends to have the boys in the best condition possible by then.

It is the intention of Manager Yates to keep a close watch on the City League games this summer, and if he sees any local talent that appeals to him it is more than likely that they will receive a workout with the Hamilton team. This is one thing that the new manager is strong on and this year the City League boys will have a far better chance of getting into faster company than ever before.

St. Thomas, April 11.—Manager Craven, accompanied by players Moore and Lamb, left for Grand Rapids yesterday, where the remainder of the men will congregate and then report at Charlotte, Mich., where the club will train. The first game will take place at Grand Rapids on April 18 and 19.

There is a movement to open the Canadian League here on May 6 instead of May 7 with Ottawa, as His Excellency the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, will visit St. Thomas on the former date. Should the change be made the duke will open the season officially by tossing the first ball at Pinafore Park.

Ottawa Journal—There is considerable joy in the camp of the Senators to-day. The mail brought in the signed contract of "Lefty" Rogers, star outfielder, star twirler, .300 clouter and one of the best minor league players in the game.

Rogers left Ottawa determined to end his days selling paint, but the call of the training camp and the diamond proved to strong for him. Also the fact that Manager Shaughnessy met his terms. With Rogers lined up the twirling staff doesn't look so bad; Kane, Lill, Rogers, Kubat, Sam Hall, Bernlohr, Newman and probably a couple of other recruits. Out of this collection Manager Shag should pick a pretty fair heaving staff. If Lill can get any kind of control Shag. has a star bunch of heavers for Rogers, Kane and Hall are first class mound men.

The addition of Rogers will also strengthen the outfield, the arrangement made with him being that he will take his regular turn with the twirlers and play left field, as last season. This will give Shag. a mighty nifty looking bunch of gardeners with Rogers, Shag., Petie Powers and Murphy. Murphy will have to hustle to demonstrate his right to a place. If he earns it Powers will be able to alternate with Lage and give the little catcher a rest. Last year Lage had to do all the back-stopping without relief.

The champs now have six .300 hitters in Shag., Rogers, Dolan, Lage, Cochrane and Murphy. This is a "wrecking crew" good enough for anybody. From present appearances the Senators will have the heaviest hitting club in the league; they should also have a superior outfield to any and as good, if not better, a collection of twirlers. The infield is the only weak-looking spot and only a good shortstop is needed to plug up the hole.

The Petes have 22 players on their roster and look to have a formidable collection. In pitchers, with Tracey, Belting, Sterling, Cresswell and Schettler they have a particularly strong outfit. Blount will have to be watched this summer by the other managers.

Rube Deneau has 28 players on his list and claims a winning team. He also says that its his last year in baseball.

LOCKED IN TRUNK

Train Bandits Imprisoned an Express Messenger.

Little Rock, Ark., April 10.—Attracted by muffled cries from the express car attached to a local Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific train, railway employees here last night found the express messenger, Wm. Ahring, locked in a trunk, bound and gagged and the safe in the car looted.

The discovery was made when the train reached Little Rock from Hot Springs at 10 o'clock. It is estimated that between $2,000 and $3,000 was obtained by the two men who, Ahring declares, took possession of the car near Haskel, Ark., thirty miles from Little Rock, and forced him into the trunk. Other members of the train crew knew nothing of the robbery untill the messenger was discovered in the trunk. According to Ahring the two men boarded his car, took his keys, forced him into the trunk. That was all he knew, Ahring said, until he was released here.

AN AWFUL DEATH

Monoplane With Two Passengers Exploded in Midair.

Dresden, April 10.—The German aviator Reichelt carried a woman passenger with him on a flight this evening. At a height of 200 feet the motor exploded and the monoplane shot blazing to the earth. The woman was dead when extracted. Reichelt died in a hospital.

On several previous occasions Reichelt had narrow escapes from death. Once, in 1913, with a passenger aboard, when at a height of 6,000 feet, his motor stopped and he had to plane downward through a heavy fog in the darkness. He landed on a house, crushing the roof, but he and his passenger escaped injury.

A WORTHY MAN HAS DEPARTED

D. B. Galbreaith Died Late Last Evening.

AGED 96 YEARS

Born in StoneyCreek; Came Here in 1844

Closing a life that had been in early years closely woven with the civic progress of Hamilton, and for nearly a century prominent and respected throughout this district, death came last evening to David B. Galbreaith at his home of the last sixty-eight years, 186 Main street east. For several years the deceased had been in failing health, although he had retained remarkable vigor until he had passed the span of four score years and ten, the end coming several months after the celebration of his ninety-sixth birthday. His demise was not unexpected, his gradually failing condition being quite apparent to all those surrounding him.

As observed recently by a local litterateur, the late Mr. Galbreaith belonged to Hamilton of other days—one of the energetic class of business men who could date back to the time when King street were merely a pasture and the limits of the place were Wellington on the east and the Bowery on the west. It was just beyond the limits of Hamilton as it stands to-day, in Stoney Creek, that Mr. Galbreaith was born on the 18th day of February, 1819. His parents owned and lived on a farm, and also kept a small country store. Two years before his birth, his father built the famous Canada House in Stoney Creek. During those days the Government of Upper Canada had its seat in the old town of Niagara, and as Stoney Creek was about halfway between Toronto and Niagara, the members of Parliament and the officials of the Government who lived in and near Toronto invariably stopped over night at the Canada House. In those days of the Old Family Compact Canadian affairs, Mr. Galbreaith had many recollections of stirring events. The old house built so many years ago now does business as a basket factory.

Until serious illness finally overtook him, many of Mr. Galbreaith's relatives and friends used to find keen pleasure in listening to his stories of by-gone days—days when there was but one brick cottage in Hamilton. This was for a long time an object of great curiosity, standing on a knoll near the corner of King and John streets, but was torn down in late years, when a system of streets was adopted. On the first day of December, 1841, the deceased opened a general store in the building adjoining the Waldorf Hotel on the east. At the time there were no buildings between the store and the Sanford block, but fourteen years later the Anglo-American hotel was built, at which the late King Edward, as a young man, was entertained. Mr. Galbreaith also started the first peach tree nursery in this section. In his day the deceased took an active part in the finer construction of the city. For three years he sat in the city council as a representative of St. Patrick's ward. But undoubtedly his greatest effort of a public nature was in connection with the establishment of a pure water system. In the year 1854 the epidemic of cholera brought about the necessity of something being done at once to do away with the use of wells in the thickly settled part of the town. Along with Charles Magill, Peter Balfour, Adam Brown, the present postmaster, and M. W. Browne, the late M. Galbreaith served as an original waterworks commissioner, and in 1856 the Government sanctioned the expenditure of $1,400,000 on a fresh water supply. The Commissioners brought engineers here from all parts of the land, and finally adopted the plan of Thomas Kiefer for pumping water from the Beach to the receptacle on the mountainside, known as the old Barton reservoir. That those in charge economically handled the project was evidenced by the fact that but little more than half of the appropriation was spent.

Sixty-eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Galbreaith were united in mariage, and duing all the years they lived happily together they occupied the homestead on the corner of Ferguson avenue and Main street. At the age of ninety years, the deceased had been able to read without the aid of spectacles, and up to that time had never had a real headache in his life.

Besides Mrs. Galbreaith the deceased leaves one son, Newton D. Galbreaith, and one daughter, Miss Clara E., the latter at home.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock to Hamilton cemetery.

Planned by the C. P. R. in the West This Year.

Advices received at Canadian Pacific headquarters indicate that the work of the great tunnel in the west is proceeding rapidly. Eleven hundred feet on the east side have been driven, about 50 per cent. of the approach has been cut on the west end. Mr. J. G. Sullivan, who is the chief engineer for the west, and who goes about planning for work and seeing that when planned it is efficiently carried out, has just returned from a visit to the tunnel, which he states is being proceeded with in a most vigorous and successful manner. Mr. Sullivan states that this programme will mean, for the year,at least $30,000,000 of outlay. A great part of this money will be spent in British Columbia on the double track work; but there are also about 60 miles of new line to be laid on the prairie.

C. P. R. SERVICE

Homeseekers' Excursions, Colonist Fares, Settlers' Trains.

Those taking advantage of above excursions should bear in mind the many exclusive features offered by the Canadian Pacific Railway in connection with a trip to the West. It is the only all-Canadian route; only line operating through trains to Western Canada. No change of depots. Only line operating through standard and tourist sleepers to Winnipeg and Vancouver. All equipment is owned and operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway, affording the highest form of efficiency.

Colonist fares (one way second-class) to certain points in Alberta, British Columbia, California, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Idaho, etc., in effect daily until April 15.

Homeseekers' fares will be in effect each Tuesday until Oct. 27, inclusive, and round trip second-class tickets will be sold via the Canadian Pacific Railway from Ontario points (Azilda and east) at very low fares; for example, from Toronto, also west and north of Toronto to Winnipeg and return, $35; to Edmonton and return, $43. Other points in proportion. Fares from points east of Toronto will be slightly higher. Return limit, two months.

Each Tuesday until April 28 the Canadian Pacific will run settlers' trains to Winnipeg and the West, and for the accommodation of settlers travelling with live stock and effects, a colonist car will be attached to the settlers' effects train. This car will leave Toronto on regular train at 10.20 p.m., and an arrival at West Toronto it will be attached to settlers' effects train, as mentioned above.

For those not travelling with live stock and effects, special colonist cars will be attached to regular trains from Toronto, running through to Winnipeg without change. No charge is made for accommodation in colonist cars.

Tourist sleeping cars are also operated on regular trains leaving Toronto 10.20 p.m. daily.

Full particulars from any C. P. R. agent, or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

THE MAN IN OVERALLS

Don't miss the music to-morrow. The sermon won't be long.

—o—

Good Friday is not much of a holiday. But it is a good time to sit down and think.

—o—

You can't charge gate money at a public park. Where else could the Tigers and the baseball chaps play if they couldn't play at the Cricket grounds? Somebody might tell me.

—o—

The Gore Park will very soon be a thing of beauty. Wait till the Dutch bulbs waken up.

—o—

Ald. Davey's automobile is Exhibit 1 in the great "get away" trial now staged at the City Hall.

—o—

Hear the Hon. Geo. P. Graham at the Liberal banquet on Tuesday evening. Take your friends with you.

—o—

I suppose it is time enough to sprinkle in some grass seed on your lawn.

—o—

That explanation, Mr. Mayor, is pretty lame. Would it have satisfied you in your own business? We guess not.

—o—

What part is Chief TenEyck to take in the clean-up week?

—o—

The Macassa is another harbinger of spring, or rather of summer.

—o—

It seems pretty tough when there is so much work being done on our streets, that our own citizens are unable to get a job. Ask the Board of Control the reason why.

—o—

The East End Incline is again the subject of pour parlers. What about cutting down the hill?

—o—

A chimney blaze is not much to talk about But behold— Can you finish the quotation yourself?

—o—

If you want to know, let me know.

—o—

Consult the seed catalogues. They are a mine of information.

—o—

What did you do with yourself yesterday?

—o—

In case of any further statements I would advise that the Mayor and Controller Cooper be put on oath

—o—

But why blame a sick man for the mix-up of the accounts? Were there nobody else available to keep things straight?

FEDERALS TOOK U. S. MARINES

Arrested From Launch at City of Tampico.

APOLOGY OFFERED

Villa Captures the City of San Pedro.

Mexico City, April 10.—A launch from the United States' gunboat Dolphin, carrying the paymaster and a small detachment of marines, put in yesterday at Iturbide bridge at Tampico. The Americans were after a supply of gasoline. They were in uniform, but unarmed. The launch flew the American flag.

Colonel Hinojosa, commanding a detachment of Mexican Federals placed the paymaster and his men under arrest. They were paraded through the streets and held for a time under detention.

Admiral Mayo made vigorous representations to the authorities and the men were released. General Ignacio Zaragoza expressed to Admiral Mayo his regret.

Although President Huerta, in an official statement to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Charge d'Affaires, has apologized for the unusual zealousness of the Mexican commander at Tampico, there exists here to-night great uneasiness, because Admiral Mayo is reported to have given the Government authorities at Tampico until six o'clock this evening to salute the American colors.

President Huerta's statement was not received by Mr. O'Shaughnessy until after six o'clock, and it was considerably later before communication with Gen. Zaragoza was possible. The statement was as follows:

"In view of the fact that the Charge d' Affaires of the United States hears that the whaleboat carrying the American sailors was flying the flag of his country, an investigation will be made to establish the responsibility of Col. Hinojosa. In accord with the line of conduct which the Government of Mexico always has followed in fulfilment of its duties of an international character regarding all nations, it deplores what has occurred.

"This case has grown out of nothing more than a mistake of subordinate officials, since the superior in rank of this same official, that is, Gen. Zaragoza, at once proceeded to point out that what had happened was unintentional, and imposed upon Col. Hinojosa disciplinary punishment.

"If the investigation develops greater responsibility, the proper penalty will be imposed by the legally competent authority."

VILLA TAKES SAN PEDRO.

El Paso, April 10.—Palicho Villa and his rebels took the Town of San Pedro, forty miles east of Torreon to-day from the Federal garrison there. This information came from Villa at Torreon this afternoon to Carranza.

Villa reported at noon that the fighting was desperate and of a hand-to-hand character in the streets of the town. The news that he had taken the town was telegraphed later. He said he took a number of prisoners, but the bulk of the garrison escaped to the eastward.

Villa said in his message at noon that the garrison at San Pedro was the late Federal garrison at Torreon, but correspondents who have been at the front and who returned here yesterday declare that it was known generally in Torreon that Velasco had already reached Saltillo and that the garrison at San Pedro was only a comparatively small one left behind by Velasco to impede the progress of the rebels on his road.

San Pedro is the home of the late Farncisco Madero.

Carranza and his officers are very much elated to-day over a visit paid to them yesterday by H. C. Kyles ,of ElPaso, recently appointed British Consul to Juarez, and his opening of negotiations with them relative to certain British citizens and interests in the rebel territory. Heretofore, all British matters have been presented informally to the rebel Government by the United States diplomatic agents.

A MINIATURE GRAND PIANO A FAVORITE IN MANY CANADIAN HOMES AND WHY?

The Miniature Grand Piano manufactured by Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., Ltd., is a piano that in style of architecture is similar to a Boudoir Grand or a Concert Grand, but is smaller in size than either. What is more important, however, it possesses all the properties and musical features of the larger grand. The same power and beauty of tone is there, and the same delightful touch. The case is built of a series of longitudinal hardwood, in one continuous length, which adds wonderfully to the acoustic propensities of the piano. Our readers are invited to visit the warerooms of this house at King and John streets, Hamilton, and inspect one of these beautiful instruments.

THOUGHT IT WOULD KILL HIM

Terrible Torture From Chronic Indigestion, Short Treatment With "Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured The Whole Trouble.

C. T. HILL, Esq.

Chatham, Ont., April 3rd, 1913.

"Some two years ago I was a great sufferer from Indigestion. I treated with a prominent physician here for some time, but I did not get any better, so I went to see him one day and said: 'Doctor, what do I owe you? I am not getting any better and am going to quit you.' I paid him his bill and he remarked to me, 'Charlie, you have a case of chronic Indigestion that will be hard to cure.'

"I left his office and as I stepped out on the street my eye caught a billboard advertisement of 'Fruit-a-tives'--that big 'Fat Man and Thin Man,' and I said to myself, 'if Fruit-a-tives will build me up like that, it's good enough for me.' I walked directly over to Park's drug store and I bought a box of 'Fruit-a-tives.' After taking these wonderful tablets for only three weeks, I found myself greatly improved. I continued taking them for a short time longer and cured myself entirely. My case was no light one either, for many times when I was on the street, I was compelled to go into some store or business place until the acute spasms wore away. Gas would often form in my stomach and I was in daily fear it would get around my heart and kill me. To-day, I have no such fears. 'Fruit-a-tives' is the only remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Stomach Troubles. C. T. HILL."

Perhaps your case is exactly like Mr. Hill's. If so, do exactly as he did, take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure yourself. "Fruit-a-tives" will prevent the formation of gas in the stomach by making digestion complete. It will insure the food being properly digested by providing an abundance of gastric juice in the stomach. It keeps the stomach sweet and clean, not only by helping the digestion, but also by regulating Kidneys and Bowels and toning up the system.

If you suffer with Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Belching Gas on the Stomach, Heart Pains after Eating, take "Fruit-a-tives." 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, at all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

AN EASTER LEGEND

By Count Leo. Tolstoi.

When the groan of the nations and the sob of the suffering people reached the Lord, He resolved in His heart to grant to mankind a great joy at least once a year and he created bright Easter out of a ray of His glory.

And God said:

"Go down on earth, my daughter, and announce to the people the hour of peace and mercy for all. Bring rest to the toiling masses, consolation to the overburdened and freedom to the imprisoned; announce peace to the angry and the embitteered, and the realization of hopes to those who hope."

After a lapse of time the Eternal One wished to see how the people were observing the holy day; and He came down on earth with Easter and passed through the cities and the villages.

All was well on earth. It appearance had changed; contentment and joy prevailed everywhere. And God saw a large, tall house, with many lights; the master of the house and his wife were sitting by a large table; near them were their happy children, and further away were their servants, and all were praising the Lord and partaking of the food with an air of kindheartedness.

And God said unto Easter.

"Now let us see now the poor celebrate the holiday."

And before Him was an old, little house; around the table sat the husband, the wife and five children; a white freshly laundered cloth was spread upon the table. The candlesticks were clean and reflected the flames of the candles; the floor, the threshold and the windows were washed and looked perfectly clean. The walls had been whitewashed and were shining now. Peace and repose reigned in every nook and only the soft, wholehearted conversation of the family was heard. The master looked at his wife and children with love, and in his eyes a tear drop glistened like a jewel, a tear of joy.

The brow of the Lord grew still more radiant, and He took that teardrop and placed it in the wreath of His glory. And the heights of Heaven were illuminated by this teardrop.

And God asked Easter:

"Whose hands have created this peace and tranquility?"

Easter answered:

"The hands of all these people—the husband helps his wife, and she helps him. The children are obedient, kind and diligent; one cleaned the house, the other cleansed the candlesticks, the third washed the windows, the fourth carried the water, the fifth looked after the baby and they are all doing their work willingly and joyously."

"How does the master of this house earn his livelihood?" asked the Lord.

"He is a carrier. He works hard every day and barely earns enough to secure bread for his family."

"I will make him a present out of my treasury," said the Lord. "I will give him much gold."

Easter bent her knee and said:

"You have already endowed him with many wonderful things, 0 Lord! You gave him and his wife and children kind hearts, and there is no equal to them in happiness among the princes and the rich."

And Easter began to shine with a heavenly light and smiled a sunclad smile. And God took that smile of Easter and created the Angel of Good.

"You have been created of purity and peace, of joy and contentment, and you will henceforth always accompany Easter and strengthen joy and happiness in mankind," He said to the Angel.

God returned to the heavenly realms and ordered the host of angels to sing the praise of Easter, which according to His words gave to mankind--peace to some, consolation to others and benevolence to all.

Centuries went by and Satan in his dark malice kept destroying the work of Easter uninterruptedly by day and night, sowing discord and enmity among the people and preparing the world for ruin.

And again there was a groan on earth which reached the Lord.

When the holy day was approaching God came down on earth again with Easter to look at the life of man.

It was a hot day. The sun was burning from morning till evening that day, and a hot wind raised columns of dust, blinding the eyes of passersby. People were working hard, amidst smoke and filth, and their perspiration, mingled with the dust, rolled down the fatigued faces of the exhausted people in dark streams; only toward evening the wind subsided and the people felt relieved. It was at that hour that God descended on earth.

Before him stood a small, old dilapidated house. It was dark in the windows, a dark cover seemed to have wrapped the rooms within.

The mistress of the house was angrily calling her children:

"Come into the house, wash the floors, the windows! Where are the candles? The holiday has commenced. A curse upon you!"

"Mamma! We have no broom," shouted one. "Give me money."

"Mamma! The water carrier would not bring any water without money," said the other.

And the third was crying.

"We have no candles, and they would give no more on trust."

A mournful sob hung in the air.

The woman and the children sat there, depressed, their faces pale, emaciated, and they listened for a sound outside.

"No, father has not come back yet!" whispered the children.

Time was passing. Night enveloped the earth; it was very, very late when a knock on the door resounded, and a man entered the house, staggering. He threw from his shoulders an empty sack, flung it into a corner and seated himself with a sigh.

"I have nothing!" he said, wringing his hands. The odor of wine came from his breath.

His wife shouted:

"You have spent everything on drink again!"

And she scolded and abused him.

The children commenced to cry, a quarrel ensued, and the home was turned into a hell.

And God saw how satan came flying to the house, how he stopped and roared with laughter.

"Enter," said God to him, "and admire your work!"

Quivering and agitated, satan entered, and bowing to the ground commenced to gather on the floor the tears of the children, which were mingled with their cries and the filth on the floor, and wrapping them in the darkness of the room, offered them to the Uppermost.

"Righteous judge, judge of the whole universe," began satan, "that which you see here is going on everywhere on earth. Will you show your kindness to such godless people as these? They have not only failed to feed their little children but have tortured them all week long with hard work; they have thrown over them mortal fear by their quarrels and their fights, and on your holy evening their tears are falling like a rain upon the earth. Pour out your wrath upon them, let all the dwellers of earth know that there is no one like you in justice and in vengeance."

And the brow of the Lord was clouded. The heavens trembled, and the stars quivered in the skies.

Easter stood sadly, with bent head, and bright, beaming tears trickled down from her eyes.

And God took her tears and sprinkled them against the sky, and the sky was lit up with myriads of stars.

And the merciful God said:

"Calm your grief, my daughter! The words of the tempter are filled with cunning, but I shall leave the human race on earth and shall not take Easter away from them. But this is what I will do!"

And out of the lump gathered by Satan God created another angel, the Angel of Evil.

"You have been created of filth and malice," he said to that angel, "Henceforth you shall also accompany Easter. And when you come to the home of a man and find there peace and order, cleanliness and harmony, the Angel of Good will say: 'May it also be so next year!' And the Angel of Evil will say 'Amen!'.

"If there will be disorder and lack of cleanliness, if there will be noise and scolding, the Angel of Evil will say: 'May it also be so next year!' and the Angel of Good will answer 'Amen!' And the people will get what they deserve."

And God returned to the radiant heights of heaven, and with Him Easter and the new angel ascended.

Since that time when Easter arrives on earth, she walks with the Angel of Good on her right side, and the Angel of Evil on her left.

And the word of God is strictly fulfilled.

CHRIST THE LORD IS RISEN TO-DAY

Christ the Lord is risen to-day,
Sons of men and angels say.
Raise your joys and triumphs high!
Sing, ye heavens, and earth reply!

Love's redeeming work is done,
Fought the fight, the battle won;
Lo, our sun's eclipse is o'er;
Lo, he sets in blood no more.

Vain the stone, the watch, the seal;
Christ has burst the gates of hell;
Death in vain forbids His rise;
Christ hath opened paradise.

Lives again our glorious King;
"Where, O Death, is now thy sting?"
Once He died our souls to save:
"Where's thy victory, boasting Grave?"

Soar we now where Christ has led,
Following our exalted Head;
Made like Him, like Him we rise;
Ours the cross, the grave, the skies!

—Charles Wesley.

[Charles Wesley was born in 1717 and died in 1788. He was a remarkably powerful Methodist preacher, but also gained fame as a poet. In 1738 he became the poet of the evangelical revival in England and is credited with writing 6,500 hymns for the church. They vary greatly in merit, but Canon Overton held him, taking quantity and quality into consideration, to be "the greatest hymn writer of all ages." Poetry was like another sense to him, and he was busy writing verse from the time of his conversion up to his deathbed, when he dictated to his wife his last lines.]

WHY THE RABBIT IS ON THE EASTER EGGS

Among the mail matter that was laid on the breakfast table were a number of pretty Easter cards. Their bright colors and gay designs caught the eye of the head of the house, and he said to his wife:

"Pretty things, eh? And a charming idea, to keep in mind the old traditions that mean so much to us all."

"Let me see them, dear," said the other head of the house.

And then she looked them over. After a moment she asked, "Why is it that they put these rabbits on them?"

"The rabbit is an old emblem of—why, they always have rabbits at Easter, you know. They signify the—let me see, rabbits are an emblem of—they stand for the coming of spring."

"Yes, but why? Is is because they are so springy?"

"Nonsense, my love. A kangaroo never stands for spring. No; the rabbit is a—er—a very prolific animal, you know. They have offspring at—"

"How can offspring have anything to do with spring?"

"If you interrup, dear, I cannot—. In very ancient times—"

"There wasn't any Easter in those days."

"I was coming to that, but you will not give me an instant—"

"All I want to know is about the rabbits. I must get to my orders. If you don't know, why not say so?"

"Rabbits, as I have remarked, are very prolific—"

"Haven't I read 'Pigs Are Pigs'?"

"You may have read 'Pigs Is Pigs,'" he remarked with emphasis.

"That isn't grammer," she remarked serenely.

"The author had a right to use bad grammar if he liked," he insisted. "And, anyway, what has 'Pigs Is Pigs'"—

"Your grammar is worse than his," she retorted. "But why get off the subject? Just tell me in a word what is the reason that they always put rabbits on Easter cards?"

"They don't. Sometimes they put lillies and eggs. Rabbits, however, are known to be—"

"Very prolific. All right. I know that."

"But I wasn't going to say that."

"John! How can you? Why, I know exactly what you were going to say."

"Well, then I'll let it go at that," he agreed. "There's no use in telling you what you know already."

"The next time I try to get information out of you, you will know it," she said with dignity.

"It is impossible to give a woman information—"

"When you haven't it to give!" she concluded, and sailed out of the room triumphant.

"Humph!" was all the retort he had time for.

Then, as he resumed the reading of his morning paper, he murmured to himself:

"Rabbits, rabbits? Hanged if I know!"

Treatment of Easter Plants

Easter plants need care in order that the possessor may obtain from them the greatest satisfaction.

The plantsmen set their plants in the smallest pots in which they can grow them and keep the foliage in good condition, and bring them into bloom exactly at Easter in the warm moist air of the greenhouse, where water is given them in abundance. The water is very necessary, as the pots are usually very full of roots and the plants often potbound, as the plantsmen call it.

Furthermore, though the skilful plantsman seeks to have his plants in a forward state enough, so that he can cool down his greenhouses for a week or two before Easter and harden the plants off and get them into shape so that they will keep longer after they reach the ultimate buyer, he cannot always on account of the dark lays and other weather conditions do this, and sometimes has to keep up a high temperature in the greenhouses right up to Easter in order to get the plants in bloom. Such treatment makes the plant very tender when received by the buyer.

The following treatment of Easter plants will help much in prolonging their period of bloom and preserving their beauty. The usual night and day temperature of the living apartments is all right for plants. They should, however, never be exposed to the direct waves of heat coming from the steam or hot water radiator or the hot air register. On the other hand, do not place them where they will receive a direct draught from the open window. They will not bear any such heroic treatment.

If the blooms of the plant begin to wilt and the foliage to droop, do not try to revive it by placing it where it is very cool and giving it ice cold water. The darker and cooler the position in the room in which a plant is kept the less water it will need. If the plant tends to wilt and droop put it at once into a pan of water deep enough so that it will come nearly to the top of the pot, and, most important of all, be sure that the water is as warm as your hand can bear with comfort, and if the plant is drooping very badly, make the water even a little warmer. Do not hesitate about doing this; it is by far the most efficacious treatment which you can give wilting plants.

Allow the plant to remain in the pan of water from ten to fifteen minutes, until both the earth and pot are thoroughly saturated, then empty out the water, let the plant stand in the pan and drain, and later place it in a saucer or plate in the desired position.

Watch the plants carefully and try the water treatment again, probably in from two to three days, just before the plant wilts. If the plant has not really begun to droop the water may be merely tepid.

Finally as regards watering plants, put this down in your tablets: neither drooping plants nor cut flowers can be revived by placing in ice-cold water or in a very low temperature, though both flowers and plants when they have not begun to wilt may be kept a long time in an icebox or where the temperature is from 40 to 45 degrees; but plants or flowers which have been kept this way will not keep long after they have been brought into the living-room.

The Easter plants which will need most frequent watering are the hydrangeas, cinerarias, spriaes, lilies, callas, daisies, hyacinths, narcissus and tulips. The shrubbery plants, such as azaleas, rhododendrons, lilacs, roses, genestas, etc., though naturally needing less water, will have to be watched closely because of once allowed to droop they are revived more slowly and with much more difficulty.

Lastly, remember that very few plants grown for Easter are perpetual bloomers, and that after the blooms have had their natural life the plants will not bloom again till another season, and that usually it is advisable after the blooming period has passed to consign the plants to the ash can and buy new plants next Easter.

The Quiet Hour
For Thoughtful People

CHRIST THE LORD IS RISEN AGAIN.

(An Easter hymn of the Bohemian Brethren, translated into German by Michael Weisse, 1531, and, after him, into English by Miss C. Winkworth).

Christ the Lord is risen again!
Christ hath broken every chain!
Hark! the angels shout for joy,
Singing evermore on high;
Hallelujah!

He who gave for us his life,
Who for us endured the strife,
Is our Paschal Lamb to-day!
We, too, sing for joy, and say:
Hallelujah!

He who bore all pain and loss
Comfortless upon the cross,
Lives in glory now on high,
Pleads for us and hears our cry:
Hallelujah!

He whose path no records tell,
Who descended into hell,
Who the strong man armed hath bound,
Now in the highest heaven is crowned:
Hallelujah!

He who slumbered in the grave,
Is exalted now to save;
Now through Christendom it rings
That the Lamb is King of kings:
Hallelujah!

Now he bids us tell abroad,
How the lost may be restored,
How the penitent forgiven,
How we, too, may enter heaven:
Hallelujah!

Then our Paschal Lamb, indeed,
Christ, to-day thy people feed;
Take our sins and guilt away;
Let us sing by night and day;
Hallelujah!

WHOM HAVING NOT SEEN, YE LOVE.

We walk by faith, not by sight. We love him, because he first loved us. And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. In whom ye trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation; in whom also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise. God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of Glory.

If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?

Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed. Blessed are all they that put their trust in him.

LIFE.

"He that hath the Son hath life." This life is entire, without conditions, limitations, additions, subtractions or fluctuations. This is not bodily life, limited by time, or weather, favor, or fortune. It is life within a life, a world within a world. It rolls in its own orbit, sails its own seas, climbs its own crow's nest; writes its own log, decries its own destiny.

It is a life out of nothing, out of darkness, out of the tomb. We are children of the resurrection. There came a point in the history of Christ when He ascended to Heaven from the earth, a cloud received Him out of their sight, as He went up in quiet dignity and conscious victory. There was time to answer the questions of millions. "What have you left behind?" and the glad reply was: "I have left a few followers and an empty tomb." Every Sunday is Easter Sunday, and we say, "He is risen." Our life is a risen life, health, beauty, bloom and abundant promise of a glorious harvest. The church is always dying and always rising; her life is a perpetual resurrection, and she is ever issuing from the tomb. The church is not an establishment, but an encampment in the wilderness; every inch of ground is fought for and won for God, and won in God.

His life is the light of men. The child of God is sensitive. When you touch men you touch the kingdom of God. Beware how you approach; one humble instrument more delicate than the surgeon's, or the astronimer's. We are ever under the eye of God, and the trembling divergence of loyalty to Him will show the whole machinery out of gear and we be left stripped and forsaken. How exquisitely is the ear attuned, how shaded and guarded is the eye, how superlutively is the will hung on hinges, waiting the trembling touch.

Self measurement, self control, mastery, ministry, mystery—these await for your adoption and welcome and use.

U. S. FIRST QUARTER'S FAILURES

Dun's Review: Both in number and amount, commercial defaults in the United States during the first quarter of 1914, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., considerably exceeded those of the previous year, 4,826 insolvencies for $83,221,826 comparing with 4,458 involving $76,832,277 in the earlier period. The increase in the number of suspensions in contrast with a year ago extended to each classification—manufacturing, trading and other commercial. Thus, there were 1,147 manufacturing reverses against 1,052 in the preceding year, and, owing to several defaults of unusual size, the liabilities were abnormally heavy—$34,644,880, exceeding the $30,674,850 reported in the first quarter of 1913. In trading occupations there was some increase numerically, yet, on the other hand, the indebtedness was slightly smaller than last year —$36,500,570 comparing with $36,590,109. The class embracing agents, brokers and concerns of a similar nature likewise made an adverse exhibit, a total of 190 defaults for $12,076,376 making an unfavorable showing with the 173 losses for $9,667,501 in 1913.

THE FINANCIAL OUTLOOK.

This week, the "Canadian Courier" publishes its Quarterly Financial Supplement, which reviews the events of the security markets for the first three months of the year. Regarding the outlook, the "Canadian Courier" says "With regard to domestic conditions among the merchants of Canada, the situation has improved during the quarter. It was thought that there would be many failures, due to the fact that the banks would undertake to clear up some bad accounts. This fear was not realized, and the commercial community has passed through the most trying quarter of the last five years with flying colors."

The vagaries of the stock market may be seen at a glance in the diagram which is a feature of the Financial Supplement.

UNIVERSAL CLOCK.

This One Will Tell the Time Anywhere on Earth.

A very instructive little instrument can be easily made for telling the time of any location on the globe. Its construction is extremely simple. Draw a circle, about 1 1-2 inches in diameter, on a piece of paper and then draw a larger circle about four inches in diameter around the first one. Divide the circles intho 36 equal parts and draw lines from one circle to the other like the spokes in a wheel. These divisions will be 10 degrees, or 40 minutes of time, apart. They should be numbered by tens each way until they meet at 180 degrees.

Using a map of the Eastern and Western Hemispheres, write the names of the different cities on the globe in their respective degrees of longitude. The centre or inside, of the smaller resenting the hours of the day and night, and these are marked from 1 to 12, the left side being forenoon, and the right afternoon. The noon mark must be set on the line nearest to the location in which the instrument is to be used.

The disk is mounted on a thin piece of board and a pin is driven through the centre from the back side so as to make a projecting point on the upper side on which to place the magnetized needl a compass. The needle may be taken from any cheap compass.

All that is necessary to do to tell what time it is in any other city or country, is to turn the instrument so that the name of the place points toward the sun, when the north end of the disk o the point it is in that city or locality. —Popular Mechanics.

SIXTY ARPLICANTS.

Twenty-five applications for the position of road superintendent will be considered by the County Council. The applicants ask for salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,560 per year. Some of them want a clerk. J. L. Taylor, who held the position, received $1,500. The applications received in all numbered about sixty, but a good many of these were worthless and were discarded without any consideration. The Council will meet on Monday.

Gossip of Wall Street

(Supplied by H. P. Coleman, 19 King Street West.)

MARKET VIEWS.

Herald—The selling apparently represents not liquidation, but "professional" trading for short account.

Commercial—Some observers doubt that a ruling in favor of the eastern roads, granting them rate increases, would have a pronounced bullish influence on the stock market.

American—Prices have already discounted about everything but a return of prosperity.

Wall Street Journal—The market displays a tendency to sag, although there is a good undertone.

Financial America—Much satisfaction is expressed over the Lackawanna decision. Cotton—There is considerable realizing of holiday character.

Sun—The defeat of the New Jersey Congressman candidate, favored by the administration and running in a campaign waged on natural issues, is probably the most widely discussed feature, and the result is regarded generally as marking a political driftaway.

Post—A few stocks show themselves to be relatively well held; Reading and Lehigh Valley are among these. Grain—There is much unsettlement in domestic wheat markets.

ADVANCE HINTS.

New York, April 11.—If the crop promise is borne out with the usual average deterioration the result will be again business revival of great proportions in the fall, according to influential people.

The Gould issues continue to be liquidated upon all occasions of weakness in the market. Floor advices report offerings above the market for them.

Many professionals are still working for a break in Steel Common. The gossip in all parts of the speculative atmosphere is still bearish.

Reading is being bought on the theory that the Lackawanna decision makes the distribution of Reading Coal lands legal whenever such may be decided.

"Good securities are a purchase to hold" is the unqualified statement made by important sources. Coalers are liked.

Some time ago we held that the bull days of Canadian Pacific were over. We think stock will be met on all good rallies both abroad and at home.

Private Washington advices say that there is a much brighter prospect of the anti-trust legislation being postponed.

The buying of Great Northern Ores on reactions is reported to be for account of Hill interests based upon future conditions.

WON MEDAL

Lorne Hutten Carried Off the Coveted Honor.

The Boy Boosters' Club of Charlton Avenue Methodist Church held its first concert in the school room on Thursday evening, which took the form of an elocutionary contest. Great credit is due the club and its energetic, untiring president, Victor Ellis. The hall was filled with an appreciative audience. Egerton Healey acted as chairman, and in his opening address emphasized the possibilities of the boy. The judges were Rev. R. E. S. Large, pastor of the church; Clarence Colling, president of the Epworth League, and Percy A. North, associate editor of the Templar. W. C. Vansickle, superintendent of the Sunday school, presented the medal to Lorne Hutten, the winner. The medal was donated by Percy A. North, Dominion superintendent of medal contests. The programme was as follows: Whistling chorus, by the boys of club; chairman's speech; recitation, Charles Creighton; piano solo, Clarence Meyers; recitation, Norman Lenny; vocal solo, Miss Reta Carey; recitation, Lorne Hutton; violin solo, Tom Rankin; recitation, Norman Thornton; piano solo, Clarence Meyers; recitation, Robt. FERDINAND PELEZ.

Disappeared French Painter Died a Great Master.

A few days ago there died in an obscure corner of Montmartre a curious old man. A little band of sympathetic painters followed the humble bier to the cemetery, and then, the old man having been also a painter, a visit was made to his delapidated studio.

There on the walls, the floors, chairs nd easels was a collection of pictures that caused the cries of admiration. Maurice Barres, Leo Bonnet, Atmand Dayot, Jean Paul Laurens and other eminent painters and critics were summoned and confirmed the first verdict. The pictures were masterpieces. Inquires showed that the old man's name was Ferdinand Pelez, and remembrance dawned.

Twenty years ago Pelez, one of the most brilliant artists of the day, chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and member of one of the most exclusive literary clubs, had disappeared suddenly no one knew why. But now the mystery was explained. Haunted by the misery he saw everywhere around him in the great capital, he determined to devote himself to the cause of the poor and friendless. Since the day he had made his decision he had never been seen by the companions of his prosperity. Cloistered in and old studio high up in Montmartre, like a hermit, he worked with all his genius of perpetuate on canvas the thousand forms of misery which stalked through the streets of the great town. Tramps, unfortunates, vagrants, beggars, consumptives and thugs alone were admitted into his sanctuary. For twenty years he worked on, living on next to nothing, merciless to himself, but always kind and helpful to others.

But the glory that he fled from will come a late but just recompense to this painter of sorrow. The Baroness de Cholet and a few others, old pupils of the dead master have arranged a posthumous exhibition of his work, and today all artistic France if flocking to the Pelez studio.

MOVE MAY MAKE SOME TROUBLE

Garbage Men Complain About Their Treatment.

THE EAST INCLINE

Mr. Webb Had Conferene With the Controllers.

Serious trouble is apt to be experienced by the city hall authorities as a result of a disagreement among the garbage men and their foreman, William Page. Some days ago a petition was prepared and signed by twenty-eight of the thirty men for an increase in wages from 20 to 25 cents an hour. Exaggerated rumors of the affair reached the city hall, and when talk of a strige commenced two of those signing the petition were removed from the garbage department and given jobs under Foreman Kirkpatrick. The two men changed, Thos. Gravestocks and Robert Walker, claim that they had nothing more to do with the affair than anyone else, and are naturally indignant, as are other employees. They blame Foreman Page, and in condemnation of the policy adopted by the department are asking why garbage is allowed to be dumped in private alleys and other property not owned by the city. Members of the Board of Control have been approached regarding the matter, and some action will likely be taken at once. The two men removed are married and have families, while the two taking their places are said to be single men.

Dr. Roberts has accepted an invitation to address a large meeting in Windsor, to be held the latter end of this month, at which will be considered the advisability of regulating all charity work under one department. His subject will be "Sanitary and Hygienic Conditions as Met With by Social Workers."

Little developed at the conference between Geo. F. Webb and the Board of Control on Thursday afternoon relative to incline matters, but a definite answer is expected from Mr. Webb some time to-day as to whether he will construct the east end mountain climber twenty feet lower on Wentworth street. The works department requested that the distance be thirty feet, but the Board of Control decided that twenty feet would be sufficient, so that Charlton avenue could be widened at that point. Mr. Webb did agree to erect his engine house sufficiently far back so that Mountain Park avenue could be widened to 66 feet. He will be allowed to tunnel under the road for the incline cables, in return for the consideration.

The health report for the week showed a large increase in the number of whooping cough cases. Chickenpox and measles were also reported, the list being as follows: Measles, 8; whooping cough, 29; diphtheria, 1; chickenpox, 10.

OBITUARY

Death of Edward Bethune at Age of 91.

The death occurred on Thursday evening of Mrs. Clara Armitage, beloved wife of Mr. Fred Armitage, at her late home, 65 Wentworth street south. Mrs. Armitage was born in Barrie, Ont., but had been a resident of Hamilton for the past 18 years. She was in her 45th year. The remains were sent yesterday morning to Grimsby. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon to the Queen's Lawn cemetery.

One of Hamilton's oldest citizens passed away yesterday morning in Edward Bethune. Mr. Bethune, who was in his 91st years, was born in Fifeshire, Scotland, but had been a resident of Hamilton nearly all his life. F., Neil Taylor, of the Chosen Friends, and Sidney Curtis and Peter Simons, friends of the family. There were many floral tributes. Mrs. Robert McEwen is very grateful to her many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of her husband.

Much sympathy will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Smith, in the death of their little son Walter, Thursday, at the age of 6 days. The funeral took place Friday afternoon, from 20 Norway avenue.

One of Bartonville's prominent fruit growers passed away this morning in the person of William Condy, in his 90th year. Mr. Condy was born in Bartonville and had resided there all his life. A short while ago he came to the city to pay a visit to his daughter, Mrs. James McQuarrie, 184 Stinson street, where he died this morning. He used to delight to talk about old times, and could remember many interesting things about the history of Hamilton. A large family survive: Adam, Robert and John, of Bartonville; William, of Edmonton; Miss Nettie, at home, and Mrs. McQuarrie, of this city. The funeral will take place on Monday at 2 p. m., from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. James McQuarrie.

A very sad death occurred in this city yesterday in the death of Amy Marion, infant daughter of Mary and the late Richard Charles Sandwell. On the death of her husband, Mrs. Sandwell returned to England, but decided to come to Canada a short while ago. The little girl was taken sick on the boat, but appeared to be much better after landing. On arriving in Toronto yesterday she became rapidly worse, and was immediately rushed to the home of her aunt on her arrival in this city, at 150 Homewood avenue, where she succumbed. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

German Espionage Worrying Navy

Moreton Frewen, in a letter to which "The Morning Post" gives prominence this morning, says:

"I think the cradle stage of the State of Maine offers an interesting analogy to the case of Ulster, and, if it does, the verdict of English-speaking folk, and especially America, would accept the Maine precedent as pointing the way of an honorable settlement."

Mr. Frewen, who is himself in favor of a united Ireland, then outlines the historic settlement of the great Massachusetts quarrel of a century ago, and continues:

"Clearly, the time has not yet come for Ulster to do what Maine did then. The analogy could not be complete until the day after the Home Rule Act is on the statute books. On that day Ulster citizens should notify the new Irish Government that it requests separation, upon which Dublin would do what the Parliament in Massachussets did, namely, submit the question of the separation of Ulster to a referendum in exactly the terse sentences of the reference of 1816; and, just as the Federal Government in Washington, instead of rushing troops to the seat of disturbance, left this domestic incident to Maine, so also must act the Government of to-day at Westminster."

Engineer Sifton Appointed Manager

Commission, and delivery is promised within 60 days.

Mr. Sifton estimated that about 1,600 lamps would be required each year.

They did desire to purchase 500 Watt Tungsten lamps from the Canadian General Electric Company, but these are not manufactured in Canada and they are not sold in large quantities for commercial use at the present time. A Canadian factory is now in course of erection at Peterboro'.

A letter was read from the Hydro-Electric Commission, asking that Engineer Sifton and Assistant Engineer Childs be sent to Toronto on April 13 and 14 to a convention of all the various managers of Hydro departments in the Province, which is to be held in the Commissioners' laboratory in Toronto.

At this meeting all questions of intecrst affecting Hydro matters will be freely discussed, and it was agreed that Mr. Sifton and Mr. Childs go to Toronto, as requested by the Toronto Commission.

The Heodless Furniture Company wrote, asking that the electric standards be extended along King street west as far as Dundurn street, but this has already been arranged for.

The Commissioners will visit Barton street east this afternoon to enquire into the question of erecting the same king of electric standards as are being erected.

NOTICES OF ACTION.

Biggar & Treleaven, acting for A. P. Vanfleet, this morning served notice of action against the three Hamilton newspapers, Times, Spectator and Herald, claiming that the publication of the statement of claim in a suit brought against him by Ald. Chester Walters, as assignee, was of a nature to slander him.

Ignorance of the law is no excuse, but it isn't so bad as the ignorance of the lawyer.

S. AMERICAN FURS.

Viscacha, Nutria and Chinchilla and Their Habits.

Next to the pelt of the silver fox of Labrador and ermine, the snowy fur whose costliness has made it the badge of royalty and riches, the chinchilla of South America carries on its back about the most expensive material used in fashionable feminine attire.

High up on the eastern slope of the Andes in sections of Peru, Bolivia and Chile the chinchilla has its habitat. Living at an elevation of from 8,000 to 12,000 feet above the level of the set, its chilly home is responsible for its thick, warm coat and also largely for the exorbitant price it brings. It is hard to get and not plentiful — therefore it is wanted.

"It is a hopping rodent mammal," writes W. A. Reid in the Monthly Bulletin of the Pan-American Union, "somewhat resembling our common squirrel, and when standing upon its hind legs, as it does when eating, the similarity is even more noticeable. Ordinarily the body of the animal is about ten inches in length, exclusive of the tail; it is covered with a gray fur, soft and silky, which on the sides is about an inch long.

"The animals burrow in the ground and live together in villages like our prairie dogs. The natives of the Andes region hunt them with trained dogs or with grisons. What is a grison? The South American cousin to our weasel, and just about as cunning, and he easily slips into the rocky crevices where the chinchilla seeks to hide and captures it. Since the fur of the chinchilla was first introduced into Europe during the earlier part of the nineteenth century the price of the skins has soared until a lady's muff and collar of only medium size made of this material commands a price of $500 or more."

Another fur producer found in the temperate portions of South America is the nutria, a little rodent resembling the ordinary beaver of the United States. Its fur is used for making our finest felt hats as well as for ladies' muffs, collars and capes.

The viscacha is another South American rodent somewhat resembling our rabbit, but with a longer tail and shorter ears and legs. They are found on the pampas of Argentina, even down to lower Patagonia. They live in villages of mounds into which they burrow like rabbits, and have a queer habit of dragging bones, stones, thistle stalks and all kinds of hard substances apparently of no use to them, to their homes and piling these up in heaps near the entrances of their burrows.

Of the larger fur bearing animals the vicuna, one of the three representatives of the camel family to be found in South America, and which looks something like a long-necked sheep, is probably the most valuable. Seals are found on the Lobos Islands, near the mouth of the Rio de la Plata, and on the islands about Cape Horn and in the Strait of Magellan. They are not so plentiful nor is their fur as valuable as those inhabitating the icy seas of the Northern Hemisphere, but many skins from these sections find their way into the markets of the world.

A STRANGE TRIBE.

The Ibibios, of Nigeria, Have Many Odd Beliefs.

P. Amaury Talbot, of the Nigerian Political Service, who has travelled much through Africa studying the various tribes, says the Ibibios, natives of Southern Nigeria, who are of such a low type that they are called "mud-fish," rank among the most ancient of Southern Nigerian tribes, and speak different dialects of a very odd and primative tongue.

Witch doctors dominate the life of the race. As a protection against farm thefts, certain spells are recited over the long hoe used for greaking up the ground, and a "medicine" poured over it, after which it is given back to its owner to be hung up in some conspicuous place on the plantation. No sooner does the thief creep over the boundary, than the magic hoe springs to his hand. Unconsciously his fingers clasp themselves around the haft. He is bent down by the power there is no resisting, and finds himself forced against this will to hoe and hoe.

"Not for a moment can he paal, even to straighten his back, so long as a single weed remains on the farm, a single yam needed banking or a single clod would be better for breaking. So long much the evil-doer continue to work for the man he had intedned to rob. Only when the owner arrives on the scene, should he so wish, can the magic hoe be released from the hand of the thief. It is not said whether the magic has ever worked.

Quaint burial customs prevail. Slaves are frequently sacrificed at the death of a chief and buried with him. Until prohibited by the government chiefs were buried in their houses with strange ritual and sacrifice. A burial chamber was prepared underneath one of the rooms, and in this the chief's body was placed. His best loved wife and two of the most beautiful of his slaves entered the room and seated themselves at a table opposite their lord. After some ceremonial all but the women withdrew, the chamber was sealed up, and the unfortunate women were left to a lingering death.

THE THEATRES

AND THOSE IN THE FOOTLIGHT GLOW

Mr. Cyril Maude, addressing the students of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, at their graduation exercises at the Empire Theatre, New York, had this general advice to give:

"Of course you will never swerve from integrity, and you will always remember that you belong to a profession upon which shines the fiercest of lights, a light which is liable to make the most innocent actions appear the most base. Remember you will have very little walking in the shade to do nowadays, and think always of the honor of your calling. Keep all your respect for the traditions of the stage, and maintain these traditions as far as you possibly can. I mean the traditions of behavior, at rehearsal for instance.

Be keen for work, if you have the luck to be in a long run in any city, endeavor to join some society which gets up performances of plays — if there is no such society, get one up yourself. Study parts of all kinds, and so counteract the evil effects of the long runs of plays. In French companies, they often meet at the theatre and rehearse plays just for pleasure independently of the manager. That is fine. Never, never be content; for instance, if at the beginning of your careers you find yourself playing night after night some small part and doing nothing the rest of the day but eating and sleeping and amusing yourself you will look back in years to come and contemplate your wasted hours with absolute horror. That is the sort of way young men and women started their stage careers some twenty years ago before the advent of such academies as yours.

Now you have all started on such different lines. You have worked hard at the grammar of your contemplated profession. Do not relax in your efforts, keep at it, don't slack as we call it in England, you will find lots to do. There will be, for instance, every part in your own particular play to study. There will be plays to see, and players to watch, there are heaps and heaps of books you have never read yet, and there is your dancing still to improve, your fencing and exercises to keep up, your voice training to maintain, and your constant observation of human nature to make notes about. Then there will be hours which can be very pleasantly employed by trying different effects of making up on the face, and there will be the constant watch that you ever keep on yourself so that you do not outstep the modesty of nature."

Another Canadian actress has sprung into fame—almost in a night. She is Miss Maude Eburne, born at Bronte, Ont., educated at Havergal College, Toronto, and a cousin to James J. Hill, railway magnate. She is in the cast of "A Pair of Sixes," the new play by Edward Peple, author of "The Littlest Rebel," and she does a stage fall that is acclaimed as the biggest laugh getter of that comedy hit. When a slip of a girl Miss Eburne was an elocutionist ni Toronto, doing such classics as "Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night," and "The Face on the Barroom Flooor." Critics in New York praise her as a "real comedy delight," and something fresh and rib-tickling on blase Broadway. To an interviewed Miss Eburne proved almost as amusing as she is on the stage. "The day I arrived I began doing character imitations. Before I had rehearsed five hours I conld cry as naturally as any baby ten times my age."

"How did you ever get to Broadway?"

"I only made two sops after I got up steam. I went to Buffalo first, then Rochester, and then, zip—Broadway."

"Have you been on the stage long?"

"Ten years—ten long years. Mostly in stock. But, as I said, I have been doing imitations ever since I began mocking my nurse. Before I took up the stage in earnest I was an elocutionist—a small time elocutionist—and I am not ashamed of it. Many times I supplied an entire evening's programme and entertainment in the town hall, churches, and lodge halls near my Canadian home."

Talented young musical artists who have fought courageously but without success for chances to earn livings have a real friend. Most of them do not as yet know it. But these earnest music folk whose talents are well above the ordinary and who have used them rightly, as they should have been used, may inhale the breath of hope. An organization such as has never before been known called the Music League of America has just come into being, and its chief purpose is to give those who truly deserve them opportunities to demonstrate their fitness to serve the public in professional capacities and to be commensurately paid therefor. This genuinely human organization is so new that it has not had time to select its full board of directors, but the officers chosen are men and women of affairs whose names are known throughout the land. Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer is president; Mrs. Otto H. Kahn is serving as second vice-president; Mrs Linzee Blagden is third vice-president, and Messrs. Dave Hennen Morris and Alvin Krech are respectively secretary and treasurer. These public spirited citizens, and their associates in the enterprise, are members of influential families. They are not only active socially, but are prominent in large and important musical undertakings. Recognizing the need of bettering conditions of worthy musical artists, the officers and directors of the Music League of America are preparing to provide assistance of substantial sort. This assistance is not to consist merely of kind words, of well wishes, of pats on the back. It is to take definite form in shape of securing engagements for those that deserve them, and of providing efficient musical artists to organizations and others seeking their services.

Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson's father was a contemporary of John Ruskin and one of the most eminent literary and art critics of his generation. He was an intimate friend of Gabriel Dante Rossetti and Holman Hunt. He was one of the prophets of the pre-Raphaelite movement and a member of the band of writers who paved the way, and prepared the public mind for John Francois Miller and the art standards of the twentieth century. He wrote a revue of the world's greatest painters from Cimabue to Sirr Joshua Reynolds, which stands as an authority to-day. Johnstone Forbes-Robertson started out to be a painter and served his apprenticeship in some of the most famous ateliers of Paris. He was hung on the line four or five times at the London Royal Academy. One of his best pictures was commissioned by the late Sir Henry Irving, the church scene from "Much Ada About Nothing," which hangs in the Players' Club in New York. Though he still paints—particularly portraits of his three daughters—he gave up painting for the stage "to help the family out—I was the youngest of eleven children," as he himself puts it.

Pillie Burke has opened in New York in "Jerry," a comedy by Catherine Cushman Cushing. It is an American comedy in three acts, designed to exhibit the waywardness, charm and instinctive sense of "a girl an hour ahead of time." The scenes are laid in the suburbs of Philadelphia. "Jerry" is a Chicago girl. She is visiting her aunt, a woman of thirty-eight, who has been engaged to be married to a man of forty for the past twenty years. The marriage has been postponed from time to time for various reasons. "Jerry" herself falls in love with her aunt's betrothed, and is determined to win him. She has learned incidentally that her aunt is really in love with an Englishman from Kansas City, tnd this convenient coincidence helps her to achieve her purpose and bring about the desired ending

To "stuff" a theatre with passes, given out in department stores, is now currently known as "gimbelizing," states the latest press agent information from New York. There down at one of the big department stores, where managers of bad shows dump punched tickets, the management has put the following sign on the bulletin board: "Employees must not accept passes more than twice weekly, as they lack ambition the day after a night at the theatre. On Friday night no employee should go to the theatre, as Saturday is too hard a day."

Wm. H. Crane, Douglas Fairbanks, Amelia Bingham and Patricia Collinge, as the four stars of "The New Henrietta," have just closed a remarkable engagement at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, where they were received with every sign of favor both by critics and the public generally. The four stars are to make a tour of the principal cities of Canada. Hamilton is one of the places they will visit.

AT THE GRAND

Victor Herbert's latest musical offering, "Sweethearts," scored a decided success Thursday evening and at the two performances on the holiday, and ranks high among the tuneful comedies which have visited Hamiltin during the season. This dainty operetta appropriately descended upon the city like the breath of spring, and the myriad flowers and buds and leaves which accompany it, and many a Hamilton opera-goer turned with relief from the heavier tragic offerings that have predominated this season to the refreshing triumvirate of mirth, melody and maids. It would be difficult to locate a greater variety of entertainment ocmpressed into a compass of a single evening. For three hours in "Sweethearts" the fun did not lag, and only once during the performance did the convulsed audience have an opportunity to compose itself, and that was the intermission of the two acts into which the operetta is divided.

The plot of the piece was of little moment, but sufficient. The music was light and exhilirating, the action brisk and the mountings sumptuous. The comedy was rare and delightful, not verging to the vulgar, as do so many musical offerings from the other side. The fun-maker, of course, was far-famed Tom McNaughton, whose like has not been seen here for several seasons. He was well assisted by Miss Ethel DuFre Houston and the following trio: Lionel Walsh, Frank Belcher and Robert O'Connor. Miss Nella McCoy, a sweet-voiced prima donna of charming form, created an unusual impression in her solo work, displaying the high, clear notes of her entrancing voice to best advantage. Edwin Wilson, as a military Lothario; Miss Eleanor Henry and Carl Gantvoort, the latter as monarch of Zilania, were well received at each of the three performances, as were the dainty members of the female chorus.

While many of those who attended the opera house Thursday and Friday had looked for Christie McDonald, with whom the company left New York a month ago, they were not at all disappointed on her non-appearance, the principals present being equal to any in musical comedy here during the last year.

At the Grand this afternoon and evening will be presented a play of a most peculiar type. To-day, white slavery is the imminent and vital problem of the thinking world, and the awful truths about it are depicted. Rachael's Marshall's four-act play, "The Traffic" is staged in so genuinely dramatic and amazingly truthful manner as to astonish. In Chicago, where "The Traffic" was produced some weeks ago, it was only a matter of two performances and the play became "the talk of the town." This remarkable play by Rachael Marshall is said to be so truthfully astonishing as to have evoked both the wonder and the approval of those who think that the naked truth is what the people want from the theatre as well as from the newspaper and the churches. "The Traffic," it is said, is such a play, and it is presented with every attention to fine and perfect setting, costuming and acting. It is the most daring arraignment of social nad industrial conditions ever acted, and it is at the same time a play of intense and compelling human interest.

The story of Marc Antony's ill-fated passion for the beanteous Egyptian

DONALD BRIAN

In "The Marriage Market," at the Grand Opera House.

Queen Cleopatro is familiar to almost every reader and student of history. It stands out pre-eminently as one of the world's great love tragedies, and has been immortalized in poetry, song and in drama. It has remained, however, for George Kleine to do it fitting justice in his production of the Cines photo drama "Anthony and Cleopatra," which comes to the Grand next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and is said to surpass anything that has been accomplished in this wonderful new art. All the mighty attributes of the story are produced as faithfully by the camera as they have been by pen and brush, and the influence is even more potent, as it visualizes the story, leaving little to the imagination. It begins with the conquest of Egypt by Marc Antony and his peremptory summons to Cleopatra to be brought to him as hostage. Her charms fascinate him at their first meeting and he falls a victim to her wiles. His noble compatriots and loving wife in Rome are soon forgotten, and Antony rules in Egypt as consort of Cleopatra, completely swayed by his passion for her. The news of his condition reaches Rome. Messages are sent to him to return to his home and country, but he rejects them. His wife journeys to Egypt to win him back. He spurns her and Cleopatra insults her. Indignantly the wife returns to Rome and tells her story. The Roman Senate determine to punish Anthony and send an army to bring him back. The soldier-lover defends Egypt and Cleopatra has been repulsed in her overtures to Rome, she kills herself through the sting of an asp, rather than return to Rome as a slave. All these incidents are related on the screen with vivid realism and hosts of other interesting details that occur while Antony is in Egypt. Plot and counterplot make an entertainment of absorbing interest that holds the spectator spellbound from beginning to end. There will be matinees daily.

LUPINO LANE, A LONDON FAVORITE WHO IS EXPECTED TO MAKE A GREAT HIT IN AMERICA WITH HIS INGENIOUS DANCING AND COMIC SONGS. HE WILL HEADLINE THE TEMPLE BILL NEXT WEEK.

Of all the wondrous, charming, captivating, heart-taking specimens of the female gender that inhabit this mortal world, the widow has generally been conceded to be the most alluring. The maiden may be fair and entrancing, yet she is but the budding flower, while the widow is the bud that has blossomed into full bloom with all the rare magic of her sex at its zenith. Poor old Ichabod Crane said: "He who would court a lady must not tarry; he must make hay while the sun doth shine. He must not say, Shall I or will I, but boldly say, 'Widow, thou must be mine.'" And when the conditions are reversed and the widow says it unto the man, as the Red Widow does in the musical play of that name, which comes to the Grand next Saturday, what can a poor man do but bow his modest head and say: "I am yours to command"? But when this man has an attachment in the way of a wife and the Red Widow is the chief of a band of Russian Nihilists, and is using him as a decoy, there is bound to be something brewing, and there is, a whole big melting pot of bubbling wit, catchy music, dreamy waltzes, bewitching girlies in dazzling costumes, who pour out an evening of enchantment.

Many good playgoers who feel that Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson is intellectually at his greatest in classical drama—in such dominating characters as Hamlet, Shylock, Othello and Macbeth—believe that he has lost something in prestige by excursions into ephemeral modern drama. This is not so. The art of the actor should have no boundaries. That was the view of the old histrions—among them Sauel Phelps, to whom Forbes-Robertson, who was his pupil, frankly confesses he ownes everything. Whatever the true and earnest actor plays he dignifies. For forty years Forbes-Robertson has filled a worthy place on the English stage, associated with the best art of his time, and playing with some of the greatest of his calling—Irving, Hare, the Bancrofts, Modjeska and Mary Anderson. Gertrude Elliott (Lady Forbes-Robertson) will be seen with her husband during his farewell visit to this city, appearing in all the leading feminine roles in his repertoire. Miss Elliott is well known in Canada, not only in support of her distinguished husband, but as an independent star on her own account. For his positively last appearance in Hamilton at the Grand Opera House on Monday and Tuesday nights and Tuesday matinee, April 20 and 21, Forbes-Robertson will present "Hamlet" on Monday night; "Passing of the Third Floor Back," Tuesday matinee, and "The Light That Failed," Tuesday night.

"Within the Law," one of the most successful dramas produced in years, is to be offered at the Grand shortly. "Within the Law" is within life—every line of it. "'Tis a story of absorbing interest cut out of human experience," wrote Harriot Stanton Blatch, the great suffrage leader, after witnessing a performance of Bayard Veiller's smashing drama of modern conditions in New York life. This is the play which ran over 600 nights at the Eltinge Theatre in New York. BIG INCREASE IN ESTIMATES

Ontario's Total For This Year is $17,437,738.

HYDRO $5,000,000

Apparently For the Radial Railways Scheme.

Toronto, April 10.—If a generous appropriation of money for public works is any indication of the approach of a general election the estimates of the Province for the current year may be taken as an accurate guide. Hon. I. B. Lucas introduced into the Legislature yesterday further supplementary estimates to the amount of $6,174,027, which, with the main estimates, passed last session and the supplementary estimates now before the House, make a total of estimated expenditure to be voted by the House (and exclusive of statutory payments) of $17,437,738.

The amount is greatly in excess of the vote for any year preceding. For 1912-13 the total supply bill was $13,-[illegible]; in 1911-12 the estimates were $12,933,756.

It must be noted that the bulk of the further supplementary estimates is made up of an amount of $5,000,000 for the Hydro-electric Power Commission, which apparently is provided for the immediate prosecution of the radial railway scheme, which has become so popular in all sections of the Province. Last year the Hydro vote was $2,500,000, and is ample to provide for the contemplated extension to the transmission system, of which particulars have already been given by Hon. Adam Beck.

Of the larger items $125,000 is provided for the completion of new Government House. There is a grant of $80,000 to Toronto University. Queen's University Medical School gets $10,000 and Western University a similar sum.

For the Public Roads and Highways Commission there is a vote of $75,000.

Sir William Meredith is to get $7,500 for his services as Commissioner on Workmen's Compensation.

The Cartier Memorial at Montreal is to receive $5,000 and the Champlain Monument at Orillia $2,500.

A conditional grant of $15,000 is included for the Interprovincial Bridge at Hawkesbury. The dock at Rondeau Park is to be repaired at a cost of $2,000.

FOR COLONIZATION ROADS.

The colonization roads grant, including by-law roads, is $433,959. Last year the expenditure on colonization roads was $406,004. A recapitulation of the votes under this branch is: North Division, $162,078; West Division, $57,687; East Division $132,094; Timiskaming Division, $72,653; miscellaneous, $10,046. A few items were included in the main and supplementary estimates, but the amount above given constitutes the main vote for colonization road construction. In addition to this there is the work to be carried on by Mr. J. F. Whitson, which will amount to over $1,000,000.

For public buildings in Northern Ontario there are several important grants. Sault Ste. Marie is to get a new Court House and Jail to cost $60,000; $10,000 additional is provided for the Registry Office at Fort William: $6,500 will be spent o nrepairs liam: $6,500 will be spent on repairs to the Treasury Department and Post-office at the Parliament buildings. Other expenditures for public buildings are: $10,000 for the Hospital for Apileptics at Wodstock, $3,000 for installing Hydro-electric at the Institute for the Blind at Brantford; $2,500 for the Institute for the Deaf at Belleville; repairs to the Hospital for the Insane at London, $1,000.

For the maintenance of the Central Prison at Toronto there is a further vote of $13,000; $8,000 for London Asylum.

HOSPITAL FOR TORONTO.

An important item for Toronto is a vote of $6,000 for the maintenance of a Reception Hospital for Insane on Gerrard street, which is part of the old General Hospital property.

The remainder of the estimates consist largely of salary increases and amount to provide for salaries of officials in the newer districts.

The new Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries will start on a salary of $2,600

The grant of $80,000 to Toronto University is apparently made to cover the current deficit as indicated by Sir Edmund Walker to the members of the House last week. This would seem to indicate that the Government had in mind dealing in a comprehensive way with the financial situation of the University before another session, and this preliminary grant is made to assist the Board of Governors in their immediate needs.

SIGNS OF TROUBLE.

A Toronto authority, well in touch with the labor situation, writes: There are not wanting signs of a movement in the ranks of labor which may result in a general shake-up of all existing organizations, and perhaps lead to a new alignment of labor's forces under a new form of organization. What particular form, or under what banner labor in the future, and perhaps near future, will march, no one at the present moment dare venture to say, but that there is a change of some sort "in the air" no one can very well deny. The evidences of trouble brewing are too apparent to be ignored, nor, indeed, should they be, if the march of labor is to continue forward, and not in a backward direction.

Although it is possible, and from all appearances very probable that there may be some friction and disturbance in the labor camp, it does not necessarily follow that there will be any real check to the general onward and progressive movement of the great army of labor. It does mean, however, that good generalship will be needed if every possible temporary disaster is to be averted. When coolheaded leadership, even the spectre of civil war in the camp of labor may prove to be but an omen of ultimate good to the cause as a whole.

FEDERATION OF MUSICIANS.

The American Federation of Musicians is booming everywhere in Canada. Dave Carey, executive officer of the Ninth District, which comprises the larger part of Canada, has sent aut a circular to every local union in the Dominion to be as fully represented as posesible at the coming convention of the organization, which will be held in Des Moines, Iowa, during the month of June. Nevt week he will personally organize a new local union in Port Credit, with fifty charter members, and during the same week he will pay an official visit to the St. Mary's local in connection with some important business there. The A. F. of M. is getting to be one of Canada's big international unions.

NEW YORK WAGES.

The organized mechanics in four large branches of the building trades in New York City began the new year with advances in wages. The bricklayers, who form the largest of the four groups of employees, receive an advance in wages from $5.60 a day to $6 a day, and about 5,000 stone setters started the new year with the same advance and the same wage schedule. About 3,000 composition roofers will receive an advance from $3.25 a day to $3.50 a day, and the employers have granted a request from the Inside Electrical Workers' Union for an increase in wages from $4.50 to $4.80 a day, affecting more than 3,000 mechanics in the trade. The wages to be paid to the bricklayers and stone setters—$6 a day—are the largest ever paid in these trades in this country.

BIG BOOST FOR U. A. P. AND S.

The Hamilton local of the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters was advised from the international office that the members of the New York, Detroit and Newark international unions have joined the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters. This means an addition of about 10,000 members to the U. A. of P. and S.

A UTOPIAN MOVE.

Congressman McGillicuddy of Maine has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which provides for the payment of compensation to disabled civilian employees of the Government. The measure proposes a pension for life for total disability resulting from an accident while in the performance of duty.

BAD CONDITIONS.

A recent report of the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Commission shows that many women employed in industrial establishments do not receive enough money to provide them with the necessities of life and that less than 20 per cent. of the workers in any occupation are paid more than $7 a week.

CHEAPER FOOD.

The Trades and Labor Council of Toronto is conferring with farmers on a plan whereby the working classes of that city may be able to obtain the products of the farm direct, thereby eliminating the "middleman."

SAVE WILD DUCKS

Legislature Will Stop the Wholesale Slaughter

By Limiting Bag to a Hundred Brace.

Toronto, April 10.—Limiting the bag of wild ducks in one season to 200 birds was the decision arrived at by the Fish and Game Committee of the Legislature in regard to the bill of Dr. Anderson (South Essex), who sought to limit the number to 100. At the same time Hon. J. O. Reaume, who presided, said he would apply to the Federal Government to prohibit the export of wild fowl out of the province. Dr. Anderson declared the intention of his bill was to stop pothunters, who go in for the wholesale slaughter of the wild duck on the St. Clair flats and at Rondeau Park on Lake Erie.

Mr. W. H. Doherty, St. Thomas, who said he was asked to represent amateur sportsmen from a number of places, said unless there was a prohibition of the sale or operations or a material limiting of the slaughtering, the time was not far distant when wild ducks would be a thing of the past in the province. He submitted that in the interests of amateur sport a reasonable limit should be fixed.

DUCKS BECOMING SCARCE.

Mr. Norman (Prince Edward) said ducks were becoming more scarce every year, and thought that a limit should be placed to this slaughtering and that the law should then be enforced.

Col. Hendrie (Hamilton) said he was strictly in favor of the enforcement of the game laws and the conservation of fish and game. He questioned, however, if they would be able to keep track of these market hunters.

Mr. Pratt (South Norfolk) advocated the imposition of a substantial fee of $50 or $60 on the market hunter. He regarded the limit of 100 ducks as ridiculously small. The figure should be 400 or 500.

Mr. Macdiarmid (West Elgin) supported the bill, declaring that he had come across many people who had told him that to place the figure at 100 would protect more than 99 per cent. of the men who go in for legitimate sport.

After some further talk the bulk of opinion was that 200 ducks was reasonable.

The clause relating to the prohibition of the sale of ducks was struck out.

"WHEN THE BAIRNIES CUDDLE DOON"

—By ELSPETH

Awake, glad soul! awake, awake!
Thy Lord hath risen long;
Go to His grave, and with thee take
Both tuneful heart and song.
When life is waking all around,
When love's sweet voices sing,
The first bright blossoms may be found
Of an eternal spring.

And every bird and every tree
And every opening flower
Proclaim His glorious victory,
His resurrection power.
The folds are glad, the fields rejoice
With vernal verdure spread.
The little hills left up their voice
And shout that death is dead.

Then wake, glad heart, awake, awake!
And seek thy risen Lord;
Joy in His resurrection take,
And comfort in His word,
And let thy life through all its ways
One long thanksgiving be,
Its theme of joy, its song of praise,
"Christ died and rose again!"

"Almighty Father, Who hast given Thine only Son to die for our sins, and to rise again for our justification, grant us so to put away the leaven of malice and wickedness, that we may always serve Thee in pureness of living and truth, through the merits of the same, Thy Son, Jesus Christ, our Lord."

I hope to-morrow may be fine. Glad Easter music, glad people going up to the house of the Lord, bright glances telling of the resurrection, filling all the Room with the sweet incense of the risen Life. And, what may seem trivial to some, may the day be fine that, in all freshness and beauty, our people shall carry on their persons some token of their belief in Easter joy, whether it be a new bonnet or hat, pretty ribbon or bunch of flowers.

After hearing Dr. Helen McMurchy's address on the care of the feeble-minded, of whom there are over 6,000 in Canada, one cannot fail to be convinced of the absolute necessity of preparing to meet and check the ingrowing tide of the feeble-minded, if this country is not to suffer great loss, morally as well as financially. What is to be done with the poor, distraught souls that here and there are to be met with? Those who, in no way are responsible for the mental deficiency which leaves them helpless and dependent on the hands of families, who however, as they may love them as no doubt they do, most devotedly, yet must in time pass away and leave to strangers their care. A home is urgently needed, and it is a comforting thought that the country, and our Government, is awakening to the tremendous needs of such, and no longer can shirk, if it would, the terrible consequences of leaving even 6,000 people to wander at will and reproduce their kind.

In this age of the telephone we have come to value more highly the soft and modulated tone in habitual speaking. When we merely wrote or telegraphed to our friends we took little notice of voice tones in the messages, says a writer in "Baptist Standard." Nowadays we frequently converse with persons whom we never saw and whom we may never see. One liberal user of the telephone says that she often communicates with an unknown person at the other end of the line whose voice has caused her to wish to know the talker better. There has been something about the manner, pitch and inflection that indicated a fine and sympathetic nature behind the voice. We wonder how many of us who are using the telephone daily are giving out that impression to the one at the other end of the wire.

More than that, it has been known that the sweet telephone girl did get to be known and also in due course of time won her husband through her telephone voice.

March said to April:
"I see three sheep on yonder hill,
If you give me days three
I'll see to make them dee."

The first of them was wind and wet,
The second it was snow and sleet,
The third, then was sic a freeze
The wee birds webs stuck to the trees.

This is a very old legend of what is called the "borrowing days." When March borrowed of April, and these days were unusually severe. In any case, if they did not come until a little later, there were always three days of weet, sleet and freeze.

Perhaps some of my old country readers may know of this legend, and it may have different versions. I'd like to hear from them.

How careless we are nowadays of our books! It makes one ache as if an injury were done a dear friend, to see the broken-backed, dog-eared, thumb-marked books that one so loves and fain would cherish. Up to the beginning of the fourteenth century books were written by hand, and this made them very costly. They were written on parchment, on waxed tablets, or on papyrus. At last a German discovered how to make paper out of linen rags. If you hold paper sheets to the light, writes S. Baring Gould, you will see that there are peculiar marks on them, called water-marks; these were originally the badges of the makers. The very earliest of these marks is a circle with a cross in it, and was adopted by the first inventor in 1301. Many of the water-marks are the badges of noble families, whose tenants made the paper. Other symbols are the fleur-de-lys, the unicorn and the anchor. Fools' cap paper is so called because paper of that size was originally marked with a jester's cap and bells, and post paper takes its name from a bugle which was in use as a watermark on paper of this size by the manufacturers from 1370. It sometimes appears on a shield, and in the seventeenth century is surmounted by a ducal coronet, in which form it is still used on ordinary writing paper. The first paper factories in Germany were between Cologne and Mainz, about the year 1320. In Nuremberg a factory worked by water-power was established in 1390 which was quite a novelty.

Printing was discovered by John Gutenberg in 1436. Already wood-cut pictures, and even written sentences, had been printed, but no one had thought of making moveable letters. At first the paper was pressed down on the engraved block, and printed on one side. The outlines only of figures were printed, and then they were painted in by hand. At last John Gensfleisch, of Sulgeloch, known as Gutenberg, which was the maiden name of his mother, saw how much better it would be to have movable types. As he was a poor man he went to a rich goldsmith, John Fust, of Mainz, and to Peter Schoffer, a professional copyist, of Gernsheim, to get help. Schoffer drew and wrote beautifully, and he was to design the letters, and Fust was to find the money for casting them. They also invented printers' ink, and in 1457 issued the first printed book, the Latin psalter, and five years later the first printed Bible.

Apropos of Ambassador Page's speech, which he didn't make, at a public junction in England, and which so agitated our friends of the United States, Mr. Dooly has said to his friend Hennessy, "I've been thinking about this problem of the unemployed." There's wurruk f'r iv'rybody that wants wurruk and many that don't! Said Mr. Hennessy."

"I'm not thinking about the same thing ye are," said Mr. Doly. "I'm wondering if we can't find some way for our Ambassadors to England to entertain the English people without speaking in public. It's a turrible strain on thim, it's a turrible sthrain on us, and it's a good deal of a strhain on the English people. Not that I care much what happens to our hereditary inimies or cousins, but it makes me onaisy to wake up in th' mornin' an' learn that th' American ambassadure in ordher to amuse th' annyooal meetin' iv th' Hon'rable Guild iv Deck Hands has offered to turn over Michigan to th' Canajen govermint because iv th' gratichood he feels toward Wilium Shakespeare.

"Diplomacy is a different thing nowadays. It is like international chess that is played by cable. After he disposes of his routine duties, the embassador has to go out and entertain. Mind ye, there is no harder task in the world than to make a hearty Briton laugh without ye break a leg or set down on yer hat.' Thin he stops jokin' and thries to touch this hard people with sintiment.

"'I will appeal to their hearts,' he says. He goes out to Shakespeare's birthplace an' places a wreath on it fr'm the' Lithry an' Baseball Club iv Oskyloosa. They are not moved. He visits Westminster Abbey an' weeps over th' tomb if George th' Third. They don't seem to care. He proposes to dig up th' remains iv George Washington an' bury thim in th' abbey. They tell him there ain't room. He informs thim that England is th' fount iv th' pure an' ondefiel English that is used be us, an' all they say is: 'O, what bally rot!'

"So he's dhriven to greater an' greater lengths to get a hand, an' befure he's through he's offerin' to cancel th' Declaration iv Indypendence, an' pull down Bunker Hill monymint. I don't blame th' ambassadure to th' coort iv Saint James f'r what he said about th' Monroe Docthrine. He was dhriven to it be that stolid English aujence. He had told thim forty stories f'rm Hostetter an' they had not laughed. He had told thim that th' same blood coorsed through their veins an' ours, an' they only looked annoyed. He had described how bad he felt ivry time he wint by Westminster Abbey, an' they refused to weep with him. At five o'clock in th' mornin', in a fit iv desp'ration, he took up th' Monroe Docthrine an' jumped on it."

"What is the Monroe Docthrine?" asked Mr. Hennessy.

"Large volumes has been wrote about it," said Mr. Dooley, "an' manny learned statesmen has thried to explain it. But all I can make iv it is that it manes: 'Ye keep out iv our back yard.'"

And so Ambassador Page read his next speech to satisfy the people of the United States.

It is told of a certain lady that, desirous of adding the last touch to a beautiful bit of sculpture, she draped it with some fine lace. So, no doubt, our good friends have thought, who draped our Queen Victoria's statue in the Gore with two flags, that in their weary way tell of forgetfulness of the donors to have removed. Two weeks is the official court mourning, and three months is too long even with most loyal intent, to carry the badge of mourning.

In some large cities a by-law prevents such ornamentation. A wreath of flowers, fresh as is the queen's memory in our hearts, is enough, and should be removed when faded. In any case, a monument should not be obscured in outline. Please take them off, Parks Board, or whoever put these flags on the beautiful monument to our late queen. (Later.—They are off, I see, but the rule holds for all future.)

Surely Hamilton will be the city of light when all those Hydro-Electrics are aglow, and the dark corners, full of fearsome shadows, are a thing of the past. Darkness and evil are synonymous terms. In the city that is fair "there shall be no more night." In my soul I cry out against the cruel training to which sensitive children are subjected, because they want someone to go up the dark stairs with them at bedtime, or want a light. It is the child's protest against the unseen powers of darkness, and those tears tell of real agony that perhaps we of older growth think are all nonsense. Do not be too sure. The day may come when nerves may cry out for more light, and when the darkness comes down like a pall, shutting you out from the joy of this light—you cannot sleep in the dark. This lesson has been mine to learn, and "be it too much to hope that we may have more consideration for those who would "fain see Jesus."

The Lazy Woodpecker.

Woodpeckers are the greatest stay-in-beds of all the American birds, while robins are among those who stay up latest at night and get up earliest in the morning. A New Hampshire naturalist has made such careful observations of the sleep habits of native birds that he can now tell pretty closely the minute when any particular bird will become sleepy in the evening or will wake up in the morning.

By timing, day after day, the last notes heard from various birds and by listening in the morning for their chirps and calls, he has found that their sleep habits are very regular, though in the busy months of spring household responsibilities they are apt to get up earlier than at other seasons.

On the average, downy woodpeckers were not heard from after half an hour before sunset and pileated woodpeckers after an hour before sunset. They slept in the morning until ten or twenty minutes after sunrise, in contrast to the robin, which is up more than an hour before sunrise, and the wood pewee, which is up an hour and a half before sunup.

The robins, pewees and thrushes, he found, generally retired for the night about half an hour after sunset, so the wookpeckers usually took two or three hours more sleep than the pewees or the robins.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Confessions of a Wife

The Great Family I Married Into

CHAPTER CXXV.

After I had made the terrible "break" of saying I had seen Mollie in worse company than a chorus girl Dick got near enough to me to say: "Well, Margie, you've done it now." And I answered, as I slipped my hand in his: "Oh, Dick, I'm awfully sorry, but your mother riles me so that I do not know enough to keep my mouth shut."

By this time we were upstairs and Mother Waverly insisted that I had insulted both Mollie and herself, and that I must make some explanation.

"Oh, what's the use, mother," said Dad, "of making such a fuss about it. Probably Jack's little chorus girl is all right. I have never thought that chorus of a comic opea brands her with the scarlet letter, and I presume Margie is right, for she has seen Mollie with almost any of the young men she goes with, and the young men of to-day are not angels of light."

Mollie came over and slipped her hand around my shoulders, at which Mother Waverley called her to do some trivial thing for her.

"Well," I said, "I have rarely met a girl I liked better than Mary Dunlap, and I called upon her because Jack told me that he wanted me to and intimated that he was in love with her." Mother Waverley groaned. "Eliene Symone and I had her at tea and dinner and we found her charming, and as for me I think that Jack might go farther and fare worse."

"I will write to Jack immediately and tell him my opinion of this clandestine affair," said mother, "and I must say, Margaret" (whenever Mother Waverly desires to put me fully in my place she calls me Margaret), "that I think you overstepped the bounds by abetting Jack in introducing a girl of that kind into a family in which you are almost a stranger yourself."

"Come, come, mother, you are letting your temper run away with you," said Dad.

"But think what it would mean if we had to welcome a girl of that class into our family! I would die of shame."

Aunt Mary had said nothing, but now she spoke up: "I am sure, Sallie, that any young girl who is honest, sincere and sweet can be welcomed into any family."

Just as they were getting ready to go home Mollie came over and whispered: "Margie, I'll not forgive you for not letting me meet my future sister-in-law."

"Hush, dear," I said, for I saw Mother Waverly watching us, "Perhaps Jack is not so much in love with her as he thinks he is, and you can't tell, maybe she will like some other fellow better."

But Mollie, with a sister's loving pride, was certain that no girl could even look at another man when she had a chance of falling in love with her brothers.

"You never cared for anyone else, did you, Madge?" she questioned.

"Of course, I did!" I said, teasingly.

"Honest, Madge, isn't Dick your first and only love?"

"Not by any manner of means, my dear. My first love was a little chap in short trousers, and I had numberless others of more or less stability before I met Dick."

Why is it that everyone seems to think that a woman must only love once?

Heinrich Heine, one of the greater and most catholic of lovers, says: "A woman cannot love twice. Her nature is too tender to endure a second time the terrific emotional earthquake."

I think that both men and women fall in love first with species rather than the individual. Man falls in love with woman and woman with man many times, but all at once they find it is the particular man or woman and then: "A light that was never on land or sea breaks for them."

LITTLE DISCUSSIONS OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE

BY BARBARA BOYD

Marriage a Calling or Career.

"I heard a statement to-day about marriage," said the Clubwoman, "that has a lot of food for thought in it."

"What is it?' asked the Frivolous Young Thing, eagerly. "I just dote on noble thoughts about marriage."

"I heard a lecturer say that marriage is the noblest of all callings, but the meanest of all professions."

The Frivolous Young Thing puckered her brow. "I don't understand just what he meant. Seems to me he contradicts himself. One minute he calls marriage noble, and the next minute mean."

"I thought you would say that," laughed the Clubwoman. "Lots of you young girls make no distinction whatever between marriage as a calling and as a profession. You go into it without considering in which of these ways you are taking it. Yet you expect certain definite results from it, no matter what you bring to it. And so, many of you are unhappy."

"But what is the difference?' puzzled the Frivolous Young Thing, still puckering her forehead. "I think 'profession' sounds better. It makes you feel as if you had taken degrees, and studier hard and done all sorts of serious, high-brow things."

The Clubwoman laughed again. "If those who take it professionally would do a few of these things it would be better. But I don't mean professionally in that sense. I mean professionally in the sense of a business. And that is the way the lecturer meant, and why he said it was mean. The woman who takes up marriage as a business, as a way of earning her living, is certainly missing the highest, finest significance of it. But the woman who goes into it because a call has come that has aroused all the best in her nature, and who looks upon the work that awaits her almost as a sacred vocation, does find it noble."

"I see," said the Frivolous Young Thing, "and in reality, then, taking it as a calling is the more serious way to consider it."

"It certainly is," responded the Clubwoman. "But the trouble is, not many take it that way. If they don't take it quite as sordidly as a means of earning their living or finding a home, they take it rather superficially, as the accepted thing to do from a social or conventional stand-point. When realy there ought to be a true call to it, the same as to any other great life work. And if that call doesn't come, a call that awakens an eager response in every fibre of their being, they ought not to go into it."

"I am afraid there would not be many marriages," said the Frivolous Young Thing, soberly.

"There'd be only happy ones and no divorces. And I think after marriage was adjusted to the new basis, the rate would not be lowered so much. Men and women want to be happy, and the fact that they saw about them only happy marriages would make them look very kindly upon it."

The Early Flowers

"Daffodil, crocus and lily—
They stir, they break from the sod,
They are glad of the sun and they open
Their golden hearts to God.
They and the wilding family—
Windflower, violet, may—
They rise from the long, long dark
To the estacy of day."

But how many professing to be garden lovers can say when the daffodils and crocus in the garden broke from the sod?

A garden writer of note once said: "Most amateur gardeners are far too late coming out of their shells and far too early creeping into them."

As the Indians measured time, March was known as "the green moon," while April was called "the moon of plants," for the flowers have heard the call of spring and have responded. What gardeners can tell when the snowdrops first appeared in their gardens? To many the various occupants of the garden are merely garden "acquaintances," not "friends." The little snowdrop, called by the French "perce-neige," (though whether it really forces its way through the snow is a matter of doubt, but its early appearance can not be contested. This little plant seems eager to bloom and any weather during "the green moon" time, which has vague hint of spring approach, will coax the tiny plant to open its white bells. This little flower was given the name of "the fair maid of February," the explanation being that in olden times they were grown in monastery gardens in large quantities to adorn the altars of the Virgin on the Feast of Purification.

The snowdrops are exceedingly fond of retirement and seem to prefer poor ground to meet this preference. In Holland the bulbs are grown under hedges and in orchards, where the roots of the trees impoverish the ground and take from it what the little bulbs seem to greatly dislike. As far as can be learned the first snowdrops came from Germany and Hungary, though a late blooming sort originally came from Constantinople. The German name for these little flowers is schnee-glockchen, and suggests and association with snow (schnee), but whether snowdrop, perce-neige, or schnee-glockchen, it is doubtful whether many Hamilton gardeners were aware of the arrival of those members of Flora's family, or gave to them the welcome the brave little plants deserve.

This Boy Had Fits For Six Years
Two best doctors gave him up
Wonderful Cure effected by Dr. Chases Nerve Food

This Letter Tells the Story

Mrs. J. D. Palmer, 38 Park Street, Amsterdam, N.Y., writes:—"When six years of age my boy began to have fits. They came on in the night. He would make strange noises, stiffen out, froth at mouth, face would twitch and some times turned purple. After the fit he could not talk.

"The family physician said all he could do was to keep them down somewhat. The second physician pronounced trouble Jeffersonian epilepsy, but could not cure him. He suffered for six years and before beginning the use of DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD had three fits in about five days. Our druggist recommended DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD. He has taken seven boxes and has not had the symptom of a fit since beginning this treatment five months ago. His color has greatly improved; he is not nervous and irritable like he used to be, and we consider his cure a most remarkable one."

Makes Puny Children Strong and Robust

Epilepsy is a form of nervous exhaustion and disappears when the vigor of the nervous system is restored. Such symptoms as headache, dizziness, ringing in the ears, irritability of temper and specks before the eyes give warning of danger ahead. It may be paralysis, epilepsy or some other form of nervous collapse. The warning tells you that such restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is necessary to revitalize the feeble, wasted nerve cells, to fill the system with vigor and ward off dangerous disease.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so mild and gentle in action and at the same time so powerful in its reconstructive influence that it is admirably suited as a means of restoring pale, weak, nervous children to health and vigor. Such ailments as Ricketts and St. Vitus' Dance are overcome and vitality is so increased that trouble from indigestion, headaches and weak eyes disappear.

This food cure is a wonderful help during the growing period when physiological changes are taking place and when school work is particularly trying on the nervous system. MATTERS MILITARY

Bringing the established strength of the Thirteenth Royal Regiment up to a hundred men a company, is another step that will be recorded in the military history of Hamilton—a step that is bound to bring great results. Not only will a greater number of young men have the opportunity of joining this popular regiment, but the increased number will materially assist Lieut.-Col. Ross to carry on military manoeuvres. Fod instance, here is the dividing of the regiment. It may be interesting to know that in actual or sham warfare, if orders came for a regiment to advance to the firing line they would not do so in a compact body, but in sections. Eight companies comprise a regiment, each company under a captain, who in turn are under the commanding officer. These companies would be divided into four sections, each section under a sergeant. These sections would again be divided into squads, each squad made up of about sixteen men each under a corporal—quite a tidy little command. All these small units would then advance, and while separate would still be guided by the one head. As the local regiment is now established a division into squads can not be made., as there are insufficient men, but with the new order in effect this can easily be done.

FIRST AID EXAMINATION..

Last week the final examinations were held in the first aid classes, and forty-eight officers, non-commissioned officers and men passed for certificates. Those who were members of the class were of the 13th and 91st Regiments, Major Carter acting as instructor. The examining officers were Lieuts. Scarlett, Parry and Morrison, and these highly complamented Major Carter on the splendid results he had obtained.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVED.

There was no parade of the Thirteenth Royal last night, by special order of Lieut.-Col. Ross, who arranged that all programmes for the day be cut out. Next week the usual routine work will be gone on with. Recruits will drill on Tuesday and the weekly parade on Friday.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT.

It was noticed in orders that Capt. Scott, of the 13th, has been appointed assistant adjutant to Capt. Healey, and in addition will attend his company duties. This is a new appointment and one that has been long felt a necessity, and will materially help Capt. Healey, as at present he has more than he can attend to.

MARCHING AND FIRING.

On April the 25th the Thirteenth Royal marching and firing competition will take place at the ranges. The 91st will also have theirs around that date. No details have been arranged as yet.

INDOOR SHOOTING PRIZES.

When the Ninety-First Highlanders held their will attended and successful first parade of the season last Wednesday evenuing the men fully expected that the prizes for the indoor shooting matches of the year would be given out, but it was not done, as the list was not quite complete. They were, however, assured of this event taking place next parade night. Yesterday the list was completed, and by the courtesy of Lieut.Col. McLaren the results were given to the Times.

The junior cup match for the Klein & Binkley cup was won by A Company. Every score was good and a total of 337 was made out of a possible 350. Last year A Company made 317 out of the same possible, and this increase in proficiency comes in for a great deal of commendation:

C SQUADRON.

Hamilton's crack Dragoons under Major Ross are rapidly reaching a high grade of efficiency. Last week they had a troop and dismounted drill, which was done in a manner that earned instant approval from a few visitors. This is to be expected when they are officered by such men as Lieuts. E. Boyd, V. Grantham, Reg. Sloan, R. Farmer, Chas. Ross and Paul Powis.

AT THE RANGES.

Yesterday the musketry class under Majors Butcher, Diamond and Price, and the 38th regimental musketry class of Brantford, went out to the ranges and spent a number of hours in straight practice. This class has been receiving instructions at the armories all winter, and next week the examinations will take place. Any member of the garrison has the opportunity of joining this class, which is held about every two years. The Brantford class are instructed and will be examined in their own city.

XIX. F. A.

This unit will begin spring parades on April the 13th at 8 p.m. Recruits may apply at the company room on Monday and Friday evening of each week. All maps issued to officers taking part in tactical exercises are to be returned to divisional headquarters as soon as possible. The annual meeting of the corps will be held on Monday evening, April 13th, at 9 p.m., for the election of officers and committees. Major J. E. Davey is commanding officer.

CANADIAN ENGINEERS

Last Tuesday evening the Canadian Engineers, Major Inksetter in command, met, and uniforms were issued. Next Tuesday the men will drill, and as soon as the country roads get better wireless work will go on. Great results have been obtained in this branch during the winter.

IGNORES LABOR

Allan Studholme Complains of Vacant Benches

When Such Matters are Up in the House

Toronto, April 9.—To a thin attendance in the Legislature yesterday afternoon Mr. Studholme moved the second reading of his fair wages and eight hours bill. At one period Mr. Proudfoot raised the question as to whether or not there was a quorum, and the Clerk counting, only seventeen members were in the House. Then the bells were rung and several members made their way into the chamber, bringing up the number present to over the desired number.

Mr. Studholme did not miss the opportunity of pointing out that this exodus from the chamber when he was speaking was frequent, but that he always remained to listen as long as he could to others even though he was not particularly interested in the subject. They were always ready to listen to anything affecting a partisan question, but economic questions such as labor and wages did not appear to make the same appeal. Although suffering, as he said, from the late night sittings, the morning sittings, and the atmosphere, Mr. Studholme held on from about twenty minutes to five till six o'clock, and it was agreed to adjourn the debate until Tuesday.

In an expeditious manner the House passed a number of bills through committee. These included Mr. Foy's bills to amend the coroner's act, the land titles act, the Ontario insurance act, and the registry act; Mr. Lucas' bills to amend the succession duty act and the Surrogate Courts Act; and Mr. Duff's bill to amend the stationary engineers' act. With reference to the clause in the succession duty act, that duty shall be paid on any property given absolutely more than three years before the death of the donor to a child, son-in-law, or daughter-in-law, or to the father or mother of the donor, which does not in the case of one person exceed $20,000 in value or amount. Mr. Proudfoot asked why not make it one year. Hon. Mr. Lucas replied that they were following the English act, which went back three years.

Another stage of the water situation in Ottawa was reached. Hon. W. J. Hanna introduced a bill giving effect to the recent plebiscite in favor of mechanical filtration. In short the bill provides that if the Provincial Board of Health does not approve of the proposed scheme of mechanical filtration of Ottawa River water, costing $1,700,000, the municipality may proceed at once with the "31-Mile" Lake" scheme without further reference to the ratepayers. This latter scheme is estimated to cost $8,000,000.

BASINGSTOKE

On Tuesday, March 31st, there passed away at his late residence, an old and respected resident of the township of Caistor in the person of Mr. Davis Travis. Deceased had been in poor health for some time and was in the 72nd near of his age. Rev. Dr. Scanlan, of Smithville, conducted the funeral services at the house. Interment took place at the Merritt Settlement cemetery on Friday. The surviving members fo the family are Malcolm, of South Grimsby; Benjamin, on the old homestead, and one daughter, Mrs. O. Strander, near Dunnville.

THE FICKLE MOON

Seen By Hamiltonians in Detail Last Night.

Society Receives Cast of a Rare Model.

Dealing with the earth's nearest Celestial neighbor in a practical and convincing manner, H. B. Collier, Ph. B., of Toronto, and formerly president of the Peterboro Centre, entertained several hundred Hamiltonians interested in the moon and astronomy in general at the old library last evening. The affair was the regular open lecture, under the auspices of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, and the exceptional large attendance on a holiday night was emphatic endorsement to the president, W. Bruce, and the other officers, of their arrangement in having Mr. Collier return to the Ambitious City after a fine lecture last season. The speaker, assisted by James Gadsby, an active member of the local centre, illustrated his remarks to excellent advantage; in fact so interested his listeners that many would fain have remained even longer to absorb further knowledge of the sky, with which the lecturer seemed so well acquainted.

His early remarks dealt principally with a model of the moon, sculptured by the speaker's own hands during eight months of spare time. This interesting object was placed before the audience in an intelligent way. It has a diameter of twelve inches and for foundation had the wonderful Parisian prints of the Celestial body. In explaining the more common points of the latter, he alluded to the distance between the earth and its neighbor of 240,000 miles. This he had taken into consideration on working a model, which represented a hundred and eighty miles to the inch. "Some people have asked," he added, "why the model shows only half a moon. One must remember that all we ever see on earth of it is half, except at certain times, when various movements, called by us vibrations, allow us to see about fifty-nine per cent. of its surface. But the other side of the moon we never see and likely never will, although it may have been apparent in ages past."

In scientific circles, the model seen by Hamiltonians last night is known as the "Collier moon." With artistic skill, the speaker was able to depict the illusive wanderer of the sky in all its rugged grandeur of gaping craters, huge mountains, old ocean beds and other remarkable physical features. It was emphasized that on a scale of a hundred and eighty miles to the inch, the topograhy of the heavenly body was shown far more accurately and in greater detail than that of northern Canada, as known just now.

Mr. Collier gave Hamilton the credit for starting his astronomical career, stating that it was through a lecture given by Rev. Dr. Marsh, the eminent ex-Hamilton astronomer, that he was led to take up the study in a systematic manner. Referring to his inclination to art, he made a happy hit in expressing his appreciation for the beauties of Hamilton, particularly the "female beauties." "Over in Toronto the other day," he said, "a Hamilton young lady walked down Yonge street. Even the glass eyes in an optician's window could not refrain from turning to follow her in admiration."

Besides the "Collier moon," there was on exhibition a large number of enormous photographs of various sections of the earth's satellite, a series known as the Paris atlas. There were actual photographs taken, by a camera attached to the great telescopes of the Paris observatory. They are considered the finest series of pictures of the moon in existence. Two members of the staff devoted more than twelve years to this work, taking thousands of photographs in order to secure suitable ones for this atlas. Mr. Collier stated that in sculpturing his work he used these pictures as a basis, not only on account of their wonderful detail, but also as a foundation for accurate measurements. By such photographs it was possible to place every crater, every prominent physical feature, definitely by scale. Familiarity with the moon by telescopic observation was not sufficiently trustworthy, the eye alone being unable to transfer other than a somewhat indefinite impression.

"Some people claim the moon looks to them as big as a washtub; others a dinner plate; others a big pumpkin. It is quite startling to learn that the end of an ordinary lead pencil held at arm's length will hide the whole moon, or the sun either, from the eye," he pointed out.

An interesting feature the lecturer discussed was how small an object can be seen on the moon. Would a man be seen? Would a tree show? "The human eye can discern an object in size one-half minute of arc. This means, simplified, that an object one inch in diameter should be visible some 555 feet distant; or a beauty plaster of one-eighth inch on the fair cheek of a debutante be discernible 70 feet away," he said. The argument showed that even when magnified one thousand times through the largest telescopes in existence, an object bust be sixty yards square to even show as a mere speck on the moon. No human being would be seen. A single tree would not show. It would have to be a very large building to be discernible at a distance of 240 miles, to which the thousand power of the telescope would bring the moon to the eye. Nevertheless the wonderful detail shown through the telescope even with but 100-power was marvellous to behold.

At the close of the lecture Mr. Collier presented to the Royal Astronomical Society a plaster cast of his moon, Mr. William Bruce, the president, receiving same on behalf of the society. The speaker was heartily thanked for both the model and his excellent address.

Asparagus

(By Caroline Coe)

From the housewife's standpoint, one of the best things about asparagus is the ease with which it can be prepared. In fact, with a little boiling in a little water, with a little salt and butter, you have a dish fit for any king.

Asparagus should always be cooked with salt in the proportion of a teaspoonful to a quart of water.

It isn't easy to lay down a hard, fast rule as to the time to cook asparagus. But in general, if it is young and tender, about 15 minutes will suffice. On the other hand, if it is rather old and tough, it will be better for about 30 minutes' cooking.

The important thing to consider in buying asparagus is its freshness.

SERVING IT.

Asparagus can be served on a strip of buttered toast, dressed with pepper and salt and butter, or it can be served with a good cream sauce.

If the housewife prefers, she can make asparagus the foundation of the main dish in her luncheon. For instance, she can have an:

ASPARAGUS OMELET—To make which the tougher pieces can be used. Cut them in one-inch pieces and boil them slowly in salted water until quite tender. Beat the whites of three eggs wtih a pinch of salt, till they are stiff and dry, and then add the beaten yolks. Add a teaspoonful of cream to the mixture and then put in the inch-long asparagus, which should be quite soft.

Mix the asparagus and eggs lightly. Pour the mixture into an omelet pan or a skillet in which a little butter has been melted. Brown it slightly. Fold it, sprinkle it with salt and pepper and slip it on a hot platter. Garnish with sprigs of parsley.

ASPARAGUS LOAF is another luncheon dish. Put two tablespoonsful of butter in a small saucepan and when it is bubbling add a tablespoonful of flour. Then add a cupful of milk, slowly, stirring all the time. Season with salt and paprika. Cook the whole slowly until a creamy sauce results. This will take six or seven minutes probably. Remove from the fire, adding four well-beaten eggs and a cupful of asparagus tips, cooked until tender.

A beautiful woman with a sweet disposition is the loveliest of all earthly things. A woman who lacks beauty but possesses good nature may inspire love. A homely woman with an evil tongue is the most abhorrent thing that walks.

Three of the Grand Trunk officers, Mr. H. E. Wittenburger, General Superintendent of Ontario Lines, W. P. Fitzsimons, Commissioner of Indutrics and Mr. J. E. Duval, General Superintendent of Car Service, have just completed a tour of inspection in the St. Catharine's Thorold, Welland and Port Colbnorne districts. The Grand Trunk has a network of busy lines in this section of Ontario and the officials journeyed from point to point in a special train. The road and its equipment were found to be in excellent condition with an ample supply of cars to meet the demands of the ever growing traffic. The requirements of the new industrial plants, including calls for the construction of sidings, were examined and plans were made to uppsly extra shipping facilities where necessary.

"Industrial development is proceeding rapidly in these districts," said Mr. Fitzsimons, Commissioner of Industries, in speaking of the inspection tour.

"There is no pessisism among the manufacturers but on the other hand a hopeful outlook is general. New patterns and better designs are being sought and they are looking forward to a future not of commercial depression but of active trade."

"The deepening of the Welland Canal is causing quite a boom in trade in that zone. Agricultural and fruit growing prospects are very bright and new industries in connection with fruit growing are being planned. The Forest—Sarnia District, between the Grand Trunk Main Line and Lake Huron is coming along very fast and will soon be a real rival of the Niagara territory in fruit raising for a great deal of money is being spent there on the orchards. The flour mills at Goderich and the pig iron plant at Port Colborne are busy, indeed industrial conditions generally were found to be satisfactory."

FOUND FIRST CLUE

Pelts Floating Were From Southern Cross.

St. John's, Nfld.—April 10.—Seal pelts thought to have come from the missing sealing steamer Southern Cross were sighted to-day 70 miles south of St. Mary's Bay by the steamer Kyle, which has been searching the coast for a week. This is the first definite clue to the fate of the vessel, which was last reported off the southern coast on March 31.

The pelts are skins which have been roughly removed and to which considerable fat usually adheres, causing them to float readily. It is believed that they either were washed from the decks of the sealer or floated to the surface after she went down. None of the sealing fleet which came in last week from the St. Lawrence grounds, where the Southern Cross has been seal hunting, lost any pelts off the southern coast in the vicinity of St. Mary's Bay.

The Kyle reported by wireless that she would continue the search, though the weather was foggy.

HUERTA JUNTA MEN EXECUTED.

Nogales, Sonora, Mex., April 10.—Standing blindfolded on the brink of their open graves, Francisco Fimbres and Jose M. Canoba, members of a Huerta junta on the American side of the line were executed in the cemetery to-day. Fimbres was captured several days ago while carrying a message from the junta to Canoba, who was then at Montezuma.

ITALIAN RAIL STRIKE CERTAIN.

Rome, April 10.—The agitation among the railway men, who threaten a strike on April 16, is increasing, and the extremists are engaged in fomenting discontent among the employes of other other branches of the publis service, hoping to create such a situation as will oblige the Government to capitulate and grant their demands.

There is only a slight possibility of an understanding being reached between the Government and the Extremists, and the authorities have arranged for a limited service on the railraods and have taken all precautions to repress disorders.

I dislike an eye that twinkles like a star.—Longfellow.

Tonsilitis, Sore Throat, Chest Colds, Can Be Cured Over Night

They Vanish Quickly If Nerviline Is Well Rubbed In.

When the throat tickles, when it hurts to draw a long breath, when you feel as if a knife were stuck in your side, it's time to draw out the congestion that will soon become pneumonia.

An ordinary cough syrup has no chance at all—you require a powerful penetrating liniment.

Nothing is known that possesses more merit in such cases than Nerviline.

Rub it liberally over the sides and chest—rub it in hard.

The warm, soothing effect of Nerviline will be apparent in five minutes.

Nothing like it for quick relief—takes soreness out of the throat in one rubbing—breaks up the chest cold, draws out the inflammation, stops the cough quickly.

Rub it on for rheumatism—it destroys the pain—drives it right away. Try it for stiff muscles, swelled joints or toothache—it works miracles in just such cases.

Give Nerviline a chance on your neuralgia, prove it out for lumbago, see what it can do for sciatica.

No pain-relieving remedy compares in power to cure, with Nerviline. Largest sale in Canada of any liniment for nearly forty years. The reason it plain. It satisfies every time.

The large 50c family size bottle is more economical than the 25c trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Canada.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

Easter Greetings

IT is a pretty custom to send Easter boxes to your very dear friends. There is nothing more appropriate than to fill the boxes with eggs of many kinds, candy eggs, fruit eggs, and real eggs. The candy eggs are, course, ready for sending. The real eggs must be prepared. They are nice when devilled and the shells tinted with harmless colors, such as beet juice or a thin wash of water-color, with comical caricatures drawn on them with pencil or crayon. Or tiny chickens may be outlined with chalk of various colors and a spray of fixatif, commonly used for drawings, blown over them to hold the drawings. The "fruit eggs" are made in this way: Take the eggs and boil them very hard, and when cold, remove all the meat. The shells must be cut into exact halves. Then each half is filled with chopped figs, nuts and dates and stuck together again. A tiny ribbon is tied about the eggs to cover the seams. To hold the ribbon in place a bit of library paste may be put under it on the shell. When the assortment of eggs is ready for placing in the box, cover each with a piece of fringed tissue paper, twisting the fringed ends together after the manner of the old-fashioned "candy-kisses." Then lay them in rows in the box, wrap the box in pretty Easter paper and tie a ribbon about it.

The Bunnie's Easter Eve.

"NOW, my dear children, tomorrow is Easter Sunday and we must make many preparations for the day."

"Ah, so it is, Mamma," said Bunny White-foot, a dear little rabbit.

"Yes, so it is, Mamma," said Snouty White-foot, Bunny's little sister. "What shall we do for tomorrow?"

"Well," explained Mrs. White-foot, nodding her head and shaking her long ears, "we must go to the village and put some Easter eggs under the rose bushes in the yards of the villagers. You know the children will be out bright and early looking for eggs everywhere. So we must see that they are not disappointed. Come, let's go to the Easter Cave and get the fresh eggs."

Then Mrs. White-foot got the children's wraps for them and they were soon ready for starting to the Easter Cave far, far away. Mrs. White-foot put on her best bib and tucker and raised her pretty pink parasol, for the sun was very warm and bright.

"Ah, it is a lovely day for Easter Eve," said Mrs. White-foot, taking a large basket on her arm and leading her children out of the house to the fields. They lived in the edge of the woods; and the meadows, full of grain during the season, supplied them with fine food, and the roots and herbs in the forest supplied them during the winter. Mrs. White-foot was a very capable bunny, and kept her house in splendid order, being economical and industrious. She had always been considerate of Easter time, observing the customs of her own race. It had been her habit for years to go to a secret cave, called by the rabbits Easter Cave, and find the fresh eggs the fairies had placed there. These eggs she would take to the village for the little children living there.

After going across fields and through meadows and over hills for a long time, Mrs. White-foot turned from the straight course she had been pursuing into a little wooded path which wound around a steep hill. A creek trickled over a rocky bed and made music for the little White-foots who loved the song of the water as they loved the song of birds or of the winds in the grass.

Pretty soon Mrs. White-foot came to a ledge of rocks. There she paused and looked cautiously about her, at the same time holding up a warning paw to her little ones. "Not a sound must you make, my dears, as we draw near to Easter Cave, or we shall frighten the Easter Fairies."

"Yes, Mamma," whispered Bunny, a fine little fellow with extremely long ears.

"Yes, Mamma," said Snouty, a dear little miss with a very pink nose. "We shall creep like the little woolly worms and be as silent as butterflies."

Then all three Bunnies crept around the foot of the rock-covered hill and entered a leafless thicket of small trees and brush.

Once well inside the thicket Mrs. White-foot put out her hand and drew aside some vines which covered completely a small dark hole. A boy or girl could not possibly have crawled into that hole, had they tried to do so; but Mrs. White-foot went in without drooping her ears, being so small. And Bunny and Snouty followed her without touching the tips of their ears to the top of the cave, for cave it was.

After going several feet into the cave, Mrs. White-foot began feeling about gently, slipping her soft paw into the many crannies of the dark place. As she went about doing this she found many fine eggs, hidden in unexpected places. Once she found an egg tucked away into a little crevice over her head. She had some difficulty in getting it down and had to whisper very softly to Bunny to get upon her back and take the egg out of its very tight resting place with his two paws and then to hand it down to Snouty. The two little ones enjoyed all this very much and wished they might laugh aloud over their success, for they got the egg without causing so much as the tiniest crack to the shell.

Mrs. White-foot filled the basket with eggs; then touched her little ones with her paw as a signal to withdraw from Easter Cave. As they crept out, basket on Mrs. White-foot's arm, they heard a soft rattling of the vines and a form darkened the cave door. For an instant Mrs. White-foot's heart fluttered wildly. She had recognized the shadow as belonging to a wolf. And a wolf meant danger. She suddenly drew back into the cave and pushed her little ones behind her, not making a sound. The wolf had not seen her yet, and she hoped to hide from him.

"Not a sound must you make, my dears, as we draw near to Easter Cave."

Otherwise, there might be no Easter Sunday for Bunny and Snouty and herself.

As she drew back into the cave, the wolf advanced; but being a bit too large for the entrance, he was obliged to drop on his stomach and to crawl through the hole. He came in that way—creeping like a snake. When he passed into a roomier place, he arose and began prowling about, searching for eggs. Somehow, he had learned of this secret cave, and knew there would be a feast of Easter eggs should he get there before the rabbits came.

Immediately the wolf's nose came through the entrance, Mrs. White-foot drew into a corner nearest the entrance. She held Bunny and Snouty close to her, but had to abandon the basket of eggs, for she could not manage to hide them from the wolf—his nose would lead him to where they were. So she left the basket in the middle of the cave floor where the wolf would find it easily.

And so the wicked fellow did. He went straight to the basket and began nosing round it. Ah, yes, there were the Easter eggs! As he grinned in satisfaction, licking his chops in anticipation, Mrs. White-foot managed to steal softly out of the cave behind his back, pushing Bunny and Snouty ahead of her. Once they were outside the cave Mrs. White-foot turned and softly, but firmly, covered the door with the vines, securely fastening them over it so that the wolf would have much difficulty in getting out. This would give her ample time to get home with her little ones before the robber-wolf could come in pursuit.

"Oh, Mamma," wailed Snouty, once they were a safe distance from the cave, "wasn't it dreadful that the wolf came and got the Easter eggs? Now what shall we do about putting eggs in the yards of the villagers for their children?"

"Ah, my darling," said Mrs. White-foot, "we should not worry about the Easter eggs. We should be grateful we escaped with our lives. We had a close call, my little ones."

"Yes, Mamma, you are right," said Bunny. "We were lucky to make our escape, unhurt. That wolf's stomach was big and empty and he might have made three meals off us had he found us. You were very cautious and sensible, Mamma, and acted in the right way."

"Yes, darlings," said Mrs. White-foot. "But it will be a sad disappointment to the little villagers tomorrow morning, when, bright and early, they go to look for the Easter eggs brought by the bunnies and find none. It is very, very sad, my children. And although we rejoice at having escaped ourselves, we mourn the loss of the fine eggs."

At last Mrs. White-foot and her two children came in sight of their own home and to their wonder saw a great crowd of bunnies assembled round the door. What could this early morning gathering of neighbors mean? Mrs. White-foot feared some harm had befallen her house—a wind might have blown it down or a robber-animal might have got in and robbed her pantry.

She hastened her pace and so did Bunny and Snouty, and soon they came right up to the crowd assembled. "What does this meeting of my neighbors mean?" cried out Mrs. White-foot eagerly.

"Why, my dear friend," spoke one of the neighbor rabbits, "a most uncommon thing has happened. While I was passing here a bit ago—on my way to the Easter Cave, where I meant to go for some eggs, something large attracted my attention. It was something on your door step. I paused to see what it was, thinking you might have left the house, and that some one had brought something to you and had been obliged to leave it on the steps. Well, what do you think I found?—nothing more nor less than this basket of eggs." And the neighbor pointed to the identical basket of eggs that Mrs. White-foot had left in the cave for the intruding wolf. "Well, when I saw this, I was much astonished, and called to some of the neighbors to come and see it. They said you had departed an hour before for the cave, taking Bunny and Snouty with you, and that you could not possibly have returned yet. We then rang your door bell and called out to you, but there was no response. The house held no living creature. This gave us much wonderment. What could it mean—a basket of Easter eggs on your door step and you nowhere about."

"I am as much mystified as you are," declared Mrs. White-foot, going to the basket and examining it. "Yes, it is my basket—and filled with Easter eggs which I gathered in Easter Cave. What can be the meaning of this?"

Then Mrs. White-foot told of the visit of the wolf and of the almost miraculous escape of herself and children from the wicked creature, and how she had left the basket of eggs for him.

"I think I see it all," observed old Wisdom Rabbit, the sage of the woods. "The fairies had just planted the eggs about the cave when you arrived—for you went very early—and had not taken themselves off yet. So they, the little dears! saw the whole proceeding, and were good to you. They saved the eggs, and sent them by special fairy messenger to your house. That is the solution to the problem, I feel quite sure."

"Let's return to the cave and see what became of the wolf," suggested some of the neighbors. To this, all agreed, and the party—all save Bunny, Snouty and three of their little friends—started toward the cave. The children remained at home to keep watch over the basket and the house.

On arriving at the cave, Wisdom Rabbit crept silently into it, and after a few seconds he came out again, dragging a heavy burden behind him. It proved to be the wolf, dead! The good fairies had given him a stone egg and he had swallowed it whole, and had immediately died of acute indigestion. Thus had the wicked fellow paid the penalty of his wrongdoing, and he would never again rob the village children of their Easter eggs.

That night Mrs. White-foot, Bunny and Snouty took the basket of eggs to town and hid them about beneath lilac bushes and rose bushes in the yards where children lived, and on Easter Sunday morning the little folks found them lying in pretty little nests, and they cried out to one another: "Oh, the Bunnies have been here and left Easter eggs for us. Aren't the Bunnies good?"

EASTER LILY.

EASTER LILY, pure and fair,
Spreading sweetness everywhere:
Yielding up to Him above
Message of Earth-children's love.

At the altar it does bloom,
In the holy worship-room:
Close beside it children stand,
Singing Easter anthem, grand.

Children, like the lily be,
Full of rarest purity:
Ever strive to grow in grace;
Then you'll see the Savior's face.

Easter Lily, pure and fair,
Spreading sweetness everywhere:
Yielding up to Him above
Message of Earth-children's love.

The Boy and the Bowl

A LITTLE boy was carrying home an empty bowl which had contained his father's dinner. A big bully of the neighborhood met him and said: "S'pose I kick that bowl into pieces, Kid?"

"Go ahead and kick it if you want to," replied the little boy, holding the bowl at arm's length. "Don't make any difference to me."

"Ah, it don't, eh? Well, I'll make you change your mind," said the bully. And lifting his foot, he kicked the bowl from the boy's hand. It went to pieces on the hard pavement. "Now, I reckon your mother'll say something," said the bully, grinning.

"Oh, it'll be your mother who'll say something," smiled the little boy. "It's her bowl—my mother just borrowed it for an hour. You'd better pick up the pieces and run home." Then the boy ran and the bully stood staring at the broken bowl.

Easter Thoughts

OF late years, Easter Sunday has been given over too much to the adornment and feeding of one's body. It is not following the Christ spirit to devote the Holy Day of Easter—a day commemorating our Savior's resurrection—to frivolities and feasting. It is fitting that we should forget self and pleasures, and devote the day in praising our Creator and our Savior, and in doing deeds of kindness. Is there a better time for visiting the needy sick than on Easter afternoon? Is it not a day when, in Christ's name, we should give rather than receive? Let every boy and every girl say unto himself and unto herself, "I shall make some person, less fortunate than myself, happy on Easter." Then let them go forth among the highways and hedges and find those in need of their kindness. It will not be difficult to find a sick boy or girl whose Easter holds little of promise unless some one from without brings greetings of love and good cheer. Christ did not go among the happy and prosperous. They had no need of Him. He sought out those in the depths of misery. He was the Man of Sorrows, not the Man of vanity and mirth. He suffered the pain of His brothers, for all were his brothers in that they were the children of God.

There is no better time to study the Christ spirit than during the Easter time, and no more propitious day for doing good than Easter Sunday. When you sit down to your great dinner just remember the starving children in the slums, and you will also without satisfying your appetite and go with food to some sufferer you know about. Then, having fed those so much in need of food, you will return to your own table with a sense of having done something in His Name which will make your heart light and your conscience clean.

If you have never thought along this line before, begin to do so now and make a sacred vow to "do unto others as you would have others do unto you." Begin on Easter Sunday and continue throughout the year of 1912. "Cast thy bread upon the waters," should be your motto. Yes, and it will return to you after many days—return to you in the sweet consciousness that you have made the world better by living in it, that charity and brotherly love have each a full meaning, understood by you.

Do not spend the Holy Easter Sunday in vanities and feasting.

THE EASTER LILY FAIRY.

LENA sat by the window, looking out into the cold night. Though it was Easter Eve, and warm weather was hoped for, a dismally cold rain was falling, and things were gloomy enough. In the room with Lena lay a woman on a bed of sickness. And every few minutes Lena would rise and creep softly to the bedside to see whether or not the patient wished for anything.

"A drink of water, please, Miss Lena." The request came from the sick woman, and Lena hurriedly arose and handed her a glass of water. "And how are you to night, my dear?" asked Lena cheerily. "You are looking so much better than you did yesterday. Your fever has gone; your hands feel cool and your pulse stronger."

"Yes, dear Miss Lena, I am improving in body; but in mind— Oh, if only I could hear from my boy!" And the sufferer groaned in mental agony.

"I have written three times," said Lena. "Twice to his last employer—who does not reply—and last time to the postmaster of the camp, asking if such a young man inquires at the office for mail. I explained also in that letter that Fred Richardson's mother was very ill and wanted to see her son. We should have a reply from the postmaster tomorrow—or no, tomorrow is Sunday. We should hear on Monday." And Lena stroked gently the ill woman's hand.

Lena was the daughter of a poor carpenter, and with her father lived in the same tenement house with Mrs. Richardson. A week before the opening of this story Mrs. Richardson had taken ill, and being too poor to engage a nurse, the kind neighbors had taken turns nursing her. Easter Eve had fallen to Lena, and the girl had come into the sick room to spend the night waiting on the patient. It distressed her sorely to hear the sick woman's continuous plaint, "Oh, if only I could see my boy—or even hear from him!"

Fred Richardson, son of the sick woman, had left home in the early fall to find employment in the far West. During the winter he had worked for a business man in a mining camp, and his mother had received letters and money from him regularly. But with the spring all communication from him had ceased, and his mother's anxiety was most heartrending. Day after day she watched for the letter that never came. And at last illness had come upon her, and now she lay stretched upon her back, receiving the charity of her kind neighbors.

"I feel very, very sure we'll get news from Fred on Monday, dear Mrs. Richardson. And now you must have your soup and then sleep a bit. I shall run across the street and get some celery to give a relish to your soup. I shan't be gone a minute.

Then Lena threw on a shawl and went across the street to a green grocer's shop where she bought a nice stalk of celery. As she was about to retrace her steps to the tenement house, she heard a voice at her elbow; "Please, pretty Miss, buy my last Easter lily! It is fresh and will bloom a long time. As it is my last, I will sell it for a quarter."

Lena turned to look at the vendor and his wares, and she saw a bright-faced little street-salesman, holding out to her a pretty potted Easter lily. Only a quarter! It was remarkably cheap. And perhaps it would cheer up poor sick Mrs. Richardson. Lena examined the contents of her purse. Yes, she could spare the quarter. Father would bring home his week's earnings, and Lena found she had more than a dollar left from the last week's allowance her father has given her. She bought the lily and ran quickly across the street. At the door she met her father who was just returning home. He kissed her and warned her against running out into the rain. "You should have waited for me, child," he said. "I am big and hardy and can endure exposure. You should be spared. But—what have you there?" And he pointed to the lily.

"An Easter lily for Mrs. Richardson," said Lena, as they entered the dim hall and started to ascend the stairs. "I hope it will cheer her up a bit. It cost a quarter, Daddy, and maybe it was foolish for me to spend—"

"Not a bit of it, child," replied the good man. "I have some good news for you, my little girl. I have been promoted as foreman on that big factory, and the contractor said he would give me a year's contract. So, we'll not be so hard-up henceforth, my little Easter Lily—for that's what you are to me, my dear daughter."

"Oh, Daddy, what good luck! and on Easter Eve, too," exclaimed Lena. "And maybe we'll take a four-room flat near the park, and we'll have some new things for the house, too, won't we?"

"Won't we? Well, I just reckon. But how is our sick woman?" he added. "Mustn't forget others in our own good-fortune."

"Oh, she's continually worried about Fred," said Lena. "It breaks me all up to hear her go on. I can't understand why Fred should act so. But maybe something has happened to him. I must hurry, though, for it's time for her soup. Your supper is on the table, Daddy, and the coffee, hot, on the back of the stove. I couldn't wait for you, so ate my supper early and went up to Mrs. Richardson. I'll see you at breakfast, Daddy. Goodnight."

Lena went softly into the sick woman's room and found her asleep. She put the Easter lily on a small table and placed it close beside the bed where the woman's eyes would rest on first opening them. Then she crept to the kitchen, closed the door and began preparing some soup. Just how many minutes went by Lena did not know, but after some little time she heard a noise as if some one opening and shutting Mrs. Richardson's front-room door. She left her work and went to see if some of the neighbors had entered. As she opened the living-room door—the room which also served as Mrs. Richardson's bedroom—she beheld a tall form standing near to the bed. Lena was on the point of crying out when the form turned and waved her to silence. Then Lena saw that the unexpected visitor was Fred, the sick woman's son.

Fred, with warning fingers, tiptoed to Lena, shook both her hands warmly and led her into the kitchen. He closed the door, behind them; then said in a whisper: "Has mother been sick long? Is she in a serious condition?"

"Only seriously ill mentally—over you," said Lena, feeling a bit bitter against the returned "prodigal."

"Yes, things have appeared bad against me," he went on. "But, Lena, I can explain everything. Early in the spring I went with some prospectors up into the mountains. We staked out claims and have been working them. We had a fellow who was to carry our mail to the station—forty miles away. He was also cook and dish-washer. We trusted him, thinking him an honest fellow. Well, the other day he ran away and left behind him a confession, saying that he had opened our letters, taken out the money they contained—money we were sending to our dear ones back home—and that he had then destroyed the letters. You see, I had written mother twice, telling her of our camp, and its isolation, and said that she could not hear from me often as it took four days for our man to go mule-back to and from the railroad station—our nearest post-office. I inclosed in my first letter half the money I had—twenty-five dollars. In my second letter, a month later, I sent fifteen dollars, keeping a little for myself for a business purpose. Well, it so happened that our trusty was a thief and took himself off on his spoils, and that dear mother not only failed to get the money, but to hear from me as well. But," and Fred's face was aglow, "I have good news, Lena. My partners and I struck something good up in those far-away mountains. It is only silver—but, gee! silver counts for a good deal, let me tell you."

"Listen, it is she now, awake! Hear her talking to herself?" And Lena stepped softly to the living-room door and opened it. She then returned. "Yes, your mother is awake, lying with her eyes drinking in the Easter lily. Shall I tell her you are here? Or do you wish to surprise her in person?"

"You'd better prepare dear old mother," said Fred. Lena went into Mrs. Richardson's room. The sick woman raised herself on her elbow. "Dear," she said to Lena. "I had a strange dream awhile ago. I dreamed I opened my eyes and saw a fairy standing on the table beside my bed. The fairy waved her wand and said to me, 'Your son will appear.' Then I suddenly awoke and there—on the table—was an Easter lily. And see it—there, so beautiful and fair? Or am I still dreaming of a fairy that has turned into a lily?"

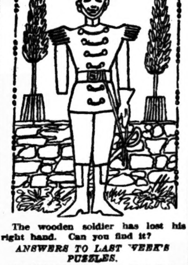
"No, Mrs. Richardson, you are not dreaming now. Perhaps it was a dream about the fairy—still, it shall come true. Fred is here and is waiting to speak to you."

There is no need to tell you what occurred then. But that Easter Eve found much happiness in that room, and the sick woman began to recover from the moment she set eyes on her Fred. And Lena was so happy that she ran and called to her father to come up and rejoice with them, which the good man did. And as they took their leave that night—for Lena's attention to the sick woman was no longer required, Fred being there to wait on her lovingly—Mrs. Richardson said:

"After all, Lena, I do believe a fairy came tonight, and that she later turned into that lily." And Lena did not have the heart to tell her that she had bought the lily from a little street-vendor for a quarter. "When she is well and strong I'll tell her," Lena said to her father as they descended the stairs to their own apartment.

And on the morrow the sun came forth and the day was glorious, just such an Easter Sunday as is dear to the hearts of all.

"Please, pretty Miss, buy my last Easter lily."



The wooden soldier has lost his right hand. Can you find it?

LENNOX

NOW IN NEW YORK.

Charles W. Finch, of Finch Bros., is spending the Easter holidays in New York. Incidentally he will visit the fashion centres and buy novelties for the spring—exactly what is being worn this Easter time there—in millinery, neckwear, gloves, parasols, coats, suits, waists, etc.

The patrons of this well-known and popular store in the west end may rest assured that everything is being done to bring to Hamilton the newest and best, and what will be the correct styles for spring. Watch this paper for future announcement.

LENNOX

Invites every person to his trunk and leather goods shop. Because we make a fine display in our windows and shop we want the public to know that we keep the lower priced goods in suit cases at $1.00, travelling bags at $2.49, trunks $2.50 up, and we claim to give the best value in Hamilton. Come in and see our large assortment of trunks and leather goods. Nothing better on the continent.
